NATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO THOMAS EDISON

Simple Rites Held for Inventor.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Orange, N. J., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison was buried this afternoon in Rosedale cemetery, a few miles from the place where he lived the most productive years of his long life. A simple funeral service attended by 200 relatives and friends of the family was held in the inventor's rambling red Victorian mansion in Llewelyn Park.

Inventions that Mr. Edison had either perfected or made possible served him in death as they continue to serve mankind. Telephones flashed the prayers said above his bier to waiting; lights glowed in the dim corners of the old house where the brilliant sunlight could not penetrate, and phonograph loud speakers were used to transmit the Methodist Episcopal funeral ceremony said over the body of the 84 year old agnostic to the family, the members of which remained secluded in upstairs bedrooms.

Servants Listen Outside.

A group of servants, workmen, and neighbors who had driven their mascot to Mr. Edison's funeral stood or lounged on the grassy lawn at the side of the mansion listening to the words of the preachers, the simple, old-fashioned songs, and the strains of a selection wafted to them over a small loud speaker on the veranda. Outside on the lawn under a knobby old oak tree stood two vacant easy chairs. A vase of flowers had been placed between them and oak leaves littered over the seats. They were the chairs that Mr. and Mrs. Edison had used for so many years as they sat chatting under the friendly old tree.

Lights Out a Minute.

In many parts of the nation tonight the incandescent lamp that Edison gave to the world exactly 52 years ago became a symbol of mourning for him. At 10 o'clock [E. S. T.] lights were dimmed for a minute in honor of his memory.

On orders of the President the lights in and about the White House were dimmed. All was quiet for a minute and occupants of the big mansion sat or stood still for the period.

For the second time in history, and for the first time intentionally, the lights on the Goddess of Liberty in New York harbor, which have been a beacon since 1885—when the electric light was six years old—were dimmed.

Mrs. Hoover Attends.

All day long automobiles swished through the autumn leaves sprinkling the driveway bringing distinguished guests to the Edison home. Mrs. Herbert Hoover, clad in a black velvet coat, and black silk dress, came early in the afternoon, accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Aida Dodgson of Washington. President Hoover had been unable to attend the funeral of his old friend because of official business. Col. Campbell Hodge, a White House aid, was present, as was Col. Francois Pilon, military attaché at the French embassy, assigned to represent Marshal Petain.

Mr. Edison's two closest friends, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, were present, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Swope and a host of others. The family did not give out a list of the invited guests.

Others seated on camp chairs in the drawing room included Clarence Mackay and his wife, the former Anna Case; Samuel Insull, Owen D. Young, Joseph R. Ochs, Charles M. Schwab, Arthur Brisbane, and Matthew S. Dudley.

Burial in Rosedale cemetery.

After the simple but impressive services the guests departed and the Edison family was left alone with the body of the great inventor. A few brief minutes elapsed and then the hearse, followed by members of the family and relatives in automobiles, wound through the wooded estate, brilliant in its autumn foliage, out past the great stone gate where three thousand persons had massed to pay their last respects and down an avenue lined with trees to Rosedale cemetery in East Orange.

Prayer was said over the coffin and the body of the world's greatest inventor was given back to the earth.

Southwest of the burial plot is the new grave of John Ott, Mr. Edison's assistant for many years, who died in shock soon after learning of the death of the inventor.

For four days and four nights police will maintain a guard of honor

OFFICIALS ACT TO SPEED PAY FOR TEACHERS

City Council Backs $7,000,000 Plan

The city council, by a formal resolution, and the board of education, in informal discussion, yesterday urged the fulfilment of a plan to obtain nearly $7,000,000 to apply on the back salaries of school employés who have received no cash since April.

The preliminary legal groundwork for the plan was also laid during the day. Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, who was chairman of the meeting attended by attorneys and representatives of school employés on Tuesday night at the Union League club, at which the pay proposal was first broached, communicated with Chapman and Cutler, bond attorneys.

Promises Early Opinion.

From this firm he obtained a promise of an opinion, to be delivered within 48 hours on the legality of raising the interest rates from 4 per cent to 6 per cent on $6,965,000 worth of the school board 1930 educational fund tax warrants, now held in the city treasury.

Under the plan for raising the pay roll fund, these warrants, made more attractive by the higher interest rate, would then be sold, and the proceeds used to purchase 1931 tax warrants of the school board, thus putting some cash in the school pay chest for the first time in many months.

The Council Resolution.

The council's resolution yesterday, introduced by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], called upon the board of education to take advantage of the authority offered it under a previous ordinance. A copy of the resolution was delivered a few minutes after its passage to the school board offices.

It was taken up immediately in the board's administrative committee, which was meeting at the time. Chairman John A. English had invited all of the trustees who were not members of the committee to attend the meeting.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage urged the board not to wait for the opinion of the bond attorneys on the legality of raising the interest, but to put the plan into effect immediately. President Lewis E. Myers and Trustee English dissuaded him.

In the first place, President Myers said, the action cannot legally be taken except at a regular meeting of the board. The next regular meeting is on Wednesday. Furthermore, he pointed out, it was agreed at the Union League club meeting that no action would be taken to raise the interest on the warrants until the bond attorneys' opinion was obtained, so that the resolution embodying the action might conform with the terms of the opinion.

Judge Finnegan Optimistic.

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who called the meeting at which the warrant sale plan was brought forth, was optimistic yesterday of its success. He summoned the meeting after a hearing on a plea for an injunction restraining the school board from issuing any more scrip for payment of salaries or bills. The board, while not formally enjoined, has agreed to stop the scrip issue.

"I don't know of any one who has made a definite bid for those 1930 warrants," said Judge Finnegan, "but I feel certain that somewhere in this town there are a score of citizens with money enough and enough public spirit to step forward and meet this public emergency."

Mayor Cermak, who in the past has held that the problem of paying their own employés lay on the shoulders of the school trustees, also spoke a word in favor of the plan when the resolution was pending before the council.

"The school teachers are all part of the city family," he said, "just as much as the firemen and police."

Robert Hayne Leavell, a member of the committee appointed to represent 2,000 south side school teachers who met at Hyde Park High school to discuss the pay situation, said:

"I feel that their discussion this afternoon shows that the members of the board of education will do everything they can to aid the project. Our committee has every confidence that they will do as the city council requested."

TEACHERS APPROVE PLAN

Following the lead of the south and west side teachers, the north side school teachers met in the Lake View High school yesterday and approved a program, already adopted by the others, for payment of their back salaries.

Under the chairmanship of W. R.

5 DEAD, 4 BURNED IN BLAZING FLAT; HEROIC RESCUES

One man perished, a five year old girl who was thrown from an upper floor into the arms of a rescuer, was fatally injured and four other persons suffered serious burns when fire swept through the three flat building at 160 West Oak street late last night. There was only one exit to the structure.

The dead man was identified as Aubrey Lay, 44 years old. The police said there was evidence that Lay caused the blaze accidentally when he started a fire in the furnace near which his body was found.

The little girl who died early this morning of her injuries was Doris Boehm. The others injured are Mrs. Mary Boehm, 29 years old, Charles Carlson, 35 years old; Gideon Frizen, 23 years old, and John H. Sherry, 72 years old, a rheumatic cripple. All were taken to the Henrotin Memorial hospital.

On the third floor Mrs. Boehm and her daughter were trapped. She knotted two bed sheets together, ran to the second floor, and threw the sheet-line through a window, hoping to use it in lowering Doris to the ground. A moment later Fireman George Wolheim of hook and ladder No. 3 signaled her to drop the girl. She did, and Wolheim caught her. Nick Margiotta, 3419 Belden avenue, and Leo C. Zajac, 918 North Wells street, fought their way through smoke and saved Mrs. Boehm.

At the same time Morris Reizner, 353 West Oak street, and August Dinovo, 11236 South Talman avenue, dashed in and saved Sherry. Deputy Bailiff Joseph Fogarty and Deputy Court Clerk John Moloney aided firemen in saving Carlson and Frizen.

Golden Card Tournament Is Announced to Help Charity

As a contribution to Chicago relief funds—unemployment and hungry school children—THE TRIBUNE this morning announces the Golden Card Tournament.

Every devotee of contract bridge in Chicagoland is invited to participate in the tournament. On an evening to be announced later, the great army of bridge fans in the middle west will match wits against one another in the privacy of their homes, at their favorite clubs, in hotels—in any gathering place where congenial spirits meet around a card table to consider the failing pasteboards.

Idea Sweeps Chicagoland.

Not the ordinary tournament this. In many cities and towns of the Chicago area where the plan was announced yesterday by newspapers cooperating with THE TRIBUNE, the idea has caught like wild fire. Women's clubs and social organizations began planning with high enthusiasm to enter the tournament. Many a hostess, seeking the unusual in entertainment, grasped eagerly at this opportunity to provide a novel bridge party for her guests.

The reason for the immediate and intense interest in the Golden Card tournament is this:

Through a unique arrangement, every table of four players will play the same hands. At the announced hour, each player will have a sealed deck of cards provided by THE TRIBUNE. This deck will have been arranged in a certain order, determined by a leading bridge authority, in the factory. There will be four varied assortments of the cards, one for each player at a table.

How It Will Work Out.

Thus, Mrs. Smith of Des Moines, Ia., hostess to a quiet little party of four tables, will open her deck and deal the cards at her table. At the next table, the same arrangement of cards will be held by each of the four players.

But that is not all. In a great hotel in Chicago, 400 players at 100 tables will break open sealed decks. And at each one of those tables, the same arrangement of the cards will be played as in the Smith home in Des Moines.

In a small suburban home, Mr. Brown, his wife, their daughter and son-in-law will sit down to play.

Same Problem for All.

Mrs. Smith of Des Moines and her guests, the players at the Chicago hotel, and the Brown family will all be confronted with the identical problem at the same time.

At the same minute in cities of five states, at least 50,000 players—and a bridge expert said this was a modest estimate—will be pondering the possibilities of the same hand, a hand which, of course, has remained a secret until that moment.

Four hands will be played, each player at a table opening his sealed deck in turn. There will be a liberal time limit, allowing each player to extract every point from his hand that his ability makes possible.

Then You'll Hear from Experts.

At the conclusion of the time allowed to play the four hands, THE TRIBUNE'S radio station, W-G-N, will broadcast the playing of the hands as leading authorities on the game would play them. Each player may then compare his playing with that of the experts.

The leading scores are to be mailed in to THE TRIBUNE and analyzed by experts in this newspaper's bridge department. Those players adjudged to have played the best hands will be invited to attend the Golden Card Finals in Chicago and a champion team will be selected after a series of games with a cup as prize.

The players in the Golden Card tournament will keep their decks of cards as souvenirs. The cards will be beautifully engraved and symbolic of the occasion.

To Help the Needy.

In addition to the stimulation of matching their ability against a host of other bridge players and gaining the handsome cards as souvenirs, competitors in the tournament will help to contribute to the relief of the poor and unemployed and the hungry school children this winter. Two dollars will be charged for each sealed and engraved deck of cards. THE TRIBUNE has arranged for these cards to be printed at special prices and every penny above the expenses of printing will be donated to relief funds.

The date when the tournament is to be played will be announced soon. It will probably be a Saturday evening late in November. Entry blanks will now be furnished upon request and decks of cards will be mailed upon the receipt of check or money order.

Participants are asked to watch THE TRIBUNE for all details, which will be announced as decided upon.

Baby Dies of Injuries from Fall 10 Months Ago

Two year old Primitio Delunro fell three floors from a window of his home at 8533 Burley avenue in December, 1930. He died yesterday, ten months later, as a result of partial paralysis caused by the fall. The boy's fall was broken by bushes and at the time he did not appear to have been seriously injured.

Mrs. Judd Has Killed Herself, Police Think

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The obscurity into which she vanished here last Monday afternoon continued tonight to shroud the whereabouts or fate of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, sought as the murderess of her two former Phoenix girl friends, Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Leroi.

A succession of wild goose chases kept police active. Tips sent them to Hollywood, to Venice, to Longbeach, to San Bernardino, and instigated similarly futile quests by San Diego and Imperial valley police near the Mexican border.

Constant watch over the Beverly Glen cabin of Mrs. Judd's brother, Burton McKinnell, where, it was suspected, the brother took or directed his sister last Monday, brought no developments.

Mr. McKinnell and Dr. William C. Judd, the husband of the hunted woman, were free today, having been released after hours of questioning.

Feared She's Suicide.

As the murder search entered its third day without a trace of Mrs. Judd, County Attorney Lloyd Andrews of Phoenix, in charge here of the case for Arizona authorities, leaned to the view expressed by Dr. Judd and by Los Angeles authorities, that Mrs. Judd probably will be found dead by her own hand.

Prosecutor Andrews said that evidence in Phoenix forced him to conclude that Mrs. Judd had no assistance in the killings. "Tracks on the driveway of the Leroi apartment," he said, "lead to only one conclusion. First, she shot the women. Then she went to the garage and dragged a trunk to the apartment. If she had an assistant, the trunk would have been carried, not dragged."

Short of Money, He Says.

"Her conversation with the transfer man whom she called, after which she changed the destination of the trunks from the railroad station to her apartment, in order to change the bodies from one trunk to two trunks and avoid the excess baggage fee, makes it seem plain."

Another Arizona officer said: "If she had a helper it would not have been necessary to go around to as many friends as she did trying to borrow money to get out of town."

Although some hints were given yesterday that narcotics may have played a part in the crime, today, for the first time, Prosecutor Andrews made public some of the facts in his possession.

Husband's Letter Revealed.

A letter sent by Dr. Judd, then in Los Angeles, to his wife in Phoenix Oct. 6, reads:

"You want to get hold of yourself. Your taking this stuff is so absurd and unreasonable it is no use saying anything about it. You don't need it anyway. And it will knock your nervous system to a fare you well if you don't cut it out. It is far more injurious than morphine and of absolutely no benefit, even temporary, to you.

"Nothing was faithful, nothing true, but Miss Leroi and God and you.

"Now, believe me, Ruth, you had better take this thing and think over a little. There is nothing to be proud of in saying, 'I am going crazy and can do nothing.'"

Letter From Mrs. Judd.

A letter written to Dr. Judd by his wife, dated last Aug. 17, reads in part:

"You must know that I love you very much. Life without you would be a blank. I just would not know what to do. For the last few years we have had an awful time; that is, breaking away from the stuff, and never completely getting away from it. Then I thought a year at Whipple [government hospital at Prescott, Ariz.] and here ought to be a rest from it.

"Well, you could get Cheraco [for cough] and now that you can get it

WORLD CRISIS TO BE SUBJECT OF TWO CHIEFS

Premier Has Message for U. S.

BULLETIN.

New York, Oct. 22 (Thursday).—(AP)—The liner Ile de France, carrying Premier Laval of France on a visit to President Hoover, arrived at Sandy Hook at 2:45 a. m., eastern standard time, today.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Premier Pierre Laval of France, arriving to discuss with President Hoover matters of international importance, will land at New York this morning on his first visit to the United States and receive from Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, and Mayor Walker the greetings of the nation and the city.

The 48 year old French statesman and his party—which includes the premier's 19 year old daughter, Jose—are expected to step from the French liner Ile de France to the city tug Macom at quarantine at 7:30 a. m., arrive at the Battery an hour and a half later, and parade up Broadway with an escort of mounted policemen to the city hall, where they will receive New York City's official welcome at 9:30 o'clock. In his reply at city hall, according to word last night from the Ile de France, Premier Laval may make the most significant speech of his five day stay in America.

At 11 a. m. M. Laval will depart by train from the Pennsylvania station for Washington, where he is to be received by President Hoover at 6 p. m. and be the guest of honor at a state dinner at the White House at 8 o'clock.

A MOMENTOUS MEETING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—President Hoover and Washington officials today made final preparations for welcoming Prime Minister Laval of France and his party, due to arrive at New York tomorrow. President Hoover wirelessed the nation's welcome to M. Laval this afternoon as the Ile de France neared its destination.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson with the capital welcoming party left for New York where he will officially welcome the prime minister and his party and escort them back to the capital.

The President's message read as follows:

"His excellency, Pierre Laval, president of the council of ministers of France, S. S. Ile de France:

"As you near the shores of the United States I take great pleasure in extending to you a most cordial welcome in my own name and in that of my fellow countrymen."

Many Topics on Tap.

Washington officials expect that the discussions between American and French officials will begin as soon as the special train leaves New York. During the journey it is expected that some agreement will be reached as to the topics which will be discussed by M. Laval with President Hoover and state and treasury department officials.

The lid seems to be off as far as the range of topics is concerned. President Hoover has made it known that war debts are to be a subject of conversation. Administration officials have admitted that the question of extending the war debt and reparations moratorium, as well as war debt revision, would be discussed.

Officials close to the President have said that the advisability of trading war debt revision for armament reduction by Europe may come up. Some of the other reported topics follow:

Disarmament and a program to insure success at the Geneva conference next February.

A Guarantee for France.

A consultative pact or some firmer guarantee of French security in event of threats of war.

The gold standard, distribution of gold holdings and maintenance of the value of the franc and dollar.

Establishment of a world currency.

Support of British and German financial systems.

Convocation of an international economic or monetary conference.

Modification of the Volstead act to permit American importation of French wines.

In high administration quarters it was said tonight that this government expects the exchange of views will be limited to discussions and not take on the aspect of negotiations. It was stated that Premier Laval is coming to the United States primarily for an exchange of views, not for bargaining.

Evidences of an inclination on the part of the United States to bow to the European demand for adoption of the budgetary method of limiting armaments were noticeable in Washington tonight.

The United States is about ready to recede from its former position of flat opposition to reductions in the size of battleships, a project which has been advanced vigorously by British statesmen as well as leading pacifist organizations in both countries.

During the preliminary arms limitation discussions at Geneva last spring the American delegation registered opposition both to the budgetary formula for limiting armaments and the reduction of either battleship tonnages below the present limit of 35,000 tons or the size of the largest guns carried by the capital ship.

The Budgetary Plan.

Under the budgetary system as now proposed, all signatory nations would agree to make some fixed percentage cut in their expenditures for army, navy, and air upkeep. The amount each nation would be limited to spending for armaments would be based on a fixed percentage of the average amount each nation had been expending in recent years.

Officers of the American army and navy are staunchly opposed to the budgetary method on the ground that it could not be made effective. It is also argued that if placed in operation it would favor the poor nation over the rich.

SHIP NEARS U. S.

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

ABOARD THE S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, Oct. 21.—Premier Laval spent today—his last day aboard ship before reaching America tomorrow morning—in finishing the speech he is to make at the city hall in New York. The English text of it has been wireleased to Secretary Stimson by Theodore Marriner, counsellor of the American embassy in Paris, who is attached to the Laval mission as political liaison officer.

It is expected the address will deal with the world's economic and financial structure. M. Laval considers this first public appearance in the United States as a real opportunity for explaining the French position to the American people.

Will Talk Disarmament.

As to disarmament, that topic undoubtedly will be the subject of full and frank talks between the premier and Mr. Hoover, who are expected also to discuss the intimately related subject of security.

In the French view, real accomplishments in that field will await the assembling of the disarmament conference at Geneva next February. The White House talks may well lay the groundwork for future disarmament decisions, but to expect immediate concrete decisions from the Laval visit is to misinterpret the scope of his mission, according to his advisers.

Just how the sought-for financial and economic accords are to be worked out remains to be disclosed. As to the necessity of the franc and dollar pursuing more or less identical paths during the present world monetary crisis, there appears little difference of opinion, either in France or the United States.

Oppose Currency Depreciation.

There is an impression abroad, with respect to the gold standard, that the siren call of currency depreciation as a means of raising the price of commodities would be disastrous for both France and the United States and it is said that neither nation will show any enthusiasm for the suggestion of a world monetary and economic conference to deal with this subject—at least not in advance of a clearcut Franco-American understanding on monetary matters.

Reports reaching M. Laval during the voyage have told of progress made by French and American financial experts in New York. These discussions can now be broadened in Washington to include debts and reparations.

German Future at Stake.

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Chancellor Bruening's chances of putting Germany's finances in order in no small measure will depend upon the outcome of the conversations between President Hoover and Premier Laval, in the opinion of competent political and financial circles here, and it is chiefly this aspect of the impending White House conferences that Germany is concerned with.

While official quarters decline formally to discuss the outlook for a concrete accord between the American President and the French premier, the immediate bearing of their meetings on the trend of the world crisis is freely conceded and the event is being envisaged as one of the most momentous episodes in a long chain of recent international parleys.

"Key to World Problems."

"When Laval faces Hoover in the White House there will meet two men who hold the key for solving the world's economic and political problems, and their encounter will be successful if each is conscious of the influence on international economy and world peace of the understanding they will reach," a well known industrialist leader declared today.

Nations Urged to Unite for Battle on Depression

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—International coöperation, political, economic, and financial, to rescue the world from its slough of despond was urged by a group of statesmen, leaders of industry, soldiers and educators from various countries assembled in New York today.

Those who united in pleading for close collaboration by all nations were speakers at the eighth conference of major industries at Columbia university, held under the auspices of Columbia and the Instituto of American Meat Packers with the coöperation of the chamber of commerce of the State of New York and the Merchants' association.

Reparations, economic collaboration between industries of various countries transcending international lines, abolition of tariff barriers and extension of good will as essential to peace and stabilization were subjects discussed at the conference. The keynote of world peace and coöperation was again emphasized in the evening at "a friendship dinner" in the Waldorf-Astoria, which closed the conference.

Former Warrior Urges Peace.

Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, former chief of the British imperial staff, and Baron Wilhelm von Prittwits and Graffon, German ambassador to the United States, were among those who appealed for peace and international amity at the dinner. They found support from Yukio Ozaki, Japanese statesman.

At the conference preceding the dinner Dr. Wilhelm Cuneo, former German chancellor and now chairman of the Hamburg-American line, proposed a program of coöperation of steamship lines of all leading nations as part of a general plea for world rehabilitation on the basis of concerted international action.

The world is now confronted with the old question, "to be or not to be," declared the former chancellor, and upon the answer which the nations give, he said, will depend the very existence of the present social order.

Sooner or later, said Dr. Cuneo, a time must come when mankind will realize that the question of "to be or not to be" can be answered only in the affirmative if all nations unite their forces and work together.

"We can only hope that this is not far off, and that it will then still be possible to build a safe dam against the economic and financial catastrophe that looms ahead of us," Dr. Cuneo said. "As long as we lack a complete change in the attitude of the nations toward one another instead of against one another all hope for renewed prosperity of world economics is in vain and the prosperity of the few remaining countries which today are suffering least from the world crisis can only be a matter of short duration."

German Steel Man Heard.

A speaker at the conference who touched on several questions which Premier Laval is expected to discuss with President Hoover was Dr. Fritz Thyssen, chairman of the United Steel works of Germany. He urged cancellation of reparations as a first step necessary to the recovery of Germany and of Europe. As a preliminary to the solution of this problem, Dr. Thyssen suggested the necessity for adjusting the questions arising from the recent extension of short term loans held by Germany and the expiration of the Hoover moratorium next year.

Other speakers at the conference were Andre Citroen, French automobile manufacturer, who offered a proposal for the establishment of an international automobile cartel to operate in 107 countries; Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, who discussed the agricultural problem of the United States; Dr. Carl S. Von Siemens, head of the Siemens & Halske works, Berlin, who dwelt on some of the aspects of the economic situation.

PROTECT DOCTORS AGAINST BANDITS, IS PLEA TO POLICE

Alarmed over recent robberies of physicians, many of them on night calls, the Chicago Medical society last night sent a letter to Police Commissioner Allman and Mayor Cermak asking their coöperation in protecting doctors from bandits.

Many physicians are afraid to make calls at night because of the menace of robbers, the letter states. Bandits preying on doctors endanger not only their victims, but the lives of patients which may depend on the speedy service of the doctors, it adds. The missive points out that two members of the society, Dr. G. M. Laing and Dr. George W. Thilo, were murdered by robbers; that the Thilo crime was solved and the killer convicted only after great "effort and publicity" and that the Laing case is not yet completed. The letter was signed by Dr. Charles H. Phifer, secretary of the society.

PLOT TO FORCE DOLLAR OFF GOLD STANDARD BARED

U. S. Bankers Nip Europe Scheme to Start Panic.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The story of how a group of American bankers in Paris got wind of a systematic plot to drive the dollar off the gold standard and frustrated the plot by forming a "vigilance committee," working with American federal reserve and diplomatic officials, was revealed tonight by a prominent banker here.

The vigilance committee consisted of heads of the Paris branches of the four biggest American banks and an official of the American embassy here who held daily meetings secretly. J. P. Morgan, Randolph Burgess, deputy governor of the federal reserve bank, New York, and Gates W. McGarrah, world bank president, personally attended several of these conferences during the most critical phase of the fight.

Pool Resources to Buy Dollar.

The committee fought the battle for the dollar—and is still fighting, although an abrupt cessation of short sales this week is taken to mean that the enemy has given up—by pooling their resources to buy every dollar that was offered and by enlisting the support of the French government in muzzling the alarmist campaign in the press, but principally through building up a financial intelligence service which was able to tip off American authorities on just where the bears were going to strike next.

It was an accidental tip from a French banker to an American friend a couple of weeks ago which resulted in the formation of the vigilance committee. This banker disclosed that the mysterious panic in regard to the dollar which had just hit the Paris bourse was due to telephoned warnings from London bankers that the dollar was not sound.

A Mystery in London.

An immediate telephone call to London disclosed that nothing was known there of any rumors about the dollar. With this clew, a little detective work was able to establish that agents for the bear syndicate, using the names of responsible bankers, had been calling up Paris from a telephone booth and warning the heads of French banks to get rid of their dollars.

The Americans got together and formed a committee to coördinate the secret reports of all their agents in different parts of Europe and notified the embassy and federal reserve officials. Through this intelligence service the vigilance committee learned that by some mysterious, maneuver the Swiss National bank had become infected with the panic and was going to refuse to buy dollars unless gold was delivered within 48 hours.

There were frantic telephone calls to New York lasting through most of the night, and the next day the federal reserve was able to bring sufficient pressure so the Swiss changed their ruling.

The damage was done, however, and the panic against the dollar was complete throughout Europe. Agents of the bear syndicate, apparently with untold millions at their command, launched a terrific campaign of short selling all over the continent. Wealthy Europeans liquidated fortunes and stuffed their safe deposits with gold bullion, more than $800,000,000 of which left New York last month.

The greatest danger, according to THE TRIBUNE'S informant, came in the "poison pen" campaign in the French press. How the vigilance committee suddenly stopped this campaign four days ago may never be known in all details, but it is learned that Premier Laval himself ordered the press to cease the assault on the dollar.

$15,000,000 CUT IN ARMY IS REPORTED NEXT HOOVER MOVE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—A cut of $15,000,000 in army expenditures for the 1933 fiscal year is imminent, according to reports in administrative circles. Such a slash would contemplate, it was said, a reduction in enlisted strength and possibly officer personnel. Further curtailment of pork barrel supported military posts may result, it was said in army circles.

According to information current here, Secretary of War Hurley will be advised of the necessity of effecting a further cut in the army estimates as soon as he returns to Washington from his Philippine trip.

The navy department already faces cuts in excess of $50,000,000 which will make necessary another slash in enlisted personnel.

No reductions have been made in army strength for some years, although the army has been reduced a total of 104,000 men since 1922.

The army today has 118,750 enlisted men. Its budget for the current year is 324 million dollars.

DINO GRANDI WILL VISIT BERLIN TO TALK OVER DEBTS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 21.—Dr. Carl von Schubert, German ambassador to Italy, had a long conference this morning with Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, arranging details for the latter's visit to Berlin. It was announced tonight Grandi will leave Rome Friday, arriving in the German capital Sunday morning.

DINO GRANDI.
[Acme Photo.]

While his visit is essentially a return courtesy visit to the visit Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius made here in August, significance is attached here to the Italo-German conversations from the fact that immediately after his return to Rome Grandi will sail for New York for a conference with President Hoover.

It was learned tonight that the main scope of Grandi's talks with the Germans will be the connection between war debts and reparations.

Report Turk-Hungarian Pact.

OLD IRONSIDES AND NAVY BAND BOTH TO LIVE ON

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The White House moved today to quiet any fears that the historic frigate Constitution would be laid up or the navy band be abolished in President Hoover's economy program.

An announcement by Theodore G. Joslyn, secretary to the President, said that, whatever else is eliminated from the budget, Old Ironsides and the musicians would be provided for. The President, he said, is opposed to diminishing "the inspirational value" of the old Constitution by laying her up and to taking the "joy out of life" by scrapping the band.

The Constitution will be converted into a radio studio next Tuesday night when the National Broadcasting company will send out a navy day program direct from the ship in Baltimore harbor.

COURT UNCOVERS MORE DOINGS OF DRUGGAN BANKER

Procession of Witnesses Bares Novel Methods.

Novel banking methods of the defunct West Central State bank, Ogden avenue and Roosevelt road, bankers for Terry Druggan, were revealed by a procession of witnesses yesterday before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. Druggan, former beer partner of Frankie Lake, was not present at the hearing.

The Judge resumed his efforts to discover assets to aid depositors of the bank by recalling Andrew H. Dressel, the bank's president, to the witness stand. Dressel began by explaining that he had been unable to find his friend, Druggan, and expressed regret at the court's evident disappointment.

A Difference in Loans.

On Tuesday Mr. Dressel disclosed he had loaned Druggan $22,000 of the bank's funds without security, but that when he made the public enemy a loan of $12,000 out of his own pocket it was secured by a mortgage on Druggan's property at 7064 Greenview avenue.

On Tuesday hearing also revealed that when the bank was closed by the state auditor in January, 1930, the loans outstanding amounted to $497,-000, and the assets securing the loans were valued at less than $10,000, according to Jacob L. Fox, attorney for Bernard Horwich, the receiver. Mr. Fox said that at present $371,000 of the loans are still unpaid.

Dressel Causes Laughter.

At Mr. Dressel yesterday pleaded his failure to find Druggan he suggested that the judge try the home of Druggan's mother.

This caused laughter in court and Bailiff Fred Green banged his gavel to restore order. The gavel was frequently called to service as the case proceeded.

Attorney Fox questioned Dressel about a loan of $14,000 made to A. Brown without security.

"Well, he had a good account with the bank for several years and I knew him," Dressel said.

"Did you get his credit rating?" Judge Feinberg interrupted.

"I did."

"Did you read it?"

"I did."

"With your glasses on?" the judge asked. "That man has gone through more bankruptcies than any other man in the county. Rather remarkable banking, I say."

Quizzed on Other Loans.

Dressel told of making a loan of $3,000 for the bank to the Standard Trading company and personal loans totaling $10,000 to the company's owners, Harry Levy and Max Wexelman. The bank's loan was secured by property in Holland, Mich., once valued at $25,000, Dressel said, adding that he was willing to sign a quit claim deed for the property which he held in his name for the bank.

"Have you any other property you are willing to turn over?" Judge Feinberg asked.

Mr. Dressel said he would sign a deed for property in Kipling, Mich., owned from Levy and Wexelman, and now valued at $24,000. He said he knew of no other property, declaring he could collect the obligations due the bank to satisfy all depositors.

When the judge asked Dressel how he could make collections of the debts, including that of Druggan, the latter said he could not disclose his trust. The judge dismissed him from the stand subject to recall.

Tom Bourke Is Questioned.

The next witness was Thomas E. Bourke, a press agent with offices at 11 South La Salle street, who got a loan of $2,500 without security, of which a balance of $1,899 remains unpaid. Bourke said he got the loan through his friend, Dressel. As Judge Feinberg sought to discover hidden assets of Bourke he recalled that Dressel on Tuesday had said Bourke had two automobiles. Bourke said he employed a chauffeur but had no cars.

Pressed further, Bourke said he was paid $1,000 in a week. The judge granted him the delay, asking that he file what cash he could and return. Bourke also agreed to assign his interest in his home at 9104 Longwood drive to the receiver.

He was followed on the stand by a sister of Dressel, Miss Georgia Schoene, 1184 Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, to whom Dressel had deeded the Druggan property on Greenview avenue. Miss Schoene said her uncle had told her he was giving her the property and she said she would reassign it to him at any time. She said she had never seen the deed and thought that she once had signed a mortgage on the property. She was dismissed somewhat bewildered.

Asked About $16,000 in Notes.

Max Salk, a former vice president and director of the bank, was asked about notes of $16,000 held against him by the bank. He said he did not know the notes were held by the bank, but said the amount was due for 200 shares of bank stock he purchased with a cash payment of $6,000 in 1923.

Salk was questioned about the bank's management. He said he had no duties, and after seeking work in vain had left the bank in disgust in October, 1924, after less than six months' service. He complained that he had never been told anything and had been ordered about by bank clerks who held no stock. Salk pleaded that he had no assets to meet the debt.

"Does your wife work?" asked Judge Feinberg.

"Yes," he answered. "She's a school teacher."

"That's all," said the judge. "That's plenty."

Chemical Gambler Called.

The next witness was E. T. Evans, president of the closed Cable Chemical works of Cable, Wis. He said he was not a chemist, but had been a gambler and race horse owner. He had borrowed $4,500 from the bank without security. He also said he had no funds.

Charles J. Willard, former director of the bank, was the final witness. He said his sole employment in the bank was that of a messenger, although he owned 150 shares of stock. He was unable to discuss conduct of the bank's business.

U. S. Enters Investigation.

Federal authorities joined in the investigation of Druggan holdings in conjunction with the testimony before Judge Feinberg. Deputy Prohibition Administrator A. E. Hamilton raided four breweries which Dressel said Druggan was operating. No arrests were made and no evidence of liquor violation was found in any of the breweries.

At the same time Robert E. Neely, acting collector of internal revenue, sent investigators to determine whether Druggan holds title to any of the brewing properties named by Dressel.

VICE PRESIDENT TO BE OFFERED OIL CZAR JOB AT $75,000 A YEAR

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—"Dictator of oil" is a position the American Petroleum institute will create at its Chicago meeting Nov. 10 to 12, the Tulsa World will say tomorrow.

Vice President Charles Curtis is to be offered the position at a salary of $75,000 a year. If he accepts, he will resign in December and take charge of the producing, marketing, refining, and other branches of oil on Jan. 1, 1932.

"Nonsense," Curtis' Reply.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—"Pure nonsense," was the way Vice President Curtis tonight described reports that he intended to resign to go into the oil business. "I have no idea where that report originated," Curtis said. "There is absolutely no foundation to it."

SHOUTS OF 'LIAR' ECHO IN BRITISH ELECTION FIGHT

Campaign Develops Into Mud Slinging.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The general election fight is developing into a daily series of recriminations, denials and challenges from opposing parties.

According to platform speeches by candidates, nobody appears to be telling the truth. The statements of the leader of one party are immediately characterized as "fabrication," "untrue," or "without foundation," by the leaders of the other side. At practically every one of his meetings Prime Minister MacDonald has denied some accusation made in the speeches of the leaders of the opposition—his former Labor cabinet colleagues.

U. S. Bankers Involved.

Both he and Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, today took up cudgels against William Graham, Mr. Snowden's former lieutenant at the treasury, who yesterday hurled charges of deliberate lying against both of them.

"I will not apply that epithet to Graham," said Snowden, "but I will describe his statements as wholly without foundation."

One of the chief points in the dispute concerned American bankers. Graham alleged that American banks and also the Bank of England had made the reduction in the dole a condition for granting a loan.

"An effort of Mr. Graham's imagination," retorted Snowden. "At no time did American banks ever insist, or suggest, cuts in the pay of the unemployed. Neither did the Bank of England. What they did say was, 'You must balance your budget if you want to restore foreign confidence.'"

Churchill Is Mobbed.

Mr. Snowden also took a slap tonight at his old colleague, George Lansbury, former Labor commissioner of works, who declared at Hackney today that the next thing the government would do, after cutting the unemployment pay, would be to make a reduction in widows' and old age pensions. "It is a wicked lie," Mr. Snowden declared.

Winston Churchill was nearly mobbed tonight while addressing a meeting in support of Viscount Borodale, son of Countess Beatty, daughter of the late Marshall Field Sr. of Chicago. Police rescued him from the booing and jeering crowd.

CHICAGO BUSINESS OUTLOOK OPTIMISTIC, U. S. REPORT CLAIMS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—An "optimistic outlook" for Chicago business was reported to the department of commerce today by its regional office in that city.

"There was an optimistic outlook in Chicago wholesale and retail markets during the last week," the report said. "Favorable developments locally also played a part in the improvement. Steel orders and inquiries continued good with merchandise buying maintaining a fair volume.

Wholesale firms found business steady, although orders were for comparatively small quantities of goods. Merchants are still buying on a day to day basis.

An announcement was made by one of the city's larger department stores that it has added 600 employés to its pay roll. The added number will be employed until after Christmas, at least, and possibly permanently, it was stated.

Announcement was also made of plans for a new $75,000 hangar at the Municipal airport, work on which will start within a short time. Plans to employ nearly 2,000 men for work on water main improvements were made known by the city, the work to start at once.

WHY DID BOSTON KILL 60,000 CATS? 2,100,000 REASONS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Robert F. Sellar, director of the Animal Rescue league of Boston, knows his cats. He today told the American Humane society of the league's destruction of Boston's homeless felines.

"Last year 60,000 cats were destroyed, half of which were females," he said. "Suppose our league had allowed these cats to live. At a conservative estimate, we'd have had a 1931 crop of 300,000 kittens. By the end of next year we'd have had 2,100,000 cats running around the streets and alleys of Boston. And no telling where it would end."

FIVE GANGSTERS LOCKED UP IN POLICE DRIVE

Scowling back at the chief as he passed by the cells were the following prisoners:

MARTIN O'LEARY, 2132 South Highland avenue, Berwyn, kidnaper, beer runner, killer.

DOMINICK BELLO, 1032 North Dearborn street, hoodlum.

Forty-one others were in cells as the result of a drive by detectives in which every known convict and hoodlum was picked up on suspicion.

VON MUMM, ONCE CHAMPAGNE KING, SHOOTS HIMSELF

Glen Head, L. I., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Descending from the palace he inherited as the "champagne king of France" and abdicated when the vast Mumm industries of Rheims were seized as alien property, to a $10 a week hall bedroom in a Manhattan rooming house he rented Friday as an unfortunate investor in Wall street, Baron Walther von Mumm sought to close his dramatic career today by shooting himself above the heart.

A guest at the home of William von Rath, his life long friend, the baron was found unconscious from the wound with a pistol of German make by his side.

Several letters and a scrawled note indicated to the police that the baron had been as deliberate about the act as when, a native of Germany, he had forfeited his champagne fortune to fight with the German cavalry and air forces in the world war.

Von Mumm was taken to a hospital at Glen Cove. There his condition was found to be critical, but his friends were optimistic. He had been wounded twice before and survived.

A year before the war broke out Von Mumm married, in London, Miss Frances Scoville, daughter of a Seneca, Kas., bank president. He had met her in St. Louis in 1910, when he piloted a French balloon in a race. A year after the marriage, a daughter, Mary, was born to the couple and in 1920 the baroness died.

LEAGUE GIVES UP EFFORT TO HALT JAPAN'S INVASION

Orders China to Negotiate Direct with Tokio.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 21.—The end is in sight tonight in this comedy, in which the league of nations council is seeking to protect one of its well nigh helpless members, China, against military invasion by one of its strongest members, Japan. The victim of the invasion, who appealed to the league for protection and has been stoutly refusing to do any direct negotiating with Tokio before withdrawal of the invading troops, will now be asked to negotiate directly before such withdrawal.

The "big five" of the council, comprising Great Britain, France, Spain, Germany and Italy, have succumbed to the dilatory tactics of Japan urged particularly by Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, who insists on going home Friday, at the latest, for the British elections. At a long meeting tonight the big five proposed an adjournment of the council for a couple of weeks with an admonition to China and Japan to settle the Manchurian controversy by direct negotiations.

Override All Objections.

If either China or Japan objects it will not make any difference to the council, and the proposal will be announced at a public meeting, probably Friday. If either nation cares to protest, opportunity will be given to do so publicly then.

Japan seems to have won with tactics of procrastination, which have worn down the council. Incidentally, the note of instructions from Tokio, which has been awaited so anxiously for several days, was still missing at midnight tonight.

Dr. Alfred Sze, chief Chinese delegate, upon hearing of the proposal for adjournment of the council and for direct negotiations, indignantly declared:

"Assuming the report is true, China cannot and will not accept. China will insist upon her rights under the league covenant."

May Quit League.

If maintained, Dr. Sze's attitude is expected to result in China's withdrawal from the league.

It is learned that the council will attempt to save its face by insisting that China and Japan negotiate regarding evacuation and a guarantee for the security of life and property of Japanese nationals and will sternly declare that none of the other matters the Japanese want cleared up, such as the boycott of Japanese goods and the reaffirmation of general treaty rights and concessions need be discussed until after the evacuation.

A Chinese spokesman shrugged hopeless shoulders tonight and predicted that the Japanese will make all their demands hinge on the security of life and property of their nationals, and, given a chance for direct negotiations with Nanking, will impose a list of demands on helpless and divided China.

Japan Will Accept.

The Japanese attitude tonight was significant. A Japanese spokesman gave every evidence that the council's proposal would be acceptable. He pointed out that he has just learned that 4,000 troops "which were the only ones sent to Manchuria to restore order, all others being railway guards already in the railway zone," are being withdrawn.

The Chinese presented a memorandum to the league council today, the contents of which reveal that China is as insistent as ever upon evacuation as a first requisite for any negotiations and that she will refuse the council's newest project. The contents of the Chinese memorandum comprise four points:

1. Evacuation by Japanese troops.
2. A control commission composed of representatives of neutral countries to supervise the evacuation.
3. Reparations for damages caused by the Japanese occupation.
4. Creation of a permanent arbitration committee.

2,000 Chinese Troops Invade Japanese Zone; Battle Rages

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Oct. 22 (Thursday).—(AP)—A Mukden dispatch to the newspaper Jiji Shimpo today said Chang Hsueh-Liang, Chinese governor of Manchuria, has approached Moscow with hopes of interesting Russia in protecting his interests. Chang was reported to have offered certain north Manchurian economic concessions to the Russians.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 21.—Chinese refugee troops carried war into the Japanese owned South Manchurian railway zone tonight when they held up a crack Japanese express train carrying international passengers from Harbin to Dairen. Details are not yet available, but it is stated that Chinese troops numbering between 1,000 and 2,000, attempting to cross the railway tracks from west to east, clashed with Japanese forces. The battle was still raging fiercely, according to latest dispatches.

Japanese troops were rushed from Tiehling, about 45 miles north of here, to Luanshihshan, where the trouble occurred. Luanshihshan is about 30 miles north of Mukden. The Japanese also sent an armored train to the scene. Casualties are not known. Neither do the reports state whether or not the train was looted.

CHIANG TO RESIGN

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22.—[Thursday.]—As a result of conferences yesterday with delegates of the rebel Cantonese faction who arrived here shortly before noon Chiang Kai-shek has agreed to resign as president of China. He has also agreed to create other vacancies in the government, in which the Cantonese faction will be given ample representation.

Conferences will be resumed today at Nanking, and it is learned that further changes in the government are likely, including the possible admission of Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, Shansi province overlord, and the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang.

It is too early to state what Cantonese will enter the reorganized cabinet, but C. C. Wu and possibly Sun Fo will be acceptable. Radicals like Eugene Chen and Wang Ching-wei will probably be omitted.

Nanking officially denied reports that China had accepted four of the five fundamental points for peace terms proposed by Japan. The denial said that the Japanese proposals had not been received in Nanking or by the Chinese delegate to the league of nations.

Meanwhile, Nanking has submitted to the league a concrete proposal for a solution of the dispute. China, however, insists absolutely that the status quo ante first be established.

LOOT BANK AFTER HOLDING BANKERS TILL LOCK OPENS

Gang Guards Captives Throughout Night.

Maquon, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Four heavily armed robbers who kept the president and assistant cashier of the Maquon State bank prisoners in their home all night, secured $28,500 loot when the time lock allowed them to reach the vault at 8 o'clock this morning. They left but $5.42 in the bank. Nine thousand dollars of the loot was in cash and the rest in bonds.

Held Captive in Home.

At 7 o'clock last night the quartet took charge of the residence of Seymour Hartsook, president, where he lives with his son Howard, assistant cashier. Ray Simkins, a supervisor, who came to visit them at 8 o'clock, was held captive also. The robbers forced him to call his wife and tell her he was called out of town for the night. Miss Beulah Ricketts, the Hartsooks housekeeper was the fourth prisoner.

At midnight three of the bandits forced young Hartsook to take them to the bank where they secured all the safety deposit boxes. They carried them to the president's house where they were pounded open.

This morning the president and Simkins were handcuffed together and bound to the cellar steps. Miss Ricketts was tied in a rocking chair and a gag put in her mouth and young Hartsook was forced to take two of the quartet to the bank where they awaited opening of the lock.

Surprise Force; Rob Bank.

Yale, Ia., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The Farmers State bank was robbed today of approximately $4,500 by two men who had hidden in the bank before opening time. Securities of undetermined value also were taken.

HENRY CHANNON SEEKS DIVORCE FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Vesta Westover Channon, society matron and noted patroness of education, was sued for divorce yesterday in the Superior court by her husband, Henry Channon II., member of a prominent Chicago family and the wealthy president and treasurer of the Hollister-Carr Supply company. The suit states that the couple were married Aug. 1, 1895, and that Mrs. Channon deserted her husband on March 15, 1925. The bill was filed by Attorney Arthur Grossman. The Channons have one son, Harry III., who has lived in London since 1925.

Mrs. Channon was the founder of the French library of the L'Alliance Francaise of Chicago in 1904, and continued as chairman of the committee until 1919. During the world war she was a member of the Allied Relief committee, and of the Council for National Defense. She also was a charter member of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations.

Decored by France.

In 1922 Mrs. Channon founded the American library in honor of Pasteur at the University of Strasbourg, France, and at present she is president of the executive board. She was decored by the French government, being made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and an officer of the French academy and of the department of public instruction.

The Channons were married in St. Mary's church, London, and immediately afterward returned to Chicago, which has since remained their home.

Home on Gold Coast.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Channon lived at 1434 Astor street. Since their separation, however, Mr. Channon has made his home at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Mrs. Channon resided in her home until a month ago when she leased the property.

Last evening neither Mr. nor Mrs. Channon could be reached.

Mrs. Channon is a member of the American Women's clubs in London and Paris, the National Country club in Washington, D. C., and the Illinois Women's Athletic club, the Arts club, and the Casino club, Chicago. Mr. Channon is a member of the Union League club and the Chicago Golf club.

Woman Home After Serum Conquers Addison's Disease

Mrs. Andrew Nelson, 4103 North Merrill avenue, Norwood Park, the mother of six children, yesterday was at home after being saved from death by a new treatment for Addison's disease. She was discharged from the Albert Billings Memorial hospital Tuesday after two vials of cortin, a rare serum obtained from the cortex of the adrenal glands, had been carried by airplane from the medical laboratory of the University of Buffalo to fight the disease. Mrs. Nelson was in the last stages of the disease when the new serum was given several weeks ago.

All in Difficulty

Beverly Hills, Cal., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Legal difficulties of three motion picture actresses, Lois Wilson, May McAvoy, and Mary Nolan, were revealed in the court of Judge H. E. Billings today.

Miss Nolan, formerly Imogene Wilson of the New York musical comedy stage, is being sued for $142 in fees by Dr. Charles F. Nelson. Miss McAvoy is named in a suit filed by a Beverly Hills bank, alleging she did not repay a $215 loan. John Lancaster, booking agent, sued Miss Wilson for $605, assertedly due for services.

AQUITANIA SETS ATLANTIC RECORD FOR TURN AROUND

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 22.—[Thursday.]—A record turn around on North Atlantic passenger service was achieved when the Aquitania sailed for New York last night fifteen hours after arriving at Southampton.

The Aquitania landed 300 passengers and discharged 266 tons of cargo, 322 mail bags, 40 bars of silver, and 2 kegs of gold. The ship was then cleaned and reprovisioned, and 690 passengers embarked. It was loaded with 170 tons of cargo, 2,500 mail bags, 500 tons of oil and fuel, 750,000 gallons of water, and 365 bars of silver. All was carried out without a hitch.

The liner is making four rapid trans-Atlantic passages. The schedule is for two round trips in 27 days against the usual 37.

MERCURY RISES TO 78 DEGREES; RAIN DUE TODAY

The temperature rose to 78 degrees at 1 p. m. in Chicago yesterday, four degrees beneath the record for Oct. 21, set in 1908. While Chicago basked in the unusual warmth, rainstorms were reported in the plain states.

C. A. Donnel, official government forecaster, predicted rain late today, with mild temperatures. Tomorrow will be cooler.

Meanwhile preparations were going forward for a mild winter in Lincoln park. Oscar Knop, director of recreation of the Lincoln park system, said he figured there would be only about two weeks of skating. He based this conclusion on the unusually thin fur coats the squirrels are growing. Mr. Knop announced that he will buy less coal.

TESTIFIES VS. HIS SISTER AT TRIAL OF ROTHSCHILD

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Brother testified against sister today in the trial of Vera McCord's $250,000 breach of promise suit against Maurice Rothschild of Chicago.

For nearly an hour Don McCord, whom Rothschild had called "my most intimate friend," and who introduced his sister to the defendant, told of the former actress' "weakness for liquor."

A denial he was a millionaire came from the defendant himself. He testified he had debts of $78,000 and his stock holdings had dwindled to a paper value of $25,000. He received a salary, he explained, as president of the American and Canadian Properties corporation.

He said he was so little impressed when McCord introduced him to his sister in 1914, he could not recall the circumstances of the meeting.

Snow, Two Weeks Earlier Than Usual, Blocks Autos

Denver, Colo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Snow, falling two weeks earlier than usual, has temporarily blocked motor car traffic in Monarch Pass, between Salida and Gunnison, Colo. Snow also was reported today in the Greenhorn mountain range, west of Pueblo, Colo., and in the Sangre de Cristo mountains of New Mexico.

LASH HUSBAND WHO BEAT HIS WIFE 15 YEARS

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 21.—(AP)—For the third time in a year Maryland's whipping post was used today for a wife beater. Charles Lemley was given five lashes on his bare back in the yard of the Baltimore city jail.

Lemley was sentenced earlier in the day by Judge Eugene O'Dunne, who has passed two of the last three whipping post sentences. He was convicted in Criminal court on testimony of his wife, who declared that he had beaten her for the last 15 years. She pleaded that the lashes be not administered.

The lashes were given by Sheriff Joseph C. Deegan with a cat o' nine tails, with only deputies and newspaper men as witnesses. After the lashing was administered, Lemley, 32, was released and was taken away by friends.

Two of Baltimore's evening papers, after the sentence was pronounced today, printed editorials on page one, decrying the practice. One printed an interview with Mrs. Clara Waters, superintendent of the Oklahoma state reformatory, the only woman warden in the nation, in which she condemned the whipping post as "barbary."

MESSENGER BOY STOLE HIS BRIDE, HUSBAND SAYS

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Pauline Hale, pretty bride of 24 hours, has been stolen from her husband, Blake Hale, at Eldorado, according to warrants sworn out today by the husband.

Hale charges the abduction was made by Tom Ames, Eldorado messenger boy, who came to his home at midnight last night and told his bride that her father wanted her. She dressed and went with the lad and another man who accompanied him. She has not been seen since.

The only clew to the whereabouts of the young bride was obtained at the home of her grandmother, who said Mrs. Hale, Ames, and another couple had gone to Evansville, Ind. Saline officers are making extensive inquiries and search for Ames and Mrs. Hale.

OPEN RANDOLPH STATION TO I.C. TRAINS SUNDAY

The new Randolph street suburban station will be opened to all Illinois Central trains at 7:30 a. m. Sunday, it was announced yesterday. The South Shore trains will start from the old station.

Announcement of the plans was made by O. J. Brumley, chief engineer for the Illinois Central. Mr. Brumley explained that South Shore trains could not operate from the new station until construction work was completed near Monroe street. Patrons of the South Shore electric line will go through the new station to the old terminal to board their trains.

BROKER, 2 OTHERS JAILED IN PLOT TO FORGE CHECK

Howe G. Baxter, 1508 Sherwin avenue, a broker, was locked up at the detective bureau last night after confessing the forgery of a check for $3,000. Arrested with him were A. T. Weast of the Sovereign hotel and A. M. Henderson of the Y. M. C. A. hotel.

According to the stories of all three, they conspired to pass a check at the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, signing the name of Baxter's brother-in-law, Charles Strobel, 32 Bellevue place. Henderson established a checking account at the Lake Shore bank and deposited a forged check for $4,500 in the account. The bank became suspicious and called in the Burns detective agency, which ascertained that the check was a forgery.

When Henderson attempted to cash a $3,000 check at the bank yesterday he was arrested. Weast was arrested as he waited outside the bank.

WOMAN LOSES 20 Pounds of Fat

Suppose you weighed 230 lbs., and every time you looked in a mirror tears almost came as you gazed on a double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, stomach upset with gas and indigestion and dreadful dizzy spells. And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to despair.

Such was the dilemma of Mrs. Ann Affelt, 214 North Ave., St. Louis, Mich. She read about Bonkora, the one safe, natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell her story:

"It is really astonishing what Bonkora has done for me. When they look at me, my husband and friends can scarcely believe their eyes. For when I started taking your Battle Creek treatment I weighed 230 lbs., and now, after using only two bottles, I am down to 210. I've got to wear dresses two sizes smaller, for I have lost 2 inches off my bust, and 3 inches off my hips. And losing those 20 lbs. of fat isn't all the benefit I've gotten from Bonkora. For six years I had been suffering terribly from indigestion and sour stomach. I constantly felt bloated, and I would have the most dreadful dizzy spells. The slightest exertion would quickly put me out of breath, and my heart would palpitate wildly. I suffered some pains in the back of my neck, and in the lower part of my spine. Bonkora has relieved me of all these ills which were making my life miserable. I certainly bless the day I saw the Bonkora ad in my paper. My husband is taking it now, and so are some of my friends."

You may not want to lose 20 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages," as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes, showing you how to select in the correct combinations those foods you probably like best, furnished free. Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature. NO thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

Simply purchase a bottle of Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, at Walgreen's today—unhealthy fat will quickly disappear and with it bloat, gas, and other stomach ills. You'll feel younger; yes, you'll look younger, with bright eyes, clear skin and superb figure which you dearly want.

RECEIVER PAYS TAX AS HEARING IN COURT NEARS

Other Loop Cases Are on Call for Tomorrow.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An even $40,000 was paid in 1929 taxes yesterday for the City State Bank building, Randolph and Wells streets. The payment was made by John R. Magill, receiver.

This building is one of the large loop properties which are objecting to the taxes. Its case and others were yesterday placed on call for tomorrow morning in the county court of Judge E. K. Jarecki. The 1929 taxes on the properties listed for tomorrow's hearing total $1,762,527, according to Assistant State's Attorney James F. Clancy, who prepared the list.

The court action is part of the drive to persuade large income producing properties to pay the part of the taxes which they deem fair as a preliminary to contesting the remainder in court.

Receiver Acts Before Court.

The receiver for the City State Bank building anticipated the probable action of Judge Jarecki by paying yesterday. He obtained permission from Superior Judge Robert Gentzel, who appointed him as receiver, to make the $40,000 payment. The tax records show the Mississippi Valley Life Insurance company as owner of the building and the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank as trustee and author of the tax objection. The delinquent taxes for 1929 are shown to be $57,074.

Judge Jarecki set three tax cases for hearing tomorrow and placed 21 others on court call. The 21 are:

Name—	Unpaid taxes.

Assistant State's Attorney Clancy asserted that fifteen of these properties objected to their 1928 taxes, and these cases are also on call for tomorrow. Mr. Clancy said the state's attorney's office will then be ready to proceed with a hearing in each case. Among the cases are three receiverships. Judges of the Circuit and Superior courts have said that receivers had no authority to file tax objections.

Three Cases up for Hearing.

One of the three tax cases up for hearing in County court tomorrow is that of the Flamingo hotel, 55th street and South Shore drive. This property, according to the state's attorney's record, paid its taxes in 1925, 1926, and 1927, but for 1928 owes $28,016 and for 1929 $27,485.

The state's attorney's office says that the 1928 tax of the Flamingo is based on an assessed valuation of $648,919 and the 1929 tax on a valuation of $446,919. On the 1929 basis, the state's attorney's office said, the full value of the property is $1,191,784, and the prosecutor is prepared to show that $2,200,000 was issued on the property.

Another case up for hearing tomorrow is that of Lewis Podlofski, 4823-49 Addison street. The state's attorney will seek to collect from this owner $17,926 in taxes which have been spread over the last four tax years.

The third case is that of the Motorists Association of Northern Illinois, Michigan avenue and 24th street. From this organization the state's attorney seeks to collect $3,577 in taxes for 1927, $4,266 for 1928, and $5,098 for 1929.

Judge Gentzel Takes Action.

Judge Gentzel yesterday pushed another large property into a position where it will have to pay taxes. The property is the Aquitania apartment building at 832 Argyle street. The court ordered Henry M. Ashton, special tax attorney, to prepare and present tomorrow morning an order for a receiver. Mr. Ashton said that the property owes $192,000 in taxes and penalties stretching over the period between 1924 and 1927, both inclusive.

Attorney U. S. Schwartz, counsel for the S. W. Straus company, trustee for the bondholders of the Aquitania, protested against the appointment of a receiver, claiming that the action has no precedent. He said he will appeal the case to the Appellate court.

Officials Praise Tribune's Campaign for Tax Payments

"A substantial public service" were the words used by Mayor Cermak yesterday in expressing his opinion of the effect of the campaign by THE TRIBUNE to bring in delinquent taxes.

"I have been much interested in reading Oscar Hewitt's analysis of the situation, particularly in reference to the property owners delaying the payment of their taxes," the mayor said, "but I have been even more interested in watching the effect of his articles.

"They apparently brought the situation home to a large number of good citizens who, because of the unusual conditions this year, have found it necessary or desirable to postpone the civic duty of paying tax bills which ordinarily they would meet promptly in order that local government may function. It seems they now see that they should pay at least what they concede to be their fair share of taxes.

"I hope the good work continues."

"The publicity given to the actual facts in this tax situation has been helpful in getting at least part payments from the larger taxpayers," said State's Attorney Swanson. "No matter what any objecting taxpayer may have in mind, there is absolutely no justification for any one who enjoys the benefits of government for protection of his person or property to refuse to pay that portion of the tax which he perhaps, and only he, considers just. THE TRIBUNE is to be complimented for the aid given to the authorities in collecting at least part of the taxes due, which has enabled the city to meet part of the overdue pay rolls."

"Concerted efforts toward the collection of unpaid taxes is the most practical thing thus far suggested," said William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. "Since we are within our budget, collection of those taxes will provide a solution of our difficulties."

EXPECT $4,291,000 IN SALVAGE FROM CITY'S 1931 BUDGET

City Controller Szymczak reported to Mayor Cermak yesterday that he expects to salvage $4,291,000 from the 1931 corporate appropriation of $67,553,963, a saving of 6 1-3 per cent. The salvage in other funds will bring the total saving for this year to $6,013,616, he reported. The largest salvage will be made in appropriations for salaries and wages, the controller estimates. Out of appropriations of $46,137,000 for this purpose $1,691,000 will be saved, he said. A saving of $1,600,000 in interest payments is noted in the report and of $1,000,000 in miscellaneous expense.

SETTLE DETAILS OF MOVIE PACT; TO SIGN TODAY

Full details of the arbitration agreement between the Moving Picture Operators' union and the Allied Independent Theaters' association were settled last night at a conference between representatives of both groups. The written contract will be signed today and the details made public by State's Attorney Swanson, officials said.

Among details settled yesterday were the number of houses to run with one operator. The original agreement referred to 27 theaters, but the union yesterday conceded other houses to bring the total to 30 or more. Different scales of wages were assigned to theaters according to their income, instead of a blanket cut of 20 per cent as originally planned.

Two imported movie operators, brought to Chicago to replace union men during the recently settled dispute of the operators' union with independent theaters, were arrested late last night after police found a shotgun and two revolvers in their car. They are Harry L. Conklin, 28 years old, and William H. Page, 30, both of Cedar Lake, Ind., and both employed at south side houses.

The arrests were made by Sergt. Frank Fitzgerald and Policemen John O'Malley and William Hazelkamp of the Grand Crossing station at 95th street and Forest avenue. Conklin and Page told them they carried the weapons for protection. Police held them for investigation.

JAILED FOR RAZOR FIGHT.

Esteban Ramerez, 28 years old, was sentenced to nine months in jail and fined $25 yesterday by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli for slashing Raymond Castro, a fellow roomer at the Legion hotel.

ALDERMEN TO ACT

A committee of five aldermen was appointed by Mayor Cermak yesterday to hasten the collection of delinquent taxes for 1927, 1928, and 1929. The committee, composed of Aldermen Barnet Hodes [7th], Sheldon W. Govier [9th], Jacob M. Arvey [24th], Oscar Nelson [46th], and John A. Massen [48th], is charged to call a conference of all taxing bodies in Chicago and Cook county at which a method of collecting the taxes will be devised.

BOARD TO IGNORE CUTMORE ATTACK ON ASSESSMENT

Call His Charges About Appraisals False.

Four of the five assessors and their director of appraisals, Charles E. Fox, met yesterday afternoon to consider charges by Harry S. Cutmore, chief appraiser in the 1931 reassessment, that the present appraisal system is inefficient, cumbersome, opening avenues for wholesale graft, and increasing the tax burden of the small home owner. These allegations were embodied in a letter sent to the county commissioners by Cutmore on Tuesday.

CHARLES E. FOX. (Kaufmann-Fabry Photo.)

"My idea is that we should regard this fellow merely as a discharged employé," said Assessor Walter W. L. Meyers.

Gene Oliver's Opinion.

"Certainly," added Assessor Gene Oliver, who has been sentenced to 18 months in a penitentiary for violation of the federal income tax laws, and now is awaiting the outcome of his appeal. "We should ignore that letter. It is beneath us to defend ourselves."

"Well," announced Appraiser Fox, "I only have this to say. The present appraisal system is probably the best that ever has been devised by real estate experts. Despite Cutmore's remarks the assessments will be completed on time, Jan. 3, 1932, and it will be the most accurate and scientific, equitable and just valuation that ever has been made in the history of the country."

"Now, Charlie," interrupted John E. Conroy, assessor and secretary of the board, "we aren't going to answer Cutmore's letter. We don't want to get into any curbstone controversy with that fellow. But what about that paragraph in which he referred to graft?"

Promises Freedom from Graft.

"The assessment which is going to be made," Fox asserted after a moment's silence, "will be as free from graft as it will be from error.

"And here's another thing which occurs to me. Cutmore said that my cubic foot prices on 106 loop buildings were lower than his own. Many of those buildings were not completed in 1929. Some of them were 50, some 90, some 30 per cent completed. I took 30 per cent as the average and so I figured them from that basis. That's why the valuations are less on the buildings."

"Well, we know this Cutmore for what he is," Conroy declared. "You're here 100 per cent of the time, Charlie. Always on the job. Cutmore spent most of the time eating luncheons given by reformers."

"Sure thing." This was the first remark from Assessor John E. Traeger. "This simply amounts to heckling, Fox. Don't let it get under your skin. But what about those small home owners? Cutmore said their assessments this year would be higher than in 1928."

Appraiser Fox stiffened in his chair. "That is not true," he said emphatically. "All properties, big and small, will be treated alike."

'SKELETONS' JAILED BECAUSE CONSTABLE POOH POOHS GHOSTS

Charleroi, Pa., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Five "skeletons" are in the lockup here, charged with disorderly conduct, because Constable Joe Judson pooh-poohs ghosts.

Judson was repairing a flat tire by moonlight when something went "Boo-o-o-o!"

He looked up and found himself surrounded by what looked like skeletons.

"Boo-o-o-o!" came the weird chorus again.

Half an hour later five youths, wearing skintight suits on which bones were painted with a phosphorescent material, were thinking it over in the lockup.

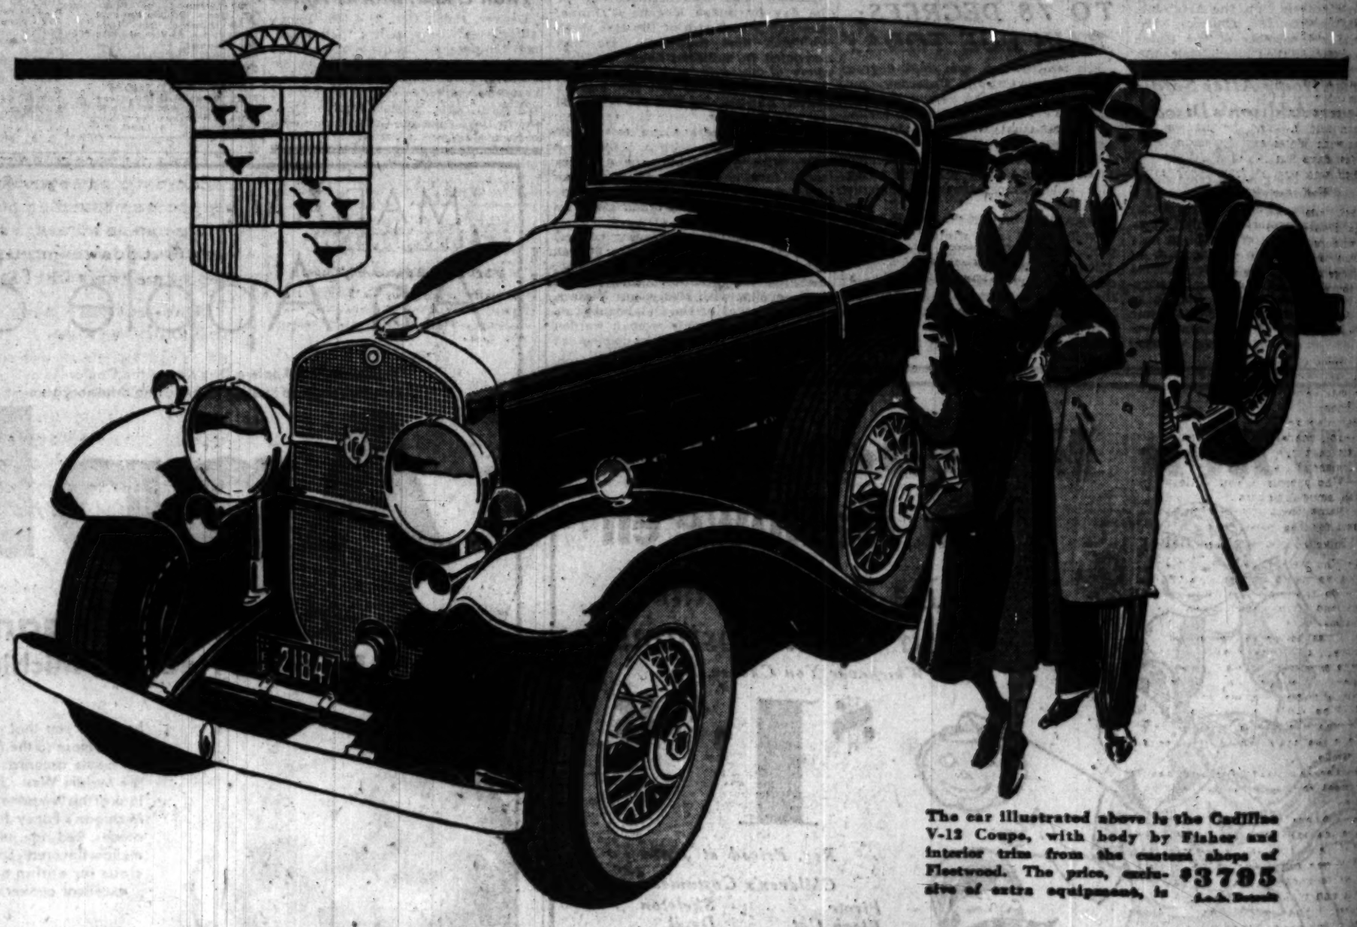
EVERY BUYER IN THE FINE-CAR FIELD SHOULD EXPERIENCE 12-CYLINDER PERFORMANCE



The car illustrated above is the Cadillac V-12 Coupe, with body by Fisher and interior trim from the custom shops of Fleetwood. The price, exclusive of extra equipment, is $3795 f.o.b. Detroit

The Cadillac V-12 represents such a tremendous advancement in every phase of its performance that it should have the careful consideration of every buyer in the fine-car field.

Never in the history of the motor car industry—with the one exception of the Cadillac V-16—has a motor car offered the type of transportation now available in the Cadillac V-12.

Multi-cylinder performance is, in fact, so entirely different that it simply must be experienced to be appreciated.

Have you ever, for instance, driven an automobile that was almost completely quiet—at every speed you cared to drive?

In the Cadillac V-12, you hear only the drone of the tires against the pavement and the swish of the wind rushing by.

Have you ever driven a motor car in which you were unable to detect even the slightest trace of engine vibration?

In the Cadillac V-12, you find it difficult to realize that your power is being supplied by an engine.

Have you ever driven an automobile that made you feel as if you were being carried along through space without the aid of anything mechanical?

People feel that way when they drive the Cadillac V-12.

These are unusual statements to make about a motor car.

Consequently we should like you to come in and learn for yourself that they are more than justified by the facts.

JUDGE BLASTS WOLF'S CLAIM TO CLEMENCY

Bank Embezzler Ordered to Prison at Once.

The farce of the case built up around Walter Wolf, in the hope of getting him a new trial for his $3,- 000,000 embezzlement from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, fell to pieces yesterday.

At his own motion Chief Justice John E. Fisher of the Criminal court, who had sentenced Wolf on Oct. 13 to serve 10 to 100 years in the penitentiary, opened an inquiry into the hints of hidden evidence, betrayals and accomplices, urged on Wolf's attorney, Louis Piquett, who undertook to defend the defaulter last Friday.

Wolf Given Chance to Testify.

Both Wolf and the lawyer were given opportunity to testify. A life history which Wolf composed in his cell was submitted to the court. Other witnesses called were Frederic Rausch, attorney for the bank; Truman G. Danielson, the bank cashier; Henry E. Ayers, assistant state's attorney, and State's Attorney Swanson.

Wolf's own testimony, coupled with that of Attorney Piquett, conclusively established the falsity of the embezzler's claim that the bank had promised his leniency in consideration of his pleading guilty. Judge Fisher decided.

Adding that no moral or legal reason had been adduced for granting Wolf's plea for a new trial, the judge peremptorily directed that commitment papers be made out and instructed the sheriff to take the embezzler to Joliet this morning.

Quiz Former Bank Employé.

The court brought out that Attorney Piquett's services had first been tendered, after Wolf was sentenced, by Henry J. Rausch, appraiser for the bond of receivers, former employé of the Continental bank and a mutual friend of Wolf and of David D. Weiss, ex-broker, now under indictment as a confederate of Wolf.

Weiss has admitted handling more than $1,000,000 of the bank's stolen securities for Wolf in stock market transactions. Questioning of Rausch established that it was trouble over a $1,000 loan that caused him to leave the bank's employment.

By direct questions the judge and Prosecutor Ayres sought to make Rausch admit that it was Weiss or Weiss's lawyer, Samuel A. Ettelson, who inspired his interest in Wolf. Rausch said he had frequently conferred with Weiss and Ettelson in the last few days but insisted his interest in Wolf was one of friendship alone.

Wolf Put On Stand.

When the court hearing began Judge Fisher directed Wolf to take the witness stand.

"This is a matter for the court," the judge said. "The court will question the witness on all phases of this case. Thereafter the state's attorney and the defendant's counsel will have an opportunity to examine the witness."

Q.—Since sentence was imposed you have retained counsel? A.—No; my wife did. She retained Mr. Piquett last Friday. I saw him that day and on Saturday and Monday.

Q.—You made a statement to Mr. Piquett that the bank had promised you leniency? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who promised you leniency? A.—Oh, several people.

Balks at Naming Lawyers.

Q.—Who were they? A.—Well, the last gave me to understand that if I would do the right thing and plead guilty and help them clean up the whole matter—

Q.—I asked who promised you leniency. A.—They didn't make any definite promises. I was given to understand I would get 18 months. Many of them told me that.

Q.—Who did? A.—A man named Judge who was guarding me at night. He said the bank would take care of me finally.

Q.—Any one else? Did any one tell you what this court might do? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you tell your lawyer any of it the bank was involved in your case? A.—I did tell my lawyer that.

Wolf was beginning to betray signs of nervousness. He clenched his hands and glanced appealingly at Mr. Piquett. The court continued the questioning in an even tone.

Q.—You put that in your statement? A.—Yes, I did.

The judge instructed Mr. Piquett to hand up the statement. The lawyer complied.

Q.—Who were these accomplices? A.—It was in transactions similar to mine. I mean the bank was doing the same thing I did. They took customers' securities, discounted them at the Federal Reserve bank, and put the cash in the call money market to earn 15 per cent. I knew what was going on, because these transactions went through my department.

Q.—Assuming what you say is true, was there anything wrong in it—the securities were never jeopardized, were they? A.—It can't be done.

Q.—Who benefited by that practice? A.—The bank did.

Q.—Who issued orders for these transactions you speak of? A.—Mr. Danielson, the cashier.

Judge Fisher indicated he had finished questioning Wolf. Neither Mr. Swanson nor Mr. Piquett had any questions to ask.

State's Attorney Swanson and Mr. Ayers then testified briefly, declaring that they had never promised Wolf leniency, that he had never mentioned a promise of leniency by the bank, and that he had been warned that the term of his sentence rested entirely with the court.

Attorney Piquett Examined.

Calling Mr. Piquett to the stand, Judge Fisher warned him that certain questions to be asked might tend to incriminate the lawyer. Mr. Piquett looked startled for an instant, then smiled.

"To find a lawyer slipping into a case after a defendant has pleaded guilty and to have this lawyer giving out statements to the press as you have done comes pretty close to conspiring to use the machinery of the court for some purpose other than justice," the judge declared. Then he questioned Piquett.

Q.—How did you happen to get into this case? A.—Henry Rausch, an old friend of Wolf, came to my office last Thursday and asked me if the 10 to 100 year sentence could not be set aside.

Q.—Were you paid a retainer fee? A.—No, but I was promised $2,500.

Visits Wolf in Cell.

Attorney Piquett explained that on the following day he visited Wolf in his cell and instructed him to write out his story because his verbal account was "so tangled I couldn't get it straight."

Q.—Why did you give out this statement casting a veil of mystery by reference to "astounding revelations"? A.—That was Wolf's assertion, not mine. He said it would rock La Salle street.

Q.—Is Mr. Rausch your client also? A.—Yes, in a bankruptcy matter.

Q.—Wasn't it Rausch who agreed to pay you $2,500 in this case? A.—No, he said he was going to get it from the family and from friends.

Q.—Were any other lawyers instrumental in getting you into this case? A.—None at all.

Q.—And you are satisfied that no one in the bank was involved with Wolf? A.—Yes, I am.

Court Questions Bank Cashier.

Mr. Danielson, cashier of the bank for the last eleven years, was called. The court continued the examination.

Q.—Did the bank ever discount the securities of customers? A.—No, sir. We can produce our records and those of the Federal Reserve bank to prove it. The Continental bank had sufficient collateral of its own if we cared to put cash in the call money market.

Mr. Danielson explained that the bank's own securities went through the department managed by Wolf the same as did those of the customers. It was explained by the prosecutors that Wolf might have thought that the securities of the bank, which were used in rediscounting at the federal reserve bank, were those of the customers. The records of the bank were on hand to back up the testimony of Danielson to show that Wolf either made a mistake in his belief that the customers' securities were used in rediscounting, or that he deliberately gave false testimony on the point in question.

Attorney Burnham of counsel for the bank was then called. He declared that no promise had been given Wolf and no pledge to care for his family.

"Wolf never brought the matter up until after he was sentenced," said Mr. Burnham. "He did speak to me about it then, pleading that I recommend the sentence be changed so he could serve one to ten years instead of ten to one hundred years. I told him I couldn't understand how he, a trusted employé, who stole nearly four million dollars, could expect to get no stiffer sentence than men guilty of small peculations."

Rausch Is Last Witness.

Rausch, the former Continental bank employé, was the last witness to be called. He was questioned, both by Judge Fisher and Assistant State's Attorney Ayers.

"I have known Walter Wolf twenty-three years," Rausch began. "I became interested in his plight after I read of his sentence in the papers. I went over to the county jail to see him. The way it is, with a lot of the heads of closed banks running the streets, I thought they were making a goat of Walter. I thought he was being crucified."

THE COURT—Do you know David Weiss? A.—Yes, I've known Dave for twenty-five years, I guess.

Q.—When did you see him last? A.—Yesterday. I've seen him six or eight times in the last week.

Q.—Did you see his attorney also. A.—Yes, I went with him [Weiss] to Mr. Ettelson's office. Ettelson wanted to know how the coupon department in the bank was run.

Q.—Was it after seeing Mr. Ettelson that you called on Attorney Piquett? A.—No, I went to Piquett first. I wanted to do something for Walter. Ettelson had nothing to do with it.

Q.—Wasn't it in the interest of David Weiss that you went to see Wolf? A.—No, I wanted to see Walter get a better deal. I thought they were crucifying him.

Q.—Didn't you see a chance in this case to embarrass the Continental bank. A.—O, no, nothing like that.

At the conclusion of Rausch's testimony Attorney Piquett announced for the benefit of the court and assembled lawyers that Wolf stood ready at any time to testify against Weiss or any other broker who might be indicted for complicity in the thefts.

Judge Calls Wolf "Villain."

Summing up the results of the hearing, Judge Fisher declared that Rausch's conduct in the case was extremely suspicious, and that Wolf had shown himself a "villain" in his attempt to escape his punishment by injuring the bank.

"This community is suffering from the uncertainty of the standing of some of its banks," the judge said. "Here is a great bank which was unfortunate enough to have Wolf in its employ.

"Is this not a splendid opportunity to throw out hints of 'astounding information' and insinuations of others involved with Wolf? It is strange that a trick so commonly known in criminal law should be employed at such a time as this.

"One benefit has come from this investigation. The curious ought now to be satisfied that even though the worst has been said about the bank, no one connected with the institution was in the slightest way guilty of complicity with Wolf.

"As for the defendant, my characterization of him when I imposed sentence now seems confirmed. However, I did not then regard him as the villain he is."

Rausch was advised by Judge Fisher to cease meddling with criminal lawsuits.

As Wolf was being led away a guard said, "That's about all for you."

"Yes, I guess that's the end," Wolf replied.

THREE CHILDREN ARE REVIVED.

Lorraine Petzel, 6 years old, and her brothers, Robert, 2 years old, and Donald, 3 years old, were revived by firemen yesterday after being overcome by gas in their home at 3224 South Leavitt street.

Simpson Urges 5 Cent Tax on Gasoline as Relief Plan

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

James Simpson, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, yesterday suggested to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission a plan for raising an estimated $10,000,000 in taxes a year which would relieve the burden on real estate to that extent.

Mr. Simpson's proposed new tax would be a form of sales tax payable by automobile owners. In addition to the three cents a gallon gas tax now paid by the autoist for the purpose of building roads, Mr. Simpson would add two cents more. This two cents would be collected by the state, but returned to the county from which collected.

"Railroads and other forms of transportation pay taxes into the general funds which are used for many purposes other than those of direct benefit to the transportation interests," wrote Mr. Simpson to Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the commission. "The automobile is merely a newer form of transportation facility, and I believe it should be taxed along with other forms of transportation for the benefit of the general public."

Mr. Simpson points out in his letter that the state highway department says that only "some 1,400 miles of the road system remain to be built, and that it is expected that the entire program will be completed early in 1933." Continuing, the letter reads:

"I am not suggesting that the existing gas tax or its present use be interferred with or changed in the slightest degree."

"My suggestion is that your committee should include among its recommendations for financial relief one that a tax of two cents a gallon be imposed upon gasoline in addition to the present three cents; and that the proceeds from this two cents be paid back to the municipalities in which the tax is collected.

"This would be a statewide tax, but the income from it would be devoted to corporate and educational purposes in the localities where the tax is paid. In Cook county, for instance, money so raised might amount to as much as $10,000,000 a year, and to that extent at least would serve to relieve the burden on real estate.

"I trust your committee will give this suggestion due consideration, as I personally believe it provides an easy means of helping solve our financial difficulty in a way that should meet with general public approval."

The governor's commission is scheduled to have a meeting this evening at the Union League club. It is attempting to hurry along approval of its proposed program.

DENY SCHOOLS PAID EXORBITANT PRICES FOR TOYS

Inquiry Reveals Method of Buying Goods.

Charges that the school board paid exorbitant prices for inferior toys to be used in public kindergarten work were branded as false yesterday by school executives and trustees at a meeting of the school board committee on finance. The quality of the goods was vouched for by Miss Rose Pesta, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of kindergarten work.

A committee of kindergarten teachers appointed by Supt. William J. Bogan reported that the prices were reasonable. They stated that the facts were distorted in the charges that the prices were too high.

How Toys Were Bought.

"The selections," it was explained by Miss Pesta, "were made by a committee of teachers after consulting with kindergarten experts of national repute, among them Prof. Patty Hill of Columbia university. The purchases were made, not by the board members, but by the teachers after careful comparison of quality and prices. Since the toys are intended for use, not display, durability is important."

She pointed out that the cost of toys is about $25 a year for each class, or about 45 cents a year for each child. The committee which made the selections was headed by Mrs. Edna R. Meyers, principal of the Lewis Champlin school. Representatives of the State street stores from which the purchases were made appeared before the committee to demonstrate the value of their product and to answer questions of the trustees.

ROB WOMAN OF $4,700.

Two men snatched a portfolio containing $4,700 in checks yesterday from Miss Eva Centanni, cashier for the Jefferson Electric company, 1500 South Ladin street, as she was on her way to a loop bank.

WOODPILE WORK TEST TO BE GIVEN IDLE WHO COME TO NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—New York City will ask the unemployed from other cities who come here looking for assistance to undergo a "woodpile work test" before it gives them food or lodging, according to an announcement today by Frank J. Taylor, commissioner of the department of public welfare.

Mr. Taylor explained that the city hoped to discourage the unemployed of other cities from "floating" to New York with the idea that food and lodging could be obtained easily here. Under the work-test arrangement applicants will be sent to a central registration bureau operated under the auspices of charitable organizations, which will check up their addresses.

LOOP BILLIARD HALL HELD UP BY FOUR BANDITS

Four bandits invaded the Kleckhafer bowling and billiard hall at 20 East Randolph street early this morning, lined up twenty-five patrons and employés against the wall, and fled with $200 and a new camel hair coat.

Two of the robbers carried revolvers, and another was armed with a shotgun. The fourth man, who did the marching, was unarmed. They took $150 of the company receipts from the safe after compelling Oran Durocher, 4246 Sheridan road, to open it.

From Richard Atema, 8 East Pearson street, the robbers took $39, but returned $14 of it "for carfare." J. R. Monks, 2158 Sheffield avenue, lost $8, and about fifteen other patrons lost smaller amounts. Leonard Hamilton, 3143 Evans avenue, was deprived of his camel hair coat. One of the gunmen tried it on, remarked that it fit, and walked out wearing it on completion of the holdup.

Motorists, will you help me?

"I am a member of the school boys' patrol. I help your children to cross streets safely. You have seen me at my post on blistering hot days, in the biting cold, and in downpours of rain. But I love my work. I am helping to cut down injuries and deaths to children. You know me by my white Sam Browne belt and my badge.

"It may not mean much to you that I saved the life of a little boy yesterday. It did mean a lot to his mother. You can help me by driving carefully. I ask your help."

That is the message any of the 18,000 members of the school boys' patrol in the territory of the Chicago Motor Club would give you. The club has a vital interest in these boys. In the sixty-two counties in Illinois and Indiana in which we operate we supply these boys of the public, parochial and Lutheran schools with belts and badges and help to organize and to instruct the patrol units in some 9,000 schools.

Your membership makes this work possible. You also receive free emergency road service, touring information, bail bond, home district and insurance service. It costs only $15 to join. Mail the coupon for further information.

OFFICIALS ACT TO SPEED PAY FOR TEACHERS

Council and School Board Back $7,000,000 Plan.

Hornbaker, principal of the Darwin school, the 280 teachers at the meeting agreed that their interests would best be served by advocating the following:

1. Approval by the board of education of the sale of $6,965,000 of 1930 education fund tax warrants, the proceeds to be used to buy 1931 warrants and the cash thus derived to pay back salaries.
2. Haste in the collection of back taxes.
3. Simplification of the Cook county assessing machinery.
4. Legislation understood to be the program of the governor's revenue commission, a sales tax, tobacco tax and an amusement tax.
5. The appointment of a committee of teachers to follow legislative proposals and bring about laws designed to take the schools out of politics.

Approval of this platform was given unanimously.

COMMITTEE TO SEEK CASH

A committee was appointed yesterday by Mayor Cermak at the request of the city council, to try to obtain money by the sale of tax anticipation warrants to pay the salaries of public employés.

The appointment of the committee ended an hour's debate in which the aldermen blamed the Chicago bankers for the difficulty of the local governments in selling warrants, and criticised the governor's revenue commission for holding secret sessions.

"Some of this criticism is unjust," commented Mayor Cermak at the end. "If you examine the reasons why the bankers are not buying you will find that they already have $228,000,000 worth of warrants that are frozen assets, and that the bankers have no customers to take the warrants off their hands.

"As for the governor's commission, I am on it and am represented by Corporation Counsel Sexton. The commission's executive committee meets late several nights a week working on legislation to help the local government. If the commission doesn't do something for the city we won't have any money at all. Don't do things to antagonize those whom we want to help us."

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] called attention to the "inconsistency of kicking and pleading at the same time" when the resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to meet with the bankers was introduced by Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], Barnet Hodes [7th], and James B. Waller [43d].

The sponsors of the resolution then deleted some of their attack on the banking interests.

The committee appointed by the mayor to wait on the bankers is composed of Aldermen Nelson, Hodes and Waller, Mr. Sexton, Controller Szymczak, and Lowell Avery, chairman of the mayor's advisory committee.

Ex-Crown Prince Sells Old Car; Buys One of 200 H. P.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The former crown prince of Germany is selling his car on the second hand car market in Berlin. The red 120 horse power Mercedes, which the crown prince chauffeured himself at breakneck speed, is on the market alongside fancy cars of actors and actresses whose budgets have been cut down by hard times. But the scion of Hohenzollern is not a victim of hard times. He has bought a new 200 horsepower Mercedes.

AL WOODS DECLARES HIMSELF BANKRUPT; FILES N. Y. PETITION

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Al Woods, the theatrical producer, declared himself insolvent today in filing a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in the federal district court. Only yesterday the Shubert Theater corporation went into the hands of a receiver in equity.

Woods is using his full name, Albert H., which is seldom used on Broadway, promised to file complete schedules of assets and liabilities within ten days, and in the meantime estimated assets at $1,668,539 and his liabilities at $1,026,540.

An incomplete list of assets included:

Interest in silent and talking motion pictures, $512,366; interest in plays available for stock production, $90,000; accounts receivable, $230,000; interest in and ownership of capital stock of various corporations not specified, $306,000; unliquidated claims, $530,000.

STORE MANAGER ROBBED AT BUSY SO. SIDE CORNER

In view of more than a dozen patrons and clerks, a gunman last night held up and slugged Ronald L. Waterman, 6300 Normal avenue, manager, in the W. S. Grant variety store at 63d and Green streets, and escaped with between $700 and $800.

Just before closing time Waterman made a tour of the various cashiers in the store collecting their receipts and putting the money in a small bag. He passed a lunch counter.

The robber, who had been sitting at the counter, halted Waterman by pressing a revolver against his side. Waterman struggled with the robber who fired a shot that went wild. The bandit then struck Waterman on the head with the butt of his gun, snatched the money bag and fled.

GET ESTIMATES ON CLEANING OF FEDERAL BLDG.

Estimates requested by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath on the cost of removing the dust and grime from Chicago's federal building will be forwarded to Washington the early part of next week, Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and custodian of the building, announced yesterday. Mr. Czarnecki said that pursuant to a conference with Mr. Heath in Washington several days ago in which the matter of cleaning the building was discussed, he had asked cleaning companies for estimates on the job.

Not since the gilded dome was completed in 1904 has the outside of the building been cleaned, Mr. Czarnecki said.

For the past two years the Municipal Art League of Chicago has been urging that the building be restored to its former splendor. According to Paul Schulze, president of the league, communications have been received from Congressman Britten stating that he had taken up the matter with treasury department officials and that he "could almost definitely promise" that the building would be cleaned by 1932, or before the World's Fair."

ALDERMEN GET COUNCIL REPORT ON ATTENDANCE

Members of the city council yesterday received a report card on which was listed their records for attendance at committee meetings between May 4 and Sept. 10. Sixteen aldermen received a mark of 100 for perfect attendance at all meetings.

At the council meeting Mayor Cermak was requested by Ald. James B. Waller [43d] to inaugurate a "Give a Job" campaign to help the unemployed. Each citizen and business house would be urged, under the Waller plan, to find or create some work that could be done by an unemployed head of a family.

In a resolution introduced by Ald. John Toman [23d] the council requested congress to raise the maximum deposit limit of the governmental postal savings bank from $2,500 to $10,000 and to provide for checking accounts. Such a measure, Ald. Toman said, would promote industrial activity.

ROBBERY BOND FORFEITED.

The $10,000 bond of Isadore Ottman, 48 years old, of 1631 Ridgeway avenue, identified as a robber, was ordered forfeited by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude when he failed to appear in the felony court.

Montreal's Notre Dame Puts in Sprinkler System

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 21.—Historic Notre Dame church, located on Place D'Armes at Montreal, a leading point of interest to American tourists, has been equipped with a sprinkler system as a precaution against fires during the coming winter. Last winter three large Canadian churches were destroyed by fire. Sixty have been razed in the last ten years. The oldest and best known church in the city has now modernized to prevent its destruction.

Bandit Robs Bus Office Third Time in 3 Weeks

A bandit made his third visit in three weeks yesterday to the Greyhound Bus Lines station, 4302 Stony Island avenue, and obtained $200. The robber so skilfully concealed his revolver as he held up Edward Johnson, the cashier, that two customers in the place believed he was merely another customer purchasing a ticket.

ROBBED OF $1,700 CASH.

Two gunmen held up Charles Lynch, an employe in the Commonwealth Edison company's branch office at 4834 South Ashland avenue, and took $1,700 from him which he was taking to a bank yesterday.

NELSON NAMES RECEIVERS FOR 3 CLOSED BANKS

State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced the appointment of receivers and attorneys for three closed banks yesterday.

Frank M. McKey, now receiver for the Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank, was named receiver also for the Union State bank, 3024 East 92d street. The firm of Ryan, Condon & Livingston were named attorneys.

John A. Pelka, west parks commissioner, was named receiver for the Marshall Square State bank, 2118 West 32d street, and for the Brighton Park State bank, 4363 Archer avenue. Barrett, Barrett & Wermuth were appointed attorneys.

ET POLITICAL PARK JOBS BY DRAWING LOTS

ional Patronage System of Ald. Feigenbutz.

BY PARKE BROWN.

thing new in the distribution political patronage was discovered terday in the Lincoln park dis- rict, where Gov. Emmerson recently as been building up his own organ- ation, a process consisting chiefly of ailing up ward committeemen identi- ed until last April with the old city achine.

The new method of distributing ad- inistration favors on the Lincoln ark pay roll was described by poli- icians as "throwing 'em up for rabs." While this may have been one before, this is the first time the ecret has become known to the ublic.

Most of the story was disclosed in a issue of the "Lincoln-Belmont dvertiser," a neighborhood newspaper hich has been supporting Ald. Wil- am E. Feigenbutz, Republican com- itteeman for the 45th ward and one f the recent Emmerson converts. herefore, what was published in the aper was considered of a friendly ature.

How Jobs Are Given.

"Draw Lots for Five Park Jobs" as the caption on the Booster's story, hich went on to say:

"Five jobs in Lincoln park were ffered by Ald. William H. Feigenbutz nd 'raffled off' among unemployed embers of the North End Improve- ent association Friday night.

"Ald. Feigenbutz, through newly ade political connections, is in charge f local patronage in Lincoln park. e charge was made for the 'raffle.' he system amounted to drawing lots or the jobs."

In discussing the story Ald. Feigen- utz said the North End Improvement ssociation had been hostile toward im and other Lincoln park ofrmen in the past, that about 150 f its members had been out of work, nd that he believed he might win the riendship of the organization by let- ing it fill the park jobs.

Claims Cause Controversy.

Ald. Feigenbutz's claims to park atronage based on Gov. Emmerson's ction also are the center of a quiet ontroversy among the park commis- ioners. He has advanced a new con- ention that if a job lies in a ward it hould be filled by a man from that ard.

Hoyle park, one of the small parks f the district at Wellington and Byron avenues, lies within Feigen- utz's ward, the 45th. It is now in harge of Charles Cutler, former ard leader, who has won commendation or his handling of his little domain. eigenbutz demands that Cutler's job e given to a Feigenbutz man, Charles Benson, who lives in the ward, hile Cutler lives in the adjoining ard, the 46th, which also pays Lin- oln park taxes.

Referred to Committee.

The question of whether "to the ard belongs the spoils" has been eferred to a special committee of the ark board, consisting of Commission- rs Warren Wright, president, Oscar A. Baum and Sheldon Clark. The ommittee also will consider other roblems raised by the Emmerson or- er to give all 45th ward patronage o Ald. Feigenbutz and all 46th ward obs to Ald. Oscar Nelson.

Up to the present the policy of resident Wright and his associates as been to refuse to oust an experi- nced and qualified employé merely to make room for a man nominated by a ard committeeman.

Defense Attorney Charges Contempt in Sanitary Case

ALBERT FINK.

Attorney Albert Fink, counsel for Timothy J. Crowe and other ex-trustees of the drainage board charged with gross misuse of public funds, made the demand in an appearance before Judge Fisher with a motion to quash the indictments against the clients.

"I am tired of having the Daily News try to bulldoze in every case where I represent clients," Attorney Fink said heatedly. "The same tactics were attempted in the Maguire case before County Judge Jarecki. The chances of a fair trial for my clients are being prejudiced."

(The Maguire case was that in which Judge Jarecki cleared Fred F. Maguire, chairman of the election commissions, of charges that he employed persons with criminal records as election officials.)

Judge Withholds Action.

Judge Fisher withheld action on Mr. Fink's demand, although Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup joined his opponent in a suggestion that the court immediately dispose of all charges of "political maneuvering" in the case, charges recently uttered by Mr. Northup himself.

The court held it would be unwise to inject extraneous issues into the case until the indictments have been disposed of. On Mr. Fink's plea that he was now engaged in Federal court matters concerning another client, Al Capone, the motion to quash was continued to next Tuesday.

Mr. Fink opened hostilities the moment the sanitary district case was called.

Fink Charges Contempt.

"Before we start," he said, "it is my duty to call the court's attention formally to what I regard as willful contempt of this court, operating to the prejudice of defendants in this trial. I refer to an editorial in the Daily News of Oct. 17 and to certain statements purporting to have been issued to the press by Mr. Northup."

Attorney Fink read into the record a Daily News editorial entitled "Judge Fisher's Fine Opportunity." The article declared that Judge Fisher, in view of the political character of the case, would do well to assign it to a judge not picked by either prosecution or defense.

"I suppose your honor is also acquainted with interviews in the press asserting that political maneuvering was operating in this case," Mr. Fink went on. "There is no foundation of fact or truth for these statements. I propose to examine Mr. Northup under oath and let the court decide the truth of the matter."

Northup Accepts Challenge.

Mr. Northup broke in.

"I am ready to thrash the contempt matter out right now," he shouted. "Mr. Fink wants to make an issue of this matter and I am ready. I demand that the court make an immediate disposal of these charges before the trial."

"I have reason to believe the prosecutor is trying to have this case tried by a judge of his own choosing," Mr. Fink retorted. "At a conference between prosecuting and defense lawyers he objected to every judge on the bench."

Judge Fisher ended the dispute with the observation that it would be "unfortunate to create new issues now and thus create false impressions before the trial is heard; the essential point is to have the case against the defendants heard and disposed of."

MOTHER WINS CHILD IN NINE YR. LEGAL BATTLE

The Appellate court yesterday ended a nine years' struggle between two parents for the custody of their son, now 10 years old, in a ruling under which the boy is returned to his mother, Mrs. Dorothy M. Kruger of the Edgewater Beach hotel, daughter of Herman R. Mieh, retired millionaire merchant. Her former husband and the child's father is Milton C. Kruger, wealthy garment manufacturer.

After obtaining her divorce in March, 1922, Mrs. Kruger was granted the custody of her infant son, Richard. Shortly afterward, however, she was declared incompetent in the county court and placed under the guardianship of her father. The child remained in his mother's home until February, 1927, when he was placed in the Sherwood school while his mother made an ocean trip in an effort to regain her health.

Upon her return, it was learned, Kruger had taken his son from the school and refused to relinquish him. The shock, Mrs. Kruger alleged in subsequent court hearings, caused her to suffer a relapse and she was placed in a Milwaukee sanitarium.

Meanwhile the court order had been amended allowing Kruger the custody of the growing boy. Last September, however, Judge Harry A. Lewis ordered the boy returned to his mother. Kruger appealed to the higher court.

Judge to Hear Motions in Serritella Case on Nov. 30

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court yesterday set Nov. 30 as the date on which he will hear preliminary motions in the trials of State Senator Daniel Serritella, former city sealer, and his one time chief deputy, Harry Hochstein, charged with short weight conspiracy. Both defense and prosecution attorneys agreed to the continuance.

RALPH CAPONE ALMOST GOES TO U. S. PRISON

Saved by Notice of New Legal Move.

Ralph Capone, elder brother of Scarface Al, had a narrow escape from an immediate trip to Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday. Word that the gangster had filed with the Supreme court at Washington an appeal from his conviction and sentence to three years for income tax fraud was delayed in reaching the Circuit Court of Appeals here.

RALPH CAPONE.

Automatically a mandate was issued from the Circuit court authorizing Clerk Frederick G. Campbell to prepare a mittimus for the United States marshal under which Capone would have been arrested and taken to Leavenworth immediately.

Prison Mandate Withdrawn.

But Attorney George N. Murdock hurried to the federal building and showed a telegram from a Washington attorney to Judges Samuel Alschuler and Evan A. Evans of the Circuit court, stating that a petition for a writ of certiorari had been filed. The penitentiary mandate was then withdrawn, the petition having been filed one day before the expiration of the stay of execution granted Capone when the Appellate court affirmed his conviction several weeks ago.

Capone was convicted in April, 1930, by a jury in Judge James H. Wilkerson's court. Besides the three year sentence he was fined $11,000. He is at liberty on bond of $35,000.

Seek New Delay for D'Andrea.

Attorneys for Philip D'Andrea, bodyguard to Al Capone, announced yesterday that they would seek another continuance when D'Andrea's contempt of court case is called before Judge Wilkerson this morning. D'Andrea was arrested for carrying a gun into court during Capone's recent trial.

Federal prosecutors indicated that they would not oppose the continuance of the D'Andrea case until after the disposition of Al Capone's case, because D'Andrea has been in jail since his arrest. Capone is to be in court tomorrow in connection with a motion for arrest of judgment in his recent conviction for income tax evasion, and the prosecutors are hopeful that he will be sentenced then. A writ of supersedeas will be opposed, and if this is denied Capone will go to the penitentiary immediately.

CRUSADERS ACT TO LINE UP VOTE FOR DRY REPEAL

All State Precincts to Be Organized.

The Crusaders are preparing to organize on ward, district, and precinct lines for the battle to liberalize the Volstead act and to submit the question of the repeal of the prohibition amendment when congress meets in December.

The drys' action follows a luncheon for 75 battalion commanders of the Crusaders, given at the Bismarck hotel on Tuesday by Seymour Wheeler, state commander, when plans were formulated to establish an organization in every precinct in the city and state, similar to that of the major political parties. Unlike the political parties, the machinery when perfected will operate all the year through instead of getting into action only at campaign times.

Gain 100,000 Members Here.

A consolidation program, under which various anti-prohibition groups are uniting for concerted activity, is being advanced. Anouncement was made by Col. Ira L. Reeves, manager of the west central division of the Crusaders, that within the last two weeks more than 100,000 members have been added to the Crusaders in Chicago alone. This is through the affiliation of several labor and fraternal organizations and German, Bohemian and Hungarian societies.

Several women's groups have also affiliated with the organization, and Col. Reeves says the membership of the Crusaders in Chicago alone is now above the 225,000 mark.

In Michigan on Monday the Crusaders adopted a similar form of organization, and it is planned to extend it, state by state. Under the plan the affiliating organizations do not lose their separate identity, but on the main point of working to get rid of prohibition they unite under one leadership. They are represented in the political action group. The aim is to put their activities on a uniform basis and to obviate cross purposes.

The Crusaders point out that the dry organizations have a board of strategy, and the liberals will obtain the equivalent of that under the new plans.

Back in the days before the 18th amendment the Anti-Saloon league was organized on a close precinct basis, more closely knit in fact than either of the major national political parties, and it kept its organization working twelve months a year instead of at campaign times only. This organization was the basis for its dry control over congress. The Crusaders purpose to utilize a similar method of organization in exerting pressure on dry voting, wet drinking congressmen right in their districts, where the votes are.

Lawyer, 23 Years Old, Is Named U. S. Prosecutor

William B. Crawford, 23 years old, of Waukegan, was appointed assistant United States district attorney yesterday. He will be the youngest of the federal prosecutors in Chicago. Crawford was graduated at the University of Chicago law school this year. His first duties will be to help Assistant United States District Attorney Dodd Healy in immigration and war risk insurance cases.

EDISON BURIED NEAR SCENE OF HIS TRIUMPHS

Funeral Rites Marked by Simplicity.

over Mr. Edison's grave. Six stalwart state troopers took their posts late today just as twilight was creeping over the hillside and the incandescent lamps that Mr. Edison made possible were beginning to twinkle through the trees.

Oak Leaves on His Bier.

The coffin was sealed before the mourners began to reach the house and Charles Edison, a son, sprinkled over it a handful of red oak leaves picked up from beneath his father's favorite tree. The mourners entered the mansion through an old fashioned doorway into a high ceilinged reception hallway. On the left wall was an oil painting of Mr. Edison done in recent years. There was a fireplace in which gleamed rosy red coals. On the door was a bouquet of lilies of the valley. There was no crêpe.

Leading off from the hallway was the drawing room in which the coffin had been placed. It was a large room with tapestries almost covering its walls. The room was banked high with flowers of every discription. There was an ancient melodeon in one corner of the room and directly behind the coffin was a fence of flowers woven together by George Atchison, Mr. Edison's faithful old gardener and friend.

Employes Send Lilies.

Looking down from the wall above the coffin was a large portrait of Mrs. Edison. There were other oil paintings hanging in the Victorian drawing room. A few feet in front of the coffin was a simple wreath of lilies bearing the words, "Farewell, master." It had been presented by the Edison pioneers, a group of old employés.

The service was opened with the playing of Mr. Edison's two favorite selections, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," and "My Little Gray Home in the West." They were played by Alexander Russell, organist, and Arthur Walsh, violinist. Mr. Walsh is vice president of the Edison Industries, Inc.

A trio followed with an air from Bach, after which they played Beethoven's first movement, "Moonlight Sonata."

The scriptures were read by the Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Herben, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Orange, and a eulogy was given by Dr. Lewis Perry, headmaster of Phillips Exeter academy.

Life Termed "Imperishable."

Dr. Herben, in his eulogy, said Mr. Edison's life was imperishable and "out of it will continue to flow streams of influence for enrichment and betterment for untold generations and the sons of men shall never cease to hold him in appreciation and honor . . ."

Dr. Perry read a tribute prepared by Arthur J. Palmer, a veteran employé. An excerpt was:

"He led no armies into battle; he has conquered no countries; he has enslaved no peoples, yet he wielded a power the magnitude of which no warrior ever dreamed. He commands a devotion more sweeping in scope and more world-wide than any other living man, a devotion rooted deep in his generation."

There was a prayer and then Dr. Perry read a poem, "They Shall Not Die," by Alice Marsten Seaman.

Grave Is on a Slope.

From the spot where Mr. Edison's body rests tonight the distant lights of Manhattan can be seen gleaming. A pale moon was shining when the family, Mr. Edison's wife and six children, turned from the cemetery toward home. The grave is on a slope facing due south.

The Methodist burial service was read at the grave by the officiating clergyman. And the grave was closed as the Lord's prayer was being recited. Mr. Edison in life had been unresponsive to the rituals of the church and had no affiliation with any denomination. Members of his family, however, are of the Methodist faith.

In back of the small group at the grave was seen the thin figure of Henry Ford and by his side stood Harvey Firestone. Dr. Hubert S. Howe, Mr. Edison's personal physician who treated him during his long illness, was among those present.

The entire ceremony at the cemetery lasted exactly fifteen minutes and it was quite dark when it was over.

City Darkened for Minute as Tribute to Thomas Edison

Chicago, in part, for sixty and more seconds last night became the Chicago it might have been but for Thomas A. Edison.

Promptly at 9 o'clock, in keeping with the rest of the nation, lights in Chicago went out, leaving sections of the city in semi or total darkness as a tribute to the memory of the famous inventor who was buried yesterday from his home in Llewellyn Park, N. J. Earlier ceremonies honoring the electrical genius were held in the afternoon.

Revert to Old Days.

The tribute paid to Edison last night was unique. When Chicago and the nation put out lights, Chicago and the nation partially reverted to a night of darkness which Edison alone changed. And by a coincidence today is the fifty-second anniversary of the wizard's great invention of the incandescent lamp.

Along Michigan avenue, State street, Randolph street, Wacker drive, and other downtown thoroughfares, skyscrapers illuminated in brilliance plunged suddenly into a mellow darkness.

At 9 o'clock the 176 1,000 watt lamps which flood the Tribune Tower in a golden glow discernible for miles went out, leaving the tower to blend in a gray background. For two minutes the Tribune Tower was darkened in respect to Edison's memory. Across the street the flood lights which play upon the Wrigley building were out. South of the bridge other skyscrapers became a part of the darkness as their lights went out.

The rotating and stationary beams of the Lindbergh beacon atop the Palmolive building were turned off for the minute of observance. Several other aviation beacons also were extinguished. Many movie houses which owe direct existence to Edison's creative mind, halted in the midst of pictures, and the Chicago Stadium, where the Cook County fair is being held, was converted into sixty seconds of quiet and darkness.

State Street Lights Off.

Thousands of loop goers in State street witnessed the tribute to Edison when the super street lighting system was turned off for one minute. Several State street and other houses darkened their display signs. Along the river the huge Merchandise Mart was plunged into darkness when its myriad of lights were extinguished.

It was not downtown alone that "lights out" was observed. In outlying business sections, in thousands of homes, one minute darkness prevailed. This was an individual tribute from individuals, to each of whom, as President Hoover declared, Edison was a benefactor. Two days ago the President issued a request that at a set hour the nation turn out its lights in respect to the inventor. He asked, however, that "lights out" be an individual matter.

Tribute Over the Radio.

Radio also honored Edison last night. At 8:58 W-G-N and other stations broadcast a two minute service in which an oratorio, with the words, "Let there be light," from the first chapter of Genesis, was given.

Earlier, Chicago paid full respects to Edison. At 2 o'clock Mayor Cermak and the members of the city council stood in silence for 60 seconds. At the same time street cars and elevated and suburban electric trains halted for the same period. Bugle corps appeared at downtown streets and in buildings to render their homage. Work was halted on the Century of Progress building.

Afternoon ceremonies were held in all schools with 500,000 children participating. Flags flew at half staff during the day. Talks on the life of Edison were given by teachers.

Paris to Rename Street 'Rue Edison' as Tribute

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The municipal council of Paris was asked to rename one of the capital's streets "Rue Edison" to honor the late Thomas A. Edison today by George Prade, one of the city fathers. The proposal is certain to be approved at the council's next session, it is believed.

Places Bust of Edison in Munich Hall of Fame

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—A bust of Thomas A. Edison covered with laurel was placed in the hall of fame in Deutsche museum, Munich, today by Edison's old friend, Oskar von Miller, who was with him on the board of the museum for many years.

GOLDENROD TURNED TO RUBBER; EDISON WINS BEFORE DEATH

East Orange, N. J., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—While Thomas A. Edison's friends were gathered at his funeral today it became known that the inventor's last experiment, the turning of goldenrod into rubber, had been a success. Henry Ford, calling at the garage where newspaper headquarters had been established, confirmed the fact that Mr. Edison's determined quest for a substitute for rubber virtually reached its goal a week before his death.

The elderly industrialist was manifestly pleased that his friend's search for a rubber plant which could be grown in the United States had been rewarded before his death.

Charles Edison, the inventor's eldest son, said that the last experiments had yielded rubber in sufficient quantities to warrant its commercial exploitation.

The great inventor received the news a week ago last Tuesday, it was revealed, when subordinates brought four samples of goldenrod rubber to his bedside. Mr. Edison was reported as "very happy," and it was then that he told his friends that he was ready for death.

COLLEGE YOUTH HELD AFTER CAR KILLS WOMAN

Failed to Stop, His Companion Says.

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Kent Tomlinson, 18 years old, 7701 Rhodes avenue, a freshman at the University of Chicago, held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter following the death of Mrs. Jane Leonard, 60 years old, 1017 East 45th street. The aged woman was run down by the youth's automobile Tuesday evening.

Mark Greene, 17 years old, 8340 Blackstone avenue, a student at the Englewood High school, who was riding with Tomlinson when the accident occurred at 45th street and Drexel boulevard, was held as accessory.

At the inquest Greene testified that Tomlinson had driven away after the crash and telephoned to his home. The latter's parents advised him to surrender, and both youths then went to the Hyde Park police station. Another witness, Bernard Mulligan, 5455 Ellis avenue, a clerk, said that the aged woman walked into the path of the boys' car. Tomlinson swerved to avoid her, but failed to stop after knocking her to the pavement, he said. Tomlinson did not testify on advice of his attorney.

Girl Driver Is Freed.

Another coroner's jury investigating the death of Michael Meckel, 6610 South Paulina street, who was fatally hurt Monday afternoon, declared the crash accidental and freed the driver, Miss Helen Hodges, 16 years old, 324 West 55th street. The young woman had been held at the Juvenile Detention home. She was released at the inquest.

Four deaths in Cook county yesterday brought the toll since Jan. 1 to 1,006. The victims:

John Henning, 90 years old, Niles Center. Killed when struck by an automobile near his home. The driver, John H. Mudg, 5447 Kenmore avenue, was held.

Amalia Hissien, 74 years old, 216 Florimond street. Died at the Augustana hospital from injuries sustained Oct. 17, when she was struck at Menominee avenue and Clark street as she stepped off a street car. The driver was Frank Torpey, 1902 Newport avenue.

Matt Lyons, 68 years old, 2147 Washington boulevard, operator of a horseshoeing shop at 1839 West Lake street for 45 years. Fatally injured by an automobile in front of 1815 West Lake street. Frank Kolvek, 21 years old, 655 North Racine avenue, driver of the car, was held. Lyons was the father of Edward J. Lyons, former assistant state's attorney, with whom he lived.

Edward Walsh, 62 years old, 6759 South Chicago avenue, a starter employed by the Checker Taxi company. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile while waiting for a street car at Ashland avenue and Thirty-fifth street. Earl G. Hill, 16 years old, 1724 West 65th street, was the driver.

Hold that Line!

Fluctuation in the temperature of your home is unhealthful and expensive. End it . . . with the new G-E Heat Regulator

THERE is an exact temperature-line at which your home is most comfortable and healthful. It may be 70 degrees, or it may be 68, or 72.

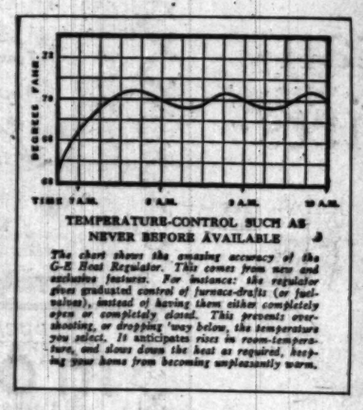
Whichever it is, you want your home to remain right on that line, without fluctuation, and without being affected by outside weather-conditions.

Once this was difficult to have. Now it is very easy. For the new General Electric Heat Regulator gets the exact temperature you select — and maintains it with not more than ½ of 1 degree variation—whether there be a blizzard or a thaw outside!

This is possible, of course, only because of new developments, pioneered in the G-E Laboratories, and placed exclusively on the G-E Heat Regulator.

See this remarkable device today. Study its exclusive, patented features for yourself; learn what they could mean in added comfort, convenience, health and economy in your home.

The single-range model costs only $85; the double-range model, with an electric timer for automatic day and night temperature-changes, $125. Prices include installation. Convenient time-payments if you wish.



TEMPERATURE-CONTROL SUCH AS NEVER BEFORE AVAILABLE

The chart shows the amazing accuracy of the G-E Heat Regulator. This comes from new and exclusive features. For instance: the regulator gives graduated control of furnace-drafts (or fuel-valves), instead of having them either completely open or completely closed. This prevents overshooting, or dropping away below, the temperature you select. It anticipates rises in room-temperature, and slows down the heat as required, keeping your home from becoming unpleasantly warm.

CHEERY PICTURE IS PAINTED OF FARM OUTLOOK

Experts Hunt Way to Better Plowing.

A. S. Newcomer of Utica, N. Y., president of the association, said that a surplus was not a new or serious matter for the farmer.

"A small rise in the living standards of several countries now striving for world betterment would be enough to absorb our export surplus of wheat and cotton," said Mr. Newcomer. "While these two crops receive a great deal of attention, they represent only 8 and 12 per cent of the income from farm products, respectively. Dairy and poultry products account for nearly one-third of the total income and live stock for 24 per cent. All these are on a more profitable basis."

Good Prospects in South.

C. A. Cobb, editor of the Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, Atlanta, Ga., said the prospects for southern agriculture, including cotton, were better now than a few years ago. The south has changed its agricultural outlook materially in recent years, due to both federal aid and natural evolutions, he said.

"More far reaching than all is the change in population revealed by the 1930 census," he declared. "During the last twenty years the white population of twelve southern states has increased 14 per cent, while the colored has decreased 9 per cent.

"Today the mortgage debt of the southern states, which produce 40 per cent of the nation's agricultural output, is only 12 per cent of the national farm debt."

Seek Better Plowing.

Industrial engineers, aided by well financed research plans, are seeking improvements in plowing methods, it was reported at the convention. Improvement in basic methods of tilling the soil has been exceedingly slow since the wooden plows of ancient Egypt, it was said. Now it may be that a row of disks may in a large measure supplant the old types of cultivation in an effort to pulverize the soil, conserve moisture, and kill weeds at higher speeds.

Improvements in Infancy.

"Practical tractor farming is a matter of recent date, and the adaptation of tools fitted to this more even and somewhat faster power is still in its infancy," stated C. D. Kinsman of Arlington Heights, author of a federal study on farm power. "Several obstacles have been met in the transition; others are unquestionably in the offing."

Kinsman agreed with R. J. Kough, John Deere company official, and L. J. Fletcher, farm engineer for Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria, that early attempts to produce fast plowing equipment had been unsuccessful.

"We got around the speed, with its great increase in cost of power and wasting of valuable humus, by adding more plowing surface and trailing the plow with discs and harrows," declared Fletcher. "Costs of production will be reduced most, however, by increasing yields per acre and improving the use of power adapted to general farming practices."

Best Results Not Obtained.

"I have yet to see the farm where the most was being made of power and equipment," declared Kinsman. "The tractor's present plowing speed of 3 to 3 miles per hour, if doubled, would produce the need for so much more power than the farmer could economically use that the best minds are recommend reducing costs by using wider swaths in plowing or cultivating, yet maintaining a slow but thorough turning over of the soil."

"Plowing requires 20 per cent of all the power used on farms today," said Kough, who cited examples of great strides in cost reductions by the use of the general purpose tractor with adapted equipment."

Boy, 6, Fires 'Unloaded' Gun; Father in Hospital

Bennie Hansen Jr., 5 years old, found a .45 caliber revolver in his father's car, parked in front of their home at 3057 West 51st street, yesterday. The older Hansen and his brother-in-law, George Barney of Fox Lake, Wis., smiled, for they thought the gun was unloaded. The boy pulled the trigger. His father was taken to the county hospital with a bullet in his liver.

BANK CALLS ON DEPOSITORS TO GET THEIR MONEY

Letters were mailed last night to the 3,500 depositors in the Safety State bank, 5617 Belmont avenue, asking them to withdraw their deposits from the bank. Daniel V. Harkin, president, announced that the bank would close after all the depositors had been paid.

"We have cash to pay out every cent of the depositors money," said Mr. Harkin. "The Safety State bank was opened in June, 1929, and for a year and a half enjoyed a satisfactory patronage from the neighborhood. Our deposits approached $500,000. Due to general business conditions and unrest among the people, our business has fallen off until the deposits amount to $100,000.

"The directors have concluded that the neighborhood is not able to give to the bank the proper support to enable it to pay operating expenses and a reasonable return to the stockholders."

SLAYER MAKES A CONFESSION TO 'SCOTLAND YARD'

The confessor is George Nichols, 45 years old. He admitted the strangling last May 9 of Mrs. Maggie Maine, 60 years old, in the basement of her home at 1247 West Jackson boulevard. Nichols was arrested in Peoria several days ago, and returned last evening to Chicago by Sergt. Michael Naughton.

Naughton questioned him for several hours at the downtown headquarters, but Nichols denied the killing. The sergeant then whisked him to the Scotland Yard offices at 21st street and Canalport avenue. Five minutes later Nichols confessed.

"The prisoner said that he was tending furnace in the basement of Mrs. Maine's home when she appeared and berated him for not procuring a regular job while his wife was working. She tried to hit him, he said, and he seized her by the throat. He fled, not knowing she died, he pleaded. Nichols denied he stole $300 from a money belt which Mrs. Maine supposedly wore.

Witnesses Intimidated in Robbery Case, Police Say

The hearing of a robbery charge against Edward Zielinski, 27 years old, 1637 Blackhawk street, was continued until Saturday by Judge Leon Edelman in the South Chicago court yesterday when the police charged that witnesses against the defendant had been intimidated. The defendant, with four companions, is accused of robbing shop owners in the steel district on pay roll days.

7 Quality Tests

1. The Double All Wool Test. (A) Boiling out test—all wool is dissolved; if any cotton is in the cloth it is rejected. (B) Acid test—shows any loss in weight or strength. Only fabrics that rate 100% are used in Fashion Tailored Clothes.
2. The Concentrated Sunlight Test—Made on a color Fade-o-Meter. Fabrics are exposed to terrific light. Demonstrates the resistance to fading of fabrics.
3. The Test of Color Fastness — Perspiration tests for color fastness — determines that acid will not change or bleach the color of fabric.
4. Microscopic Wool Quality Test—A detailed study of yarn structure, twist and general appearance of fabrics—to note fineness of fibres and spirality.
5. The Friction Wear Test —A powerful testing machine to measure resistance to wear—life of nap, resistance to "shine."
6. The Iron Jaw Test—Made with a mechanical arrangement that registers MAXIMUM pounds of the pull on warp-way and fill-way. Fabrics used in Fashion Tailored Clothes have the greatest strength. Same test is used on Canvas, Haircloth, Body Linings, Thread, Trimmings, etc.
7. The Zero Shrinkage Test —To prove the absence of any further shrinkage after fabrics have undergone standard shrinkage. Fabrics that do not measure up to this test are rejected.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE RAILROAD RATE DECISION.

The interstate commerce commission has handed down its decision on the petition of the railroads for an emergency increase of 15 per cent in freight rates. The commission denies the request, but says it will permit a temporary raising of a good many of the nonagricultural tariffs and estimates that the railroads will benefit to the extent of $100,000,000 or more. The additional revenues should be pooled, the commission says, and used to help the weaker roads pay their interest charges.

If this recommendation is followed, the shippers will be taxed to keep alive railroads which never should have been built or which have outlived their usefulness or are badly managed. Many of these lines ought to be abandoned. The commission proposes keeping them alive at the expense of the public and of railroads which can survive if given a fair chance.

The commission finds it easy to attack the argument of the railroads in behalf of the 15 per cent increase, but as between that proposal and the finding of the commission the railroads have all the better of the argument. Their proposal, at any rate, would not have penalized the relatively useful lines for the sake of the relatively useless ones. It would have made it possible for the stronger railroads to maintain their rights of way and equipment in a high state of efficiency. It would have given additional strength to the securities of the sounder railroad companies which are the foundation of our financial structure.

To be sure, the 15 per cent increase was not the ideal method of achieving the desired result, but it was the only method which was feasible under the peculiar form of railroad management which obtains in this country. Our government, though it is not responsible for the results, presumes to dictate the rates which the railroads may charge and the services which they must perform. Before a railroad may make any important changes in its rates or its services to conform to changed conditions of business the commission must in effect give its approval.

A rate structure is an intricate network. It reflects or should reflect the existence of competing means of transport and the desire of shippers to place their goods in markets where they will compete with goods originating in other parts of the country. Rates should be adjusted to enable the railroads as far as possible to obtain a balanced movement of freight over their lines to avoid the hauling of empty cars for long distances. The rate structure should be the product of a vast amount of detailed knowledge and experience. If the members of the commission were increased tenfold in numbers and tenfold in intellectual capacity the commission would still be incompetent to handle the enormous mass of detail involved in the task assigned to it by congress.

The railroads were in difficulties and needed assistance quickly. If they had asked for a modification of this rate and that one, years must have elapsed before the commission could have given consideration to all the conflicting interests involved. In the circumstances all that the railroad managers could do was to request a horizontal increase, although they knew that any such advance in many items would kill traffic unless promptly modified. The railroads' proposal was perhaps clumsy, but at least it was not as absurd as the commerce commission's finding.

The decision calls attention with unusual force to the need for limiting the scope of the commerce commission. Instead of placing water carriers, trucks, buses, and airplanes under commission control, as the commission desires, a reasonable freedom of the railroads to shape their own destinies should be restored. The existence of competing services will go far to prevent gouging. Enterprising management will enable sound roads to give good service to the public at reasonable rates and the burden of the unsound properties can be lifted from productive industry.

RESPECT FOR THE LAW.

The Chicago Motor club is doing a public service in supporting the complaint of a citizen of Berwyn against the local police. This citizen charges a brutal assault after arrest, and the charge, if substantiated, as seems probable, emphasizes the condition of irresponsibility among certain police officers, especially in outlying districts.

We would make every proper allowance for the difficulties and provocations the police encounter in enforcing proper laws and regulations upon individuals lacking in respect for law and for the rights of others. We have too many of these, men and women, too, who have no sense of their responsibility in a civilized community, who beat the light, drive recklessly, ignore the comfort and safety of others, and deserve stern discipline. But discipline, we must insist, should at all times and in every case be within legal limits. The lawlessness of an offender does not justify lawlessness by the police. It is essential to proper conditions that the enforcer of laws shall himself respect them. No doubt flagrant disregard for regulations puts a strain upon the guardian of the law, but it is his first duty to keep himself in hand and strictly confine his action within the limits of his authority.

The case in Berwyn seems to be a serious example of lawlessness in law enforcement, although unfortunately, as the records of dry law enforcement abundantly illustrate, it is far from unique. The prohibition régime has spread lawlessness not only among private citizens but among the servants of the law, and the evil ranges from the offensive bawling out of citizens for lesser offenses against traffic regulations to the killing of citizens for suspected breaches of the dry laws. Lawlessness has infected not only our citizenship but the agents of the law, a vicious circle which must be broken. In the long run respect for the law in its enforcers brings respect for the law in the public, and disrespect breeds disrespect. The weaknesses of our administration of justice, which defeat it so often, are not to be cured by lawlessness in law enforcement.

A JEFFERSON MEMORIAL.

The study of Thomas Jefferson in his stately home at Monticello, Va., has been dedicated as a memorial to the freedom of the press. The ceremonies were in charge of the freedom of the press committee of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation. The country needs more paths beaten back to Jefferson. It was necessary in the beginning that a balance be struck between his ideas of government and those represented in the Federalist party and attached generally to the name of Hamilton. The Union might have been too loose a confederation with too great a restriction of authority if all Jefferson's fears of it had been expressed in its organization. The American citizen will be exposed to oppression if all Jefferson's fears of government are ignored.

His doctrine put foremost the dignity, liberty, and happiness of the individual as a free man, the supreme ideal, to conserve which men submitted to authority created and maintained by themselves. Governments cannot be trusted to provide for the happiness of mankind. It was Jefferson's observation that they did well if they did not prevent it. Hence his conclusion that the least government was the best.

He recognized that the right to have and express opinions was the first requisite of liberty. In his early days it was a right nowhere completely recognized. The power to suppress had not been relinquished by authority, and even after the American republic formulated the doctrines of free citizenship there was an effort to return to autocracy in the sedition act. The right to oppose and criticize government, to expose misdeeds and attack invasions of private rights is indispensable. It is the instinct of free people to exercise this right, but it is the instinct of authority to censor and suppress.

In the complexities of modern life many of the original principles of the American people have become obscured and neglected, but they have not lost their value. The doctrines of Jefferson have become more necessitous than ever, and the symbol of Monticello more important.

A FOOLISH LAW WEAKLY ADOPTED.

If the fate of the wage rate act should have some restraining effect upon our lawmakers it might compensate the state for the unfortunate results of the law while in operation.

The intention of the proponents of the law may have been good, but their judgment was bad. It is no consolation for those who have suffered by the experiment that it was intended to benefit them. The effort to impose a wage rate by force of law without regard to economic forces promises little success and has in fact resulted in a deplorable postponement of public work needed for employment. The workers, employed and unemployed, have had nothing but injury from this law which their representatives unwisely devised and weak-kneed lawmakers adopted.

When the latter meet again it is to be hoped this experience will induce a better sense of their responsibility. Of half baked proposals every legislature in the land, including congress, is going to have a heavy crop. Many of them, and some of the worst, will be backed by some vociferous group. We have a right to demand of our representatives a decent amount of backbone to refuse action that will be injurious, as this law has been, to the common welfare. Legislatures desert their own duty when they throw upon the courts the defense of the community from ill advised experiment.

Editorial of the Day

A CHALLENGE TO AN ELECTRICAL GENIUS.

[Decatur Herald.]

Of course, the statistics are all against the theory that aviation is hazardous; but nevertheless there are people who steadfastly refuse to go up in airplanes.

Their attitude is explainable partly, we suspect, on the ground that there is a good deal of mystery about what causes airplanes to crash.

When an automobile rams a culvert and tosses its occupants into eternity there usually is something to tell what caused the trouble. It may be a blowout, a whisky flask in the hip pocket of the driver, or mud on the pavement. But airplane disasters, as this column so often has pointed out, are likely to be awfully complete and their causes obscure. Wing fabrics flutter down in one place, the remains of the fuselage in another and the engine some distance from either. Sometimes it is only the engine that is recognizable in a charred mass that a moment before was a ball of fire.

Over the embers or the raked up débris of a "disintegration" a commission of inquiry sits to determine the cause, and eventually reports—absolutely nothing. A finding of the trouble, of course, would not bring the dead back to life, but it is reasonable to believe that if the reasons why so many airplanes go to pieces or catch fire were known something could be done to prevent the crashes.

The final service that the pilot could render to aviation would be to record what went wrong. He would not have time to write. The chances are that he would not live to tell anybody.

Accordingly it would seem that every instrument board of an airplane should be equipped with buttons, which a pilot could press singly or in combination to record his difficulty. The registering would be in a steel container stout enough to resist the effects of a crash and made fireproof. Opening this container the commission of inquiry would find an arrow pointing to some of the dozen or more things that can cause an airplane to go wrong. The commission would not have to guess. It would know just what occurred—ice on the wings, explosion of the gas tank, engine failure or what not. We leave the suggestion with airplane builders for what it is worth. It might go far toward ending a mystery that is disturbing to faith and confidence.

HOW TO TREAT SNAKE BITE.

A MAN bit by a rattlesnake 45 miles from El Paso not only had his life saved but contributed something to our knowledge of how to treat snake bite. The bite was on the ankle. A tourniquet was applied and the man was started toward town and a chance for treatment. (If the wound was not slashed and the outward flow of blood and poison promoted by suction that should have been done.) When the treatment station was reached suction was done for ten minutes.

It was repeated at intervals of an hour until three attempts to evacuate the poison by that means had been made, and it was felt that no more poison was being removed. A full dose of antivenim was injected. A clean protective dressing was applied loosely to the wound. Up to this point the case presented no unusual features.

A careful record was kept of blood pressure. It was found that the systolic pressure tended to drop from 150, the level it was at first, to 80 or thereabouts. Whenever a drop occurred the man would show signs of shock and the physicians would give a full injection of a 10 per cent solution of glucose, or ninetenths of 1 per cent salt solution.

The injection was given by one of several routes and methods. Following the injection the pressure would rise. When it would drop a few hours later another injection would be given. After the use of several injections no further drops occurred and the man was regarded as out of danger.

Another observation was that the poison caused the blood hemoglobin percentage to drop to 25. This was overcome by a transfusion. After that the man rapidly convalesced and before many days he was well and his wound had healed. He had no whisky and none of the usual remedies given for shock. If he had been where he could not have received these injections as a means of holding his blood pressure up he would have had to rely on coffee, ammonia, and hot drinks.

Col. M. L. Crimmins' distinct contribution was the study of the blood pressure and blood richness and his suggestions as to how to take care of the dangerous effects of snake bite in these directions. Incidentally, he tells us that many medium sized rattlesnakes are capable of killing an adult, provided everything is right. A medium sized snake is more poisonous than a big old fellow or a little young one.

If a snake bites through clothing he can be expected to inject only about one-fourth of his poison into the wound. Bites of the hand, foot, forearm, and lower leg are generally not fatal because of poor absorption. A snake with a full stomach is not likely to have much poison. It takes three days for a snake to digest a full meal. After his poison bag has emptied completely about two weeks will elapse before it is completely filled.

TUBERCULOSIS SYMPTOMS.

Mrs. M. S. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of tuberculosis?
2. What does "auto intoxication" mean?

REPLY.

1. Among the early symptoms are tired feeling, lack of endurance, some loss of weight, some pallor, cough, and slight afternoon fever. These mild symptoms can be due to other diseases.
2. What is sometimes called "autointoxication"—though that term is not often used now—is a combination of constipation, plus overeating of rather heavy foods, and physical inactivity. It may cause headache and some lack of pep.

BUT SOME OF THEM DON'T.

Mrs. P. J. C. writes: 1. Is eczema a hereditary disease?

2. Should persons in whose family it has previously appeared marry?
3. If so, under what conditions?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Yes.
3. All good people of marriageable age who are in an economic position to do so should marry.

3. Obtaining money under false pretenses.
4. Imprisonment.

WIFE MAY BECOME CITIZEN.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—I am an American born girl. I married a Chinese student July 4, 1930. He is not a citizen of the United States and as I understand, cannot become a citizen. Did I lose my citizenship? If so, how may I regain it? Is my baby a citizen? He was born in Evanston, Ill. E. E.

Under the act of March 3, 1931, a wife may apply for naturalization and it is suggested that she take the matter up with the district director of naturalization at Washington, D. C. The baby is a citizen of the United States, having been born in this country. H. L. ROETHE,
Acting District Director United States Department of Labor.

NECESSITY OF PROBATE.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A wife has made a will. Her copy has been signed by two witnesses, the other copy being in the hands of a lawyer, and has not been signed by witnesses. If the wife dies having this will [1] does it have to go through the Probate court and cost a lot of money? 2. Would it be to the children's advantage to destroy this will? L. F. L.

1. Ordinarily the presence or absence of a will has nothing to do with the necessity for probate. If real estate is involved, probate would be necessary in order to make a merchantable title regardless of whether there is a will. On the other hand, if all parties concerned, including possible future purchasers of real estate, are satisfied to waive probate, then we see no necessity for such court proceedings.
2. We are not in a position to pass upon the wisdom of the will since its wording is not before us.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

IN LOUISIANA.

(Scene: A town in Louisiana, any town at all. A governor, any governor at all, is going into a store.)

GOVERNOR: "Hello, governor!"

GOVERNOR: "Howdy yerself, governor! Meet Gov. Tuggles, our new policeman. And Gov. Splasher, who's doin' a little job of paintin' for me here in the store. You know Gov. Sellem, my clerk, don't you?"

GOVERNOR: "Sure. Dropped in to tell you I was down to Leestown yesterday and I saw your brother-in-law, Gov. Fillum, who runs the filling station there. And I saw Gov. Smasher, the station agent, and Gov. Beats, the groceryman, and Gov. Slaughter, the butcher."

GOVERNOR: "That's fine. How are all the governors lookin'?"

GOVERNOR: "Purty good. Look, there goes Gov. Higgs across the street. That's Gov. Koops and Gov. Whoosit with him. Guess they're going to the big governors' parade."

GOVERNOR: "Guess so. That's going to be one of the biggest governors' parades ever seen in this town; they's governors comin' in from everywhere. But there'll be twenty-five hundred governors in line."

GOVERNOR: "Spect so. My cousin, Gov. Koops, will be there in the All Governors' Silver Cornet band; he plays the bass drum."

GOVERNOR: "Yes, everybody's going; about twenty of the governors living right around me are plannin' to march. There'll be the All Governors' band first, then comes the Governors' Marching club from Possumrun, then the local governors, then prominent governors on foot and horseback, then visiting governors in automobiles."

GOVERNOR: "Well, I must be goin'. Good-by, governor!"

GOVERNOR: "So long, governor!"

SHIPS THAT PASS.

I.—PROPHET OF CALAMITY.

He ever sermonised upon the age
And droned of decadence and recklessness;
He hammered that the fate of ancient Rome
Would shortly overtake us, merciless.

He grimly prophesied and dourly
Enjoyed announcing destiny's dire plan;
One day his wife obliged him with new themes

ADELAIDE LOVE.

OUR CRUSADE doesn't seem to do any good, but we're going to keep on. "It could not be proven," says Rita S. Halle in her otherwise very well written "Unfit Doctors Must Go" in Scribner's for October. We're with you, Rita, but likewise "proven" must go. And if you hang on to it and do it again we're going to sic William Lyon Phelps on to you right in the same magazine where you say a thing couldn't be proven. "Proven!" Now, Rita, do you think that's nice?

BUT RITA'S story, "Unfit Doctors Must Go," reminds us of the story our father, who was a practicing physician of the old school, told his county medical association in a paper he read to them on a somewhat similar subject. Dad was very strong on the idea that the unfit doctor must go and he said very emphatically where he thought they ought to go to. The story he told to illustrate his point was about a Turkish doctor who lived somewhere around the tenth century, the moral being there were lots of doctors he knew of that didn't know any more about practicing medicine than that Turkish doctor. The Turkish doctor had been called to see a gold beater who was very sick; in fact, he seemed just about ready to kick in. The doctor had heard of a new prescription, which he had been told was quite wonderful. So he mixed the prescription and gave a big dose to the gold beater. The next morning he went around and the gold beater was sitting up, smiling happily, on the way to complete recovery. "What a marvelous remedy!" said the doctor. He was called that evening to see a camel driver, who was as sick as the gold beater had been the night before. The doc gave him a dose of the same medicine he had given the other patient. He went around the next morning expecting to find the camel driver well and happy, but the sorrowing relatives told him the camel driver had passed away in horrible agony only an hour or two after he took the medicine. So the Turkish doctor got out his notebook and wrote down the results for future guidance: "This prescription is a sure cure for gold beaters, but hell on camel drivers."

THE TIME for wild duck shooting is creeping around and, gosh, how we dread it. The hunters are lovely fellows, and one can't refuse to go to their dinners and try to eat the ducks. Last year we not only ate over two and a half pounds of bird shot but broke off two teeth on some extra large hunks of lead. Why can't they kill wild ducks with bows and arrows or a club?

SHOPPING.

I went down to market to get a silver star,
A blue wind, a green wind, a wind blowing far.
I'll spend a penny to buy a dream, I said,
Maybe I'll choose laughter, a little moon instead.
I went down to market and shopped at my pleasure,
How was I to know I'd want to cry some day?

THE INTERSTATE commerce commission says the railroads have got to pool their added income. That's a grand idea. It ought to be carried on. We'd love to pool our gasoline with what the Standard Oil company's got. Of course, we've only got ten or twelve gallons and the Standard Oil company's got more than that. Still, a pool's a pool.

LONDON.—The full report of the circumstances of the condemnation and execution of Miss Edith Cavell, an Englishwoman, head of a training school in Brussels, for helping English, French, and Belgian soldiers to escape from Belgium, made by Brand Whitlock, the American minister at Brussels, to Walter H. Page, the American ambassador at London, was issued by the British government. How the secretary of the American legation, Hugh S. Gibson, sought out the German governor, Baron von der Lancken, late at night before the execution, and, with the Spanish minister, pleaded with the governor and the German officers for the Englishwoman's life is graphically related in a memorandum from Mr. Gibson. This document makes reference to an apparent lack of good faith on the part of the German authorities in failing to keep their promises to inform the American minister fully of the trial and sentence. Miss Cavell was sentenced Oct. 12 and executed at 2 o'clock the morning of the 13th.

LONDON.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in his attack on Riga, has reached Olai, which is halfway between Riga and Mitau and only a dozen miles southwest of the Baltic port. The German offensive extends along a front of about 70 miles and the German flanking movement on the right has reached the Dvina river, 30 miles southeast of Riga, from which point the Dvinsk-Riga railway is being bombarded.

CHICAGO.—Postage stamps worth $74,610 were stolen from the vault at the Chicago postoffice. The robbery was participated in apparently by three men or two men and a boy who were perfectly familiar with the building, especially underneath. Crawling on their hands and knees 298 feet through old construction tunnels, they cut away a section of the steel floor of the vault of the wholesale stamp department, then carried out stamps weighing 400 pounds through the tunnels.

CHICAGO.—All the evidence given by Chief of Detectives Luke P. Colleran to defend him against charges of neglect of duty in the case of Harry Featherstone was impeached before the civil service commission. His statement that he knew nothing about Featherstone until newspapers exploited the scandal was contradicted by Deputy Sheriff Thomas V. Morrison, who testified and produced records to back his statement that he had shown the capias for Featherstone to Colleran on Sept. 18, 1900, the day after the holdup man was indicted and "jumped" his bonds.

WASHINGTON.—It is said that President Arthur has indicated his purpose not to send the cabinet nominations to the senate until Oct. 24. There seems to be no doubt whatever that Secretary Lincoln will be retained in the cabinet. It is thought, however, that he will not remain as secretary of war, but will accept the attorney generalship. It is believed that Mr. James will be retained in his present position, that Gen. Longstreet will be the next secretary of the navy, and that ex-Senator Conkling will be in the cabinet.

WASHINGTON.—In a letter to Col. Rockwell Mrs. Garfield says it is her wish that an appropriate collection of the literary works of her husband shall be published, and it is understood that she will personally supervise and assist in the collection.

NEW YORK.—A rumor was started that the Pennsylvania railroad intended to run a twenty-one hour train between New York and Chicago. The train would leave, it was said, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and reach its destination at noon the next day.

A POLICEMAN REPLIES.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—This is one "copper" that bawls out nobody, but for the sake of dear old Mr. Public, whom I am sworn to protect, I must make an exception and attempt to bawl out your correspondent, Mr. Lawyer, if he has intellect enough to receive it.

Some lawyers, in order to make a living, run elevators, others drive trucks, and a few become judges. I am a lawyer also, but in order to earn a livelihood I joined the police department. But all lawyers can't do that, as one, to become a policeman, must have the physical qualifications of a man.

Mr. Public, you have not the authority of a policeman. Do not lament that fact—it is in your favor. You can make an arrest for a criminal offense committed in your presence, but you need not do so. That is where you are favored. If a police officer fails to act he can be sent to jail. A police officer can make an arrest for a criminal offense where he did not see the crime committed but has reasonable grounds to believe that the person arrested committed it. A citizen has not that right. A police officer may make an arrest for the violation of city ordinances. A citizen cannot.

Mr. Lawyer also states that a police officer has no special permission to carry a gun. The policeman is given that right by apt words of our legislators.

Now, Mr. Public, don't be a sap. Don't allow Mr. Lawyer to get you killed. Don't try to arrest any one unless the act has been committed in your presence, and that act must be criminal. Don't play the policeman or you might be charged with impersonating a police officer. That act in itself should appraise even Mr. Lawyer that a citizen lacks some of the authority of a policeman.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Today's TRIBUNE prints the troubles of an Austin High school teacher, which include the shutting off of his telephone service because the company refused to take scrip. In justice to the Illinois Bell Telephone company I wish to state my own experience.

I also am a Chicago public school teacher, one of those who never got scrip. Early in September I explained my inability to pay my telephone bill to the manager of our district office, adding if my service would consequently be discontinued. The manager most courteously assured me that under such circumstances the telephone company would not consider discontinuing my service. On the contrary, the service would be continued, no payment being required until the school board paid me my salary.

I am glad to make public acknowledgment of such fair treatment.

THE FIRST CHIEF JUSTICE.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The article that appeared in today's TRIBUNE depicting the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to Gen. ROADS BALK AT RATE PLAN, BUT MAY ACCEPT IT

Expect Rail Financiers to Decide It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Rejection of the railroads to a proposal of the interstate commerce commission, in denying the road's plea for a blanket 15 per cent freight rate increase, to pool income from rate boosts to be granted on certain specific commodities, was the chief topic of discussion among those concerned today. Increases which the commission indicated would allow under a pooling plan to meet interest payable in obligations of the carriers, it was estimated, would produce between 100 and 125 million dollars.

Among railroad officials and counsel for the roads, there was disappointment at the commission's decision and a rather general agreement that the pooling project would not be accepted. On the other hand, substantial reasons were cited, especially by those close to the commission, in support of the belief that the plan ultimately might be accepted.

Expected Initial Disapproval.

It was learned that the commission was quite aware that the proposal would probably meet with the disapproval of the rail executives, who are now in session at Atlantic City, with the plan scheduled for thorough discussion tomorrow.

But the commission realized, it was said, that the final decision will not be in the hands of the railroad heads alone but will be determined in large measure by the financial interests behind the railroads and holding their securities.

It was pointed out that the principal object of the plan is to restore railroad credit and eliminate the "elements of panic"—to quote the commission, which are threatening the stability of railroad securities.

The more solvent carriers stand to gain little financially from such a pooling arrangement, it was said. They are, at the same time, considered to be in no great danger of not being able to earn their actual interest requirements during 1932. Their natural attitude would be one of objection to helping out the weaker roads.

Would Strengthen Securities.

From the banking point of view, however, it was pointed out, the creation of a general fund to be used where it was most needed would tend to uplift the whole level of railroad securities and would therefore be of advantage.

The commission in its decision considered as "substantial" the amount of money probably to remain in the general pool after withdrawal of sums necessary to enable weaker carriers to meet interest requirements. It was learned authoritatively today that the amount to be required in enabling the weaker lines to meet these obligations during 1932 was estimated by the commission at about $69,000,000. This would leave an estimated amount of between $31,000,000 and $56,000,000 to be redistributed among all contributors to the pool at the termination of the plan, which was set for March 31, 1933.

The estimated 100 million dollars to 125 millions in additional revenues which the commission calculated would result from adoption of its plan was predicated on traffic conditions of the first six months of 1931. It was admitted at the commission today that this amount might not actually be realized in the event the freight traffic dropped below the 1931 level during 1932 and the early part of 1933, which is regarded as not at all impossible.

Base Hopes on Finance Angle.

What the commission had in mind in submitting its offer to the carriers was that by keeping all carriers out of receivership, even those not in danger of failing to earn the requirements, would benefit through the good effects on the general marketability of their securities.

A general satisfaction with the outcome of the case was expressed in political quarters, including those close to the President. This satisfaction was the greater in view of the unanimity of the commission's decision. Commissioner Tate alone dissented from the findings of the majority and his disagreement applied only to "those portions increasing any rates in any respect or in any amount."

Aid by Hoover in Doubt.

In the absence of any statement from the White House concerning the general railroad situation, speculation continued as to what, if anything, the President will do toward rehabilitation of carriers' credit. It has been carefully reported that Mr. Hoover might in the nearer future have some announcement or plan to make public. The opinion was expressed today by a high government official that Mr. Hoover may have no such announcement and that he may leave it to the carriers to seek their own fortune through acceptance of the plan proposed by the commission.

It was also considered as probable that the President might call in a representative group of rail executives and ask their coöperation in the matter as he did in expediting adoption by eastern rail men of the proposed four party consolidation plan.

The possible effect a rejection of the commission's plan might have on labor was a foremost topic of discussion. It has been intimated that, without help from the commerce commission the roads would feel they must call on labor to take a wage cut. Railroad labor leaders have insisted they would oppose any cut whatever, and were as determined as ever today to fight such a move.

Study Other Proposals.

Particular study was being given today to the concluding portion of the commerce commission's report, that dealing with "the railroad future."

Though holding that the immediate ills of the railroads are due for the most part to the depression the commission listed many lines along which improvement might be sought.

It recommended the setting aside of the present recapture provisions, saying, "The problem presented by the varying earnings of different railroads can better be met in other ways such as consolidations, pooling arrangements and the adjustment of divisions."

The commission believed that congress and the state legislatures should take steps to regulate all competitive forms of transportation in the public interest, and suggested that trucks and buses be made to bear their share of the tax burden.

A like study of water carriers was also recommended.

"It is strongly urged by the rail carriers that the water carriers are not bearing their fair share of the burden of the waterways, constructed or improved, at public expense, on which they operate," said the commission. "Here again the facts are controversial and must be ascertained. But the contention of the rail lines presents a matter for unbiased investigation which may be in need of correction if fair competitive conditions are to prevail.

"The same may be said of the public regulation of the port to port rates of common carriers by water, which are now subject to no effective regulation. The lack of stability and apparent demoralization from time to time of these rates, particularly those of the lines operating through the Panama canal, at least suggest that some greater measure of public control may be in the interest of the water carriers themselves as well as in the general interest. History shows that this was true of railroad rates, as most of the railroads now concede. These matters need present legislative consideration."

It was also suggested that the burden of alterations required of the railroads by the expansion of cities and the extension of highways fell too heavily on the roads and should be more equitably distributed.

"The railroads, as cities expand and public highways multiply in number and use, have been and are being called up to invest great amounts of capital in alterations of their properties which are often from a strictly railroad point of view, very largely nonproductive," said the report.

Points to Passenger Decrease.

"The burden of these expenditures must be borne by the public in one way or another, but the question arises whether this burden is being apportioned fairly. To the extent that it is caused by other than railroad needs and does not increase the traffic of the railroads or save them expense, it may be that this burden should justly be shifted from the shoulders of railroad users."

The passenger service, the commission noted, failed by $450,000,000 annually to supply its proper share of railroad earnings, or an amount about equal to what the railroads would have realized through a 15 per cent freight rate increase. Further pooling of competitive train service was urged; some lines, it was said, might be forced to abandon passenger service, others might run lighter trains at greater speed and with reduced fares.

"Plainly," said the commission, "the situation is in need of drastic attention."

More coöperation, in accordance with the 1920 transportation act, must be the railroads' order of the day, the commission warned.

CHICAGO RAILROAD PRESIDENTS GO TO ANNUAL CONVENTION

Chicago railway presidents left yesterday for Atlantic City, where the annual convention of the Association of Railway Executives will open today. One of the chief topics of discussion, from which a definite pronouncement may result, is the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the rate case.

Whether the commission's suggestion of pooling the proceeds of proposed rate increases on certain commodities as a means of strengthening railway credit would be acceptable to the railways is one phase of the question to be considered. Another problem is the effect the commission's denial of a general increase of 15 per cent in rates will have on the railway wage scale.

WEALTHY BRIDE PLANS CAREER FOR NEW MATE

Mrs. Sarah Brown Wills of Evanston, 55 years old, possessor of a $3,000,000 fortune, plans a career for her new husband, Harry C. Wils, former Notre Dame football player, 29 years old.

Mrs. Wils said yesterday that Harry "should have some kind of a business." One possibility that has occurred to the bride is the "real estate business." Harry has been an automobile salesman. He met his future wife while trying to sell her a car.

Before the career begins, however, the Wils are going to Hollywood to visit Mrs. Wils' daughter.

Mrs. Brown became Mrs. Wils six months ago, it was revealed Tuesday in an announcement. Her first husband was Edwin F. Brown, a banker, who left her the fortune upon his death. Her second marital venture was with Jack Deynzer, ten years ago. She divorced him in 1929.

CITY IS DENIED HEARING IN FIGHT OVER "L" FARES

U. S. High Court Refuses to Consider Plea.

Failure of the Illinois commerce commission and Attorney General Carlstrom to join the city of Chicago in an appeal against 10 cent "L" fares caused the United States Supreme court yesterday to deny the city a hearing on the merits of its petition. The court indicated that the city's appeal will be dismissed soon.

The elevated lines have been collecting a straight, 10 cent fare between all points within the city limits since 1928 under the protection of a federal court injunction. It was sought by the company and granted after the state commerce commission had refused to increase the old fare of three tickets for a quarter.

Judges Issue Injunction.

Three federal judges here issued the injunction. The elevated lines contended before the court that the commerce commission's refusal to approve the 10 cent fare constituted a deprivation of its property without due process of law. In the proceedings the value of the elevated lines was fixed at $125,000,000, and the court held that the company was entitled to a return of 7½ per cent on that valuation.

The city appealed from the decision of the District court, but was not joined in the appeal by the commerce commission or the attorney general.

Yesterday at Washington Chief Justice Hughes informed the city's attorneys that the Supreme court could not hear its appeal because the state authorities had failed to join in the appeal.

"The merits of the case which you desire to raise cannot be considered," he informed the attorneys.

BOY FALLS ON RAKE; DIES.

Internal injuries suffered on Saturday, when he fell on a rake while at play, caused the death yesterday at the North Chicago hospital of Harry Ott, 9 years old, 2823 Herndon street.

PITTSBURGH BANKER KILLED, DAUGHTER HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Harrison Nesbit, prominent Pittsburgh bank president, was killed, and his daughter, Nancy, seriously injured when their automobile crashed into a parked truck on the Baltimore boulevard near here this afternoon. Miss Nesbit was taken to Casualty hospital, where her condition is reported as critical.

The father and daughter were on their way to the races at Laurel, Md., from their summer home at Warrenton, Va.

Nesbit was president of the Bank of Pittsburgh National association, which failed recently, and also of the Highland National bank of Pittsburgh. He was a member of leading Pittsburgh clubs. Miss Nesbit is well known in society circles here and is an ardent horsewoman, having had entries in many horse shows in the capital. She was the youngest of Nesbit's three children.

Don't waste dollars on antiseptics that must be used full strength. We've discovered a new antiseptic that, even when diluted with two parts of water, kills germs in 10 seconds.

STOP gargling for a minute. Please answer this question: Do you add water to your mouth wash? 3 out of 4 do. Adding water robs most mouth antiseptics of power to kill germs. That's how millions fool themselves—but not their colds—and not the germs . . . nor bad breath.

If you dilute your antiseptic choose one that kills germs even when diluted. Otherwise you haven't any right even to hope for quick relief.

A radical new antiseptic discovery

Now there's a revolutionary antiseptic on the market—Pepsodent Antiseptic. Its formula is a radical advance. It climaxes the best antiseptic study of 50 years. A germ-killing agent is employed unlike those now in use. It makes Pepsodent Antiseptic from 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics, depending on which one you use.

Kills germs in 10 seconds diluted with 2 parts of water

That is the startling news in this new discovery. Think! You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with one or even two parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all that power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon this new antiseptic is in your fight against colds!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis*)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and throat irritations. Por at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember P.A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

And please remember when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic for colds you are doing double duty by also fighting bad breath. For Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer! That's Pepsodent Antiseptic's record in fighting this widespread social offense due to unhygienic mouth conditions. Immediately after use—95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs remains reduced by 75%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics.

$3 Worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix such antiseptics with water is a waste of money. Pepsodent Antiseptic, contrariwise, can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size the cheaper per ounce.

Combating a cold and checking bad breath are only two uses for this remarkable antiseptic. There are scores of other uses. Some are listed on this page. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. Keep it in the home. Take it with you when you travel.

Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool a cold.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Today's TRIBUNE prints the troubles of an Austin High school teacher, which include the shutting off of his telephone service because the company refused to take scrip. In justice to the Illinois Bell Telephone company I wish to state my own experience.

I also am a Chicago public school teacher, one of those who never took scrip. Early in September I explained my inability to pay my telephone bill to the manager of our district office, asking if my service would consequently be discontinued. The manager most courteously assured me that under such circumstances the telephone company would not consider discontinuing my service. On the contrary, the service would be continued, no payment being required until the school board paid me my salary.

I am glad to make public acknowledgment of such fair treatment.

JOSEPHINE BERNER OLMSTED.

THE FIRST CHIEF JUSTICE.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The article that appeared in today's TRIBUNE depicting the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to Gen. George Washington was, indeed, a beautiful tribute to the masterly strategy of our first President. An error was made, however, stating that John Marshall was our first chief justice. This is not so. John Jay was the first chief justice.

STATE TO RUSH BRIDGE WORK ON SEAWAY PROJECT

30 Railways Oppose Calumet Harbor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Construction of bridges to cost $1,[illegible] over the Illinois waterway, which have been handing fire for five months, will be taken up by the state waterways division today, following the Supreme court decision knocking out the prevailing rate of wage act as unconstitutional. Director Henry H. Kohn is to hold a meeting in Chicago today, at which announcement is expected that bids will be taken Nov. 24 for the steel work on three bascules at Joliet and for bridges at Brandon road and Marseilles.

HENRY H. KOHN.

The state authorities declare that the bridge building will not delay the opening of the Illinois waterway on May 1, 1933, in time for the Century of Progress exposition. So far as the state's end of the work is concerned, they assert, all will be clear for navigation. One trouble spot is the matter of four railroad bridges, which require raising, but this is a matter which the federal officials have under investigation.

Railways Oppose Harbor.

Meanwhile, opposition to the Lake Calumet-Sag project, the proposed harbor development on the Illinois-Indiana boundary line, was registered by 30 railways. They filed a statement with the special board of army engineers created by the war department early this year, calling the Calumet proposal "economically unsound."

The Joliet bridge situation was declared in good shape yesterday by the state waterways division. Today Director Kohn will decide whether to proceed with the awarding of contracts for a temporary bridge at Van Buren street, Joliet, on the bids taken July 7 under the old law, or whether to readvertise. The temporary structure is to cost $34,000. It is to be utilized for traffic while bridges are being built at Jackson, Jefferson, and Cass streets, Joliet.

All told, the officials figure the bridges will give employment to an average of 500 men for eight or nine months. Three Joliet bascules, for which bids are to be received on the steel work Nov. 24, are to cost $920,000. They are: Jackson street, $336,900; Jefferson street, $333,000, and Cass street, $350,100. It is expected that five months will be required to get the steel ready.

Railroads Tell Stand.

The letter of opposition to the Calumet industrial district harbor project, which 30 Chicago railways signed, sets up that the plan "cannot be economically justified" in view of construction costs and available traffic.

The plan contemplates a waterway route from the main sanitary canal near Lemont, through the Sag channel to Lake Calumet and Lake Michigan. The railroads say: "The total cost is estimated at $215,000,000, requiring for economic justification an annual traffic movement of more than 28 million tons of freight in addition to the 7,515,000 tons, which it has been estimated would move between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi over the lakes to gulf waterway as originally planned, that is using the Chicago river as the final link."

The statement sets the cost of improving Lake Calumet at $9,000,000; the other waterways in the plan, $55,000,000; highway bridge replacements, $18,000,000; making the total, including railroad bridges, about $215,000,000. On these grounds the railroads says the Sag-Calumet project would be a "waste of money."

TWO FOES OF FEDERAL JOBLESS INSURANCE HEARD BY SENATORS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Opposition to compulsory federal unemployment insurance was expressed before a special senate committee today by M. B. Folsom, assistant treasurer of the Eastman Kodak company, and James D. Craig of the Metropolitan Insurance company.

Both pointed out that no actuarial information exists which would permit the working out of a practicable scheme.

In Europe, Mr. Folsom declared, government unemployment insurance has degenerated into little more than a charity system.

Mr. Folsom explained the unfairness of compulsory insurance by citing the experience of the Eastman company in Germany. There, he said, his company had developed a high degree of stability of operation, yet is assessed 3½ per cent of the payroll for government unemployment insurance, or at the same rate applying to companies which have not stabilized their business.

Mr. Craig said the principle of insurance could not be applied to unemployment, since "insurance is applicable to those who have incomes, for it is a re-distribution of income."

WABASH BRIDGE GETS TABLET AS BEAUTY WINNER

The new Wabash avenue bridge was decorated yesterday by the American Institute of Steel Construction with a bronze tablet in recognition of the institute's choice of the bridge as the most beautiful span built in 1930 in the United States and Canada.

The presentation was made by W. M. Wood, president of the Mississippi Valley Structural Steel company, on behalf of the institute, and the acceptance was made by Mayor Cermak. Albert A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, and other members of the mayor's cabinet attended the unveiling ceremony. Later the Chicago Association of Commerce was host to the American Institute of Steel Construction at the Hotel La Salle at luncheon, 500 persons attending.

The award was made by a jury of nationally known architects and engineers on behalf of the institute, which during the last three years has held competitions with the object of aiding in beautifying American bridges.

Mr. Wood described the bridge as "not only useful to the fullest extent but also pleasing and harmonious." Of massive bascule type, he said, it is designed to support multiple lanes of traffic which need be interrupted but for a short while to make way for ships using the waterway.

The bridge was designed by engineers of bridges for the city and fabricated by the American Bridge company.

HEITLER INQUEST ENDS; RETURN MURDER VERDICT

The inquest into the death of "Mike de Pike" Heitler, veteran vice operator, was concluded yesterday at Barrington when a coroner's jury brought in a verdict of murder by persons unknown. Since it has never been definitely established that the torso of a man who had been shot to death, discovered April 29 in the ruins of a burned icehouse near Barrington, was that of Heitler, the verdict named "a white man supposed to be Michael Heitler."

No mention was made at the inquest of the letter purported to have been dictated by Heitler before his death, naming Al Capone and other gangsters as those who desired his death. Deputy Coroner James H. Gleason said that no copy of the letter had been furnished him, and that he could not conduct an inquest on newspaper reports.

Miss Samuelson's Diary.

Police today made public Miss Samuelson's diary, which she kept irregularly from Jan. 1, 1930, to last October 15, the day before she was murdered. The diary contains many references to affection she felt not only for "Ruth" but for Mrs. Agnes Lerol, who was murdered with her.

Excerpts follow:

Feb. 15, 1930—Met Anne Lerol [in Juneau, Alaska].

Other 1930 entries noted despondency as the school teacher fought against tuberculosis, which had caused her to come from Juneau to Phoenix in quest of health in August, 1930. Mrs. Lerol, a nurse, came with her from Alaska.

Entries from Jan. 4 to 7, 1931, indicated that Miss Samuelson felt herself near death.

Jan. 4—

God made man frail as a bubble,
God made love; love made trouble.
God made wine—was it a sin
That man took wine to drown trouble in?

Jan. 6—Behaviorist. I am what I am. I shall do what I shall do because of the Mendelian laws of heredity and the physical reflexes developed in my childhood. This is wisdom—to love—to live, to take what fate the gods may give.

Feb. 10—Dr. and Mrs. Judd over for dinner.

Aug. 23—Wired Anne some money.

A Pajama Party.

Sept. 18—The Judds moved into duplex next ours.

Sept. 25—One year in bed today.

Sept. 30—Dick and Jack over. I made a little fool of myself. Tried to make me go riding. Anne and I became angry and ran away.

Oct. 6—Just fifteen minutes of leisure before Sherlock Holmes [a radio broadcast]. All doors locked and all windows barred in anticipation of exciting time. Then we douse the lights and get deliciously frightened. Isn't it silly—two grown women with the mentality of children? When it's over we're too frightened to go to bed.

Oct. 15—[Day before she was murdered.]—Men fight over what?—but I hie myself to the wastelands of the north to try to forget. Rickey.

The last word closed the girl's diary.

Dr. Judd today identified the large trunk in which Mrs. Lerol's body had been conveyed to Los Angeles as belonging to Mrs. Lerol herself. The other, smaller hand trunk, in which dismembered portions of Miss Samuelson's body had been brought, was, he said, his own.

This bears out the police theory Mrs. Judd at first put both bodies into the large trunk at the Lerol apartment and later, at her own residence, dismembered Mrs. Samuelson's body and repacked both bodies in the other baggage. Dr. Judd also identified a pink blanket and quilt found in the trunks as from a bed in the Judd residence.

"Knowing the girls, I cannot conceive of anything to justify or precipitate such an act," was the statement Dr. Judd made to the coroner.

A Stormy Character.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 21.—Police, delving into the past of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, today obtained a disclosure from Dr. C. W. Brown, former county physician, that Mrs. Judd had threatened to "blow his head off" last January when he discharged her as a nurse.

Mrs. Betty Murray, historian of Good Samaritan hospital, with whom the woman roomed from last December until February, said that Mrs. Judd possessed a gun.

Mrs. Murray said Mrs. Judd recently told her it "would be best if I never see Agnes Lerol or 'Sammy' again. It would be best for all of us."

County Physician J. D. Mauldin said he had been informed by a nurse, whose name he withheld, that Mrs. Judd had captured the affections of a prominent Phoenix business man, but that the latter later turned his interest in Mrs. Lerol.

A. J. Halloran, who was questioned this morning and released, told police that his automobile had been in front of Mrs. Judd's apartment recently, but that he "had just dropped in with some friends for a minute." Halloran admitted he was the "Jack" mentioned in letters written by Mrs. Judd. He said he also stopped in at times to see Miss Samuelson.

Assistant County Attorney Rodgers declared the party at Mrs. Judd's last Thursday had been attended by Halloran, Frank Thompson, a local business man; Lucille Moore, nurse at the Grunow sanitarium; Mrs. Lerol, Miss Samuelson, and an unidentified man. The killings took place the next night in Mrs. Lerol's bungalow.

Mr. Rodgers said that evidence in his possession showed that both the murdered women, as well as Mrs. Judd, were inveterate drug users.

Miss Moore Talks.

Miss Moore, who is 23 years old, tonight told investigators the details of a wild liquor party staged Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Judd. Miss Moore said Mrs. Judd invited her to attend a "little gathering" at her home "because some nice fellows will be there whom I'd like you to meet."

Halloran picked up "Jack" and a Mr. Ryan at the home of the two murder victims an hour before the party, Miss Moore revealed. She stated that Mrs. Judd and she accompanied Halloran to call for the men, who had met the Lerol and Samuelson women a few days before.

After picking up the two men, according to Miss Moore's story, the party drove to Mrs. Judd's home in Halloran's car. After about an hour or so of steady drinking, she said, the men became intoxicated. Miss Moore suggested going home. The men said to be Ryan and Jack offered to drive her home. Instead of driving her to her house, she said, they drove her across the Grand canal, seven miles from Phoenix, and began to make love to her. She persuaded them to take her home.

Miss Moore said she learned the two men had bought the murder victims a radio after knowing them for a period of about 24 hours.

Episode in Mrs. Judd's Life.

Olney, Ill., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd was the chief figure in a strange affair here in November, 1922, prior to her marriage to Dr. Judd.

The Rev. M. E. Lawler, pastor at Calhoun, Ill., found the girl in a garage wearing only a gunny sack. She was taken to her home here and told a vague story of being abducted. She said that while visiting in the country her room was entered, she was chloroformed and driven many miles to an old house the location of which was uncertain to her. She escaped nude, she said, finding the gunny sack later. For two nights she walked railroad tracks in her bare feet, she said, stopping at the pastor's garage. She accused a Montezuma, Ind., youth of being one of her abductors. But he was proved innocent when brought here.

Something different in a closed car

There's a growing need for a car of this kind. In many, many families a two-passenger car is too small—a five-passenger sedan is too large. The Ford Victoria solves the problem by combining the compactness of a coupe with just the right amount of room for four people. It's easy to drive—economical to run—and so distinctive in line and color that it brings an admiring nod of approval on every highway.

In interior finish, the Ford Victoria reflects the rich quality of a custom-built car. Choice of fine broadcloth or deep-piled, luxurious mohair upholstery. Quiet good taste characterizes the de luxe appointments. You have a feeling that everything has been carefully, expertly planned to be just right.

See this beautiful four-passenger Victoria at the nearest Ford dealer's and arrange for a demonstration. Here is a high degree of beauty, comfort, convenience and performance at low cost.

What Are YOU Afraid Of?

Are you afraid of your country?

Other countries regard it as the safest place in the world in which to invest. While some of us have been dumping our investments and selling the United States short, Europe has been exporting capital to America for safekeeping. While some of us have been running away from safety, foreign investors have been flying across the Atlantic to find it.

Are you afraid of your bank?

Many people have been, and a pretty mess they have made of it by their senseless runs on sound and solvent institutions. For a majority of the banks that they have closed were just that. In pulling down their deposits they have pulled down the pillars of their bank and sent it crashing down on their own heads. They have injured themselves, their merchants and their neighborhood. For with the local bank closed, they are without banking facilities, without any place to keep their money that is safer than a stocking or a mattress, their merchants are cramped for credit, and they have lost a place from which to borrow for business purposes and neighborhood improvements.

Are you afraid to buy normally?

Buy-more, spend-more, eat-more campaigns are futile. But if we do not buy normally in accordance with our present means—and a large part of the population is subnormal in its buying—we are simply perpetuating the vicious circle in which we have been traveling. To paint, to repair, to maintain and, where possible, to increase employment; to buy sensibly, though not extravagantly; in short, to live according to, but not beyond our means, will bring about a steady amelioration of the depression.

Are you afraid of your leaders?

The best and bravest leaders in the world cannot lead cowards in a charge. Grant that many of them might be better—a lot better—but we selected and elected them. We will get nowhere by running around in circles and waiting for some new and miraculous plan or force to change things overnight, or for some Moses to stand forth and lead us into the promised land. The men, the elements, the materials with which we have to work, are all known to us.

Are you afraid of your Government?

There are members of the Congress who will undoubtedly put forward wild and extravagant schemes. There are strong minority groups in the country who will put on drives for legislation that will call for great appropriations. By lobbies, by organized drives to bring pressure with letters and telegrams, they will try to coerce the timid and the hesitating. But the unorganized majority can play that game quite as well as the organized minority. Nothing but our apathy will let the Treasury till-tappers get away with our tax money.

Our fears will run away if we face them.

Courage and common sense will conquer situations that look desperate to the timid. The New Day that our bright young writers, and some older ones who are not so bright, talk so glibly and so vaguely about, will in the end come from the same old sun, with some of the mists burned away. But the sun and the moon and the stars change slowly; and the laws that govern human nature, human actions and human growth will only be changed or modified over fairly long periods of time. Meteorites may blaze up fiercely in the night, but their glory is short-lived and then they fall to earth. Slow and orderly advance alone is tolerated in the scheme of things. But there is nothing to be afraid of in that.

74 years ago

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without the prospect of it.

"In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent, upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

"It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference (which, happily, no man pretends to feel) in the issue of events.

"Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are fortunately, as yet, mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously to despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity."

"AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION"

$1 GOES LONG WAY IN FEEDING HUNGRY PUPILS

Provides Many Meals for Needy Children.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4152 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Nobody knows, until they're hungry and haven't got one, how big a dime can be. Chicago school teachers watching the pennies clasped by underfed but unselfish children, can tell what miracles even those insignificant coins perform. Here, for instance, are some of the ways the contributors' dollars are split up after they pass through the Hungry School Children's Fund to eager little palms.

Suppose at the school to which one particular dollar flits, it arrives in time to help furnish breakfast for ten or more boys and girls who had nothing to eat at home. There'll be a warm cereal with milk, and either hot cocoa or a glass of milk to drink. That meal, for which nothing is charged the pupils represents an investment of only three cents apiece—and in some instances even less. Then, too, it is often accompanied by a slice of bread donated by large bakeries.

Lunch Comes Next.

If ten children have their morning meal out of that dollar, then, at the worst there will be seventy cents left. At noontime the balance is put to work to produce lunches. This time the full meal is supplied to each child at a price of only five cents each, or he may purchase one or two items at one cent per item. This menu varies with the day. Following are fair examples of the combination:

1. Mashed potato, sauerkraut, pork sausage, bread and milk.
2. Salmon and rice, bread and butter, peaches and milk.
3. Macaroni with hamburger, bread, applesauce and milk.
4. Lima bean soup, peanut butter sandwich, jello and milk.
5. Potato salad, frankfurter, bread, jello and milk.
6. Chili con carne, bread and butter, applesauce and milk.
7. Spanish rice, peanut butter sandwich, applesauce and milk.
8. Mashed potato, vegetable and meat gravy, bread, plums and milk.
9. Vegetable stew, bread and butter, cheese and milk.

Food for 14 Children.

Rating each meal at 5 cents, fourteen more children may enjoy a well cooked, heartening lunch out of that same dollar. Or, if there are only a small group of six who remain to be fed, thirty of the remaining seventy cents would be spent at this lunch counter and the other forty cents would be passed on to a junior high school, where four more students would be provided with a midday meal. Ten cents is charged in the junior and fifteen cents in the senior high schools, because larger portions must be served to the bigger pupils.

Generosity is notable among the school children. Anecdotes are endless about the older brother or sister who will not eat because a smaller child is hungry. One instance has been recorded of three in the same family sharing five pennies among them. Other lunch rooms report that incidents are numerous of the attendants being asked to cut a penny sandwich in half to provide a hungry sister, brother or chum with a bite or two, at least.

All They Have, Too.

"And that penny will be all they have to spend, too—don't misunderstand that," added one principal.

It is easy enough to reckon, then, how far a dollar bill or a five dollar bill will go in making miserable children comfortable. The food purchased at the most advantageous prices by the home economics staffs is stretched incredibly far to meet the emergency existing in a large majority of the schools and which is leaving its indelible mark on child health in Chicago.

Gifts for the school fund have been received from many cities and states. One arrived a couple of days ago from Berkeley, Cal.

The donation which traveled farther than any other to date was $10 sent from Port au Prince, Haiti, and reached Chicago yesterday. The donor is T. L. Flinn, who travels for a Chicago concern. He wrote:

"In the Oct. 4 issue of your paper, which I secured at the Second regiment post exchange, U. S. marines, this city, I regretted to note that so many Chicago school children are underfed, and am inclosing check for $10 to assist your fund. Wherever possible I try to get hold of a CHICAGO TRIBUNE because I think it is the greatest newspaper in the world."

Donations for the Hungry School Children's Fund may be directed to the cashier of this newspaper at Tribune Tower.

NAME OFFICERS FOR U. OF CHICAGO R. O. T. C. UNIT

Cadet officers for the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Chicago were appointed yesterday by Maj. T. J. J. Christian, regular army officer in charge of the department of military science and tactics.

Leif B. Erickson of Fargo, N. D., was appointed cadet major. Paul D. Cooper, 614 East 51st street, was named captain adjutant. The other four captains announced are Robert C. Hepple, 1156 East 56th street; John G. Nardin, 7404 Bennett avenue; Thomas H. Wason, 6514 Ellis avenue, and Goodlett J. Glaser, 1059 North Long avenue.

Maj. Christian announced that there are approximately 300 men in the unit this year, an increase over last year's enrollment. R. O. T. C. work is not compulsory at the University of Chicago. Maj. Christian also revealed that ten more polo horses have been purchased for the coming games, and that pistol matches will be held during the winter season.

OLD GIRL FRIEND AIDS CLAIMS OF 'MRS. ERLANGER'

Testifies in Her Suit to Share Estate.

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Today was a day of legal short jabs and swift uppercuts in the trial of the suit brought by Charlotte Fixel, 46 year old former chorus girl, in an effort to prove that she was the common law wife of the late Abraham L. Erlanger and, therefore, entitled to one-third of the $75,000,000 estate left by the theatrical producer.

All the legal play centered about the day's star witness, Mrs. Elizabeth Conger of Atlantic City, who said she had met Miss Fixel in 1906 when the latter was on the stage and roomed with Mrs. Conger's sister, Mary Stoy.

He Wore a Ring.

Isidor J. Kresel, counsel for the Erlanger estate, examined Mrs. Conger with an obvious view to searching out every detail of Miss Fixel's past, but it was the woman's own lawyer, Max D. Steuer, who scored the first point. He drew from Mrs. Conger the statement that Erlanger wore—and had engraved with his initials, "A. E. L."—a signet ring formerly belonging to Miss Fixel's father, Rudolph.

A moment later, however, Mr. Kresel took some of the punch out of this testimony when he forced Mrs. Conger to admit that she had not seen Mr. Fixel's old signet ring for twenty-three years and that she wasn't positive it was the same ring owned by Mr. Erlanger. Miss Fixel, though, had told her that it was.

Mr. Steuer then had Mrs. Conger identify a picture in the back of Mr. Erlanger's gold watch as that of Miss Fixel, taken some years ago. She could not say, however, that she had ever seen it during Mr. Erlanger's lifetime, and Mr. Kresel stressed this point.

Miss Fixel appeared on the stage under the name of Charlotte Leslie. Mrs. Conger said that her sister lived with Miss Fixel when they were working together.

Tells of Alleged Marriage.

The first time she knew of Miss Fixel's alleged marriage to Mr. Erlanger, the witness said, was in December, 1929, when the contestant wrote her: "I have been married to A. L. Erlanger." Mrs. Conger added that Miss Fixel had been on intimate terms with the late theatrical magnate since "as far back as 1907 or 1908."

"During my visits to New York Mrs. Erlanger would call Mr. Erlanger on the telephone and address him as 'dear' or 'bunny.' She would also get theater tickets from him," Mrs. Conger said.

Her friend had never said nor intimated, however, that she expected to marry Mr. Erlanger, and the news of the "wedding" had been a "great surprise" to her, Mrs. Conger admitted.

"Before you were married, Mrs. Conger, did you ever address any man as 'dear' or 'bunny'?" Mr. Kresel asked.

"Well, maybe as 'dear,' but never as 'bunny,'" the witness replied, adding that she considered the latter nickname "very intimate, indeed."

Appeals Court Upholds Boy's $10,000 Judgment

The Appellate court yesterday sustained a judgment for $10,000 obtained against the city on behalf of John Tomaszkiewicz, 10 years old, 2346 North Leavitt street, who sustained a fractured skull when he was knocked down by a city truck on Nov. 30, 1927. The city attempted to disclaim ownership of the truck, but the appeal court sustained a finding that a city seal on the vehicle was a proof of ownership.

ORDERED HELD FOR MURDER.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Tony Danna, 31 years old, 1247 Taylor street, be held to the grand jury for the murder of Louis Orrico, 911 South Claremont avenue, whom he shot Oct. 8.

BETTY RANDOLPH BEATS FORMER PASTOR'S SUIT

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The jury which had heard the $50,000 breach of promise action of the Rev. Bartholomew J. Chudacek of Johnstown, N. Y., found a verdict in favor of Betty Randolph, a former Follies girl, this afternoon.

B. J. CHUDACEK. [Acme Photo.]

Bernard A. Grossman, counsel for Chudacek, requested Justice Irwin Untermyer to set aside the verdict as contrary to evidence, but his motion was denied.

Miss Randolph thanked the jury, remarking that American men were superior to foreigns in matters of justice.

Mr. Chudacek sued Miss Randolph on his own assertion that she had proposed marriage to him, that they had obtained a marriage license at Greenwich, Conn., and that on two occasions she had failed to keep appointments with him to be married at Greenwich.

In his argument for Chudacek, Bernard A. Grossman, the plaintiff's counsel, stressed the fact that Miss Randolph had admitted carrying a marriage license about. Her signing of this license, he contended, should be regarded as evidence of a promise to marry, whether she actually intended to do so or not.

"Of course," said the lawyer, "she was in the habit of signing marriage licenses and might have signed this in her sleep."

In conclusion Mr. Grossman said Chudacek had proved the expenditure of $600 in his futile courtship of Miss Randolph and that he was entitled to receive this back.

DANGER!

MAN AT WORK!

A FAT MAN is his own worst enemy. It isn't just that those extra pounds ruin a man's appearance—they ruin his health and shorten his life. Get back that physique you used to be proud of. Take the 14-day Pluto treatment—a quarter of an ordinary glassful in a glass of hot water each morning. You will soon see that the insurance examiners are right when they say "Your waistline is your life line". Have the laugh on those who have laughed at you—get more slender than they are. Your druggist has Pluto Water for you. Two sizes—20c and 45c.

FREE—Reducing Booklet! Ask your druggist for "Cutting Down the Waistline"—a new booklet showing how moderate exercise, food selection, and Pluto Water will help you. Or drop a postcard to the French Lick Springs Hotel Co., French Lick, Ind., and a copy will be forwarded to you at once.

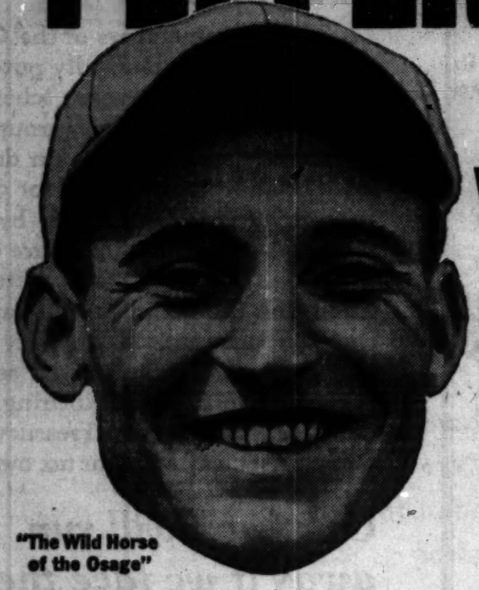
"PEPPER" MARTIN

Hero of the World's Series Says:



"The Wild Horse of the Osage"

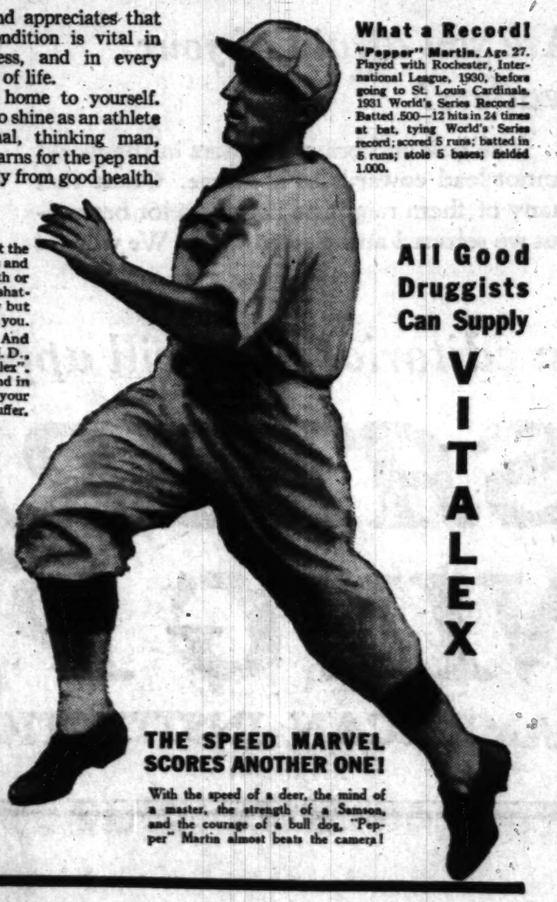
"I attribute my success in the recent World's Series to my perfect physical condition. Vitalex Tonic helped me 'keep in the pink' and increased my speed and pep. Vitalex is fine for steadying nerves, a mighty important factor with any ball player."

"Pepper" Martin

"VITALEX Tonic increases the Vigor, Vitality, and Energy of any man or woman who uses it."—"Pepper" Martin

John Leonard Martin—the hero of the hour—the man who out-thought and out-fought the doughty A's—the man who "flew" 'round the bases and straight into the hearts of America—the man who smashed precedent and world's series records—the man who has carved his name in the hall of fame is, first of all, a great athlete, and above all a man who knows and appreciates that perfect physical condition is vital in baseball, in business, and in every worthwhile activity of life.

Take the lesson home to yourself. You may not want to shine as an athlete—but every normal, thinking man, woman and child yearns for the pep and power that come only from good health.



What a Record!

"Pepper" Martin. Age 27. Played with Rochester, International League, 1930, before going to St. Louis Cardinals. 1931 World's Series Record—Batted .500—12 hits in 24 times at bat, tying World's Series record; scored 5 runs; batted in 5 runs; stole 5 bases; fielded 1.000.

Do You Feel 100% Right Now?

If you do, then you do not need Vitalex and we congratulate you. Be honest about the most precious thing you possess—your health. If you are weak, tired and pepless and your legs ache, or if you are troubled with headaches, gas, indigestion, bad breath or constipation; if you are bowed down with rheumatism or nearly "frantic" with shattered nerves then you need Vitalex not next month, not next week, not tomorrow but right now! A million people have found the path to better health with Vitalex. So can you.

Vitalex, as "Pepper" Martin says, is "fine for steadying nerves". He knows! And his amazing World's Series record proves that he knows. Dr. Oscar V. Linhardt, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says "for soothed nerves, I urgently advise the use of Vitalex". "To the victor belongs the spoils". This holds true in war, in sport, in business and in social life. Perfect health is priceless and you cannot gather its fruits unless your vital organs function properly; they must work normally or you will eventually suffer.

Vitaminized Vitalex is a scientific health-building combination of yeast, cod liver oil, and herbal juices—put out by the famous 110-year old pharmaceutical house, I. S. Johnson & Co. of Boston. No other tonic has such a record behind it—no other tonic has so many enthusiastic users.

Vitalex Insures Healthful Happiness

With this great tonic you can renew your pep and look better, eat better, sleep better, and "lick the world" because your health is up to par. Be well! Be attractive! Be successful! Charm men and women—win them with your vibrant being. Know the surge of rich red blood through your body. Good health is glorious! Achieve good health and the world is yours to command. Vitalex is harmless; Vitalex is helpful; Vitalex means health.

Vitalex is More Than a Tonic. Make the 7-Day Vitalex Test—At Our Risk!

The ailing, the weak, the convalescent, the rundown and despondent, those who hear inside whispers "you are slipping," weakened men, tired women, puny children—everybody may take advantage of the 7-day Vitalex Test—the test that has startled the medical world.

Thousands have reported such wonderful results from Vitalex that common sense directs us to sell it under an absolutely money-back guarantee. Try it for seven days and if you do not feel better and aren't satisfied in every way, return what is left to your druggist and get a full refund of your money. What could be fairer or more in your favor? Start taking Vitalex Tonic Tablets or Vitalex Tonic Liquid today. Next week you will thank us. CHEMICALS AND DRUGS, INC. (Vitalex Div.) 612 N. in New York and Boston

FEW TYPES of retail advertising have been more universally admired, or more successful, than that of Rogers Peet Company.

The 57 years experience of Rogers Peet is one of the outstanding examples of sustained success through sound merchandising and persistent newspaper advertising.

And all those years, Rogers Peet advertising has been one of the friendly, daily features of the Herald, the Tribune, and more recently, the Herald Tribune.

For the Herald Tribune is a distinctive New York newspaper. It is edited for those who are value-minded . . . not only in goods and merchandise, but in the cultural and spiritual things of life.

The New York Herald Tribune reaches the New Yorkers who count. And it does it with a single handed effectiveness that is distinctly unusual in this tremendous market of ten million human beings.

It holds a well beaten path of preference by those who really make New York the market that it is. That path avoids both the slums and that ephemeral froth which is no part of the life of most New Yorkers.

Nearly twenty per cent of the families in the New York market districts, where incomes average over $5000, regularly read the Herald Tribune.

You can't devise an effective control of this expansive New York market from any extraneous vantage point. You must know New York as New Yorkers know it. And of all New Yorkers, no one knows it as intimately or as surely as the merchandising staff of the Herald Tribune.

Write, wire or telephone today. The more you know about New York the more you will know about your own business . . . no matter where it is located!

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Before the week is up Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with her dancing partner and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A baby son arrives to compensate Irma for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's life-long ambition is a European voyage. A paid up endowment policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly leaves the baby. She is upset by a letter received in Paris from Aunt Tessie. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace refuses his consent to the marriage. He takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her. Jane Malcolm, a school-mate, calls on Mildred.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

MILDRED ELUDES HER GUARD.

"O, hello, Irma." Jane always greeted the Grahams with surprise, as though from time to time she forgot that others besides Mildred lived in the house.

"Hello, Jane."

"Where's Mildred? Is she sick?"

"No. What are you doing out of school?"

"I cut the morning classes to come to see Mildred. I was nearly wild all day yesterday. Couldn't imagine what was wrong with her. Why didn't she come to school? Say, do you know your phone is out of order?"

"No, it isn't."

"Sure, it is. I tried several times yesterday and once this morning to get Mildred. The operator said it was Necey."

"Why, I've used it."

"That's funny." Jane's brow wrinkled thoughtfully. "Maybe it's just incoming calls that can't get through. It would have saved me a trip if I could have gotten you. You ought to find out about it."

"I will."

"Where's Mildred?"

"She'll be right down. She's getting dressed up for you."

"O, the darn fool. May I go up?"

"Sure."

Together the two walked upstairs, Jane joining Mildred and Irma attacking once more the business of the bureau drawers. For a long while the girls laughed and talked on the other side of the wall. Then Irma heard them go downstairs.

Half way down Mildred turned and called to her: "Want some coffee, Irma?"

"No, thanks."

"I'm going to make some for Jane. She didn't have any breakfast."

"Okay. Fix some eggs, too."

"All right."

Their voices and laughter died away. They had evidently closed the kitchen door in order to discuss Mildred's affairs more privately. For fifteen minutes Irma puttered about, placing clean paper in the bottom of the drawers and laying sachet bags between the nightgowns and chemises. Suddenly she remembered what Jane had said about the telephone. She'd have to complain about that at once. That was awful not to be able to get incoming calls. Something important might be—— But Mr. Dreyfus had gotten Wallace directly after dinner last evening. That was funny. Why should Jane—— A horrible, dizzy sensation suddenly gripped Irma. She ran to Mildred's room and looked out the window. Before she looked she knew that the trim, rakish roadster would be gone. It was.

"Tell Mr. Graham to phone, will you, please?"

"Mildred! Mildred!" She ran downstairs and threw open the closet door. Mildred's hat and coat were gone.

Her first impulse was to call Wallace at once, but before she reached the phone the thought struck her that Mildred's disappearance didn't necessarily mean an elopement. Perhaps Jane had merely whisked her off to a meeting with Scott. It would be dreadful to get Wallace all steamed up during business hours over anything less than an elopement.

She telephoned the laboratory. If Scott were there she determined to tell him something of her position and trust to his honor to save her from being blameworthy in the carrying out of any plans he might have. But Scott was not there. A cool, amused voice informed her that he was not expected in for the day.

She wished earnestly that he had been there. Still, it was natural that he would not be. If nothing more serious than a meeting were planned he might still be taking the day off. But certainly not the whole day, common sense whispered. There was nothing good in his having taken the whole day.

Irma resolved to call the Malcolm house before disturbing Wallace. The Malcolms could tell her something. Jane couldn't have taken the roadster without making an explanation to some one.

It was many minutes before the calm, slightly annoyed voice of Mrs. Malcolm came to her over the phone.

"Yes."

"Yes."

"I'm sorry to have awakened you. Your maid said you were sleeping, but this is really important."

"That's quite all right. What can I do for you?"

"Why, it's a little difficult to explain. You see, I don't know just where Mildred is and I want to speak to her. I'm sure she's with Jane and I thought you could probably tell me where Jane is."

"Jane? Let me see. What day is this? Jane must be in school."

"She isn't, Mrs. Malcolm. She was here a few minutes ago and she had the roadster."

"O, really? I'll have to confess then that you know more about her actions this morning than I do. You see, I just woke up. Wait a minute."

Irma waited a minute. In fact, she waited several minutes. It was just when she had decided that she had been disconnected that Mrs. Malcolm's sleepy voice returned to the wire.

"O, Mrs. Graham, Gertrude just spoke to the chauffeur and he says that Jane took the roadster this morning."

"Yes, I know she did."

"O, you knew that? Well, that's all he knows and I don't know anything at all about it. I'm sorry."

"Well, thank you. I'm sorry I woke you."

"That's all right. Good-by."

Irma hung up the receiver and cursed Mrs. Malcolm for not knowing where Jane was. The idea of her sleeping while Jane went about helping her girl friends elope. There was only one thing to do now and that was to report the matter to Wallace.

She called his office. It was a terrible shock to find he wasn't in. She knew that frequently he and Mr. Dreyfus drove into the country to talk over knotty problems. Mr. Dreyfus thought better away from the factory atmosphere.

"Yes, Mrs. Graham. Mr. Dreyfus' chauffeur came about ten minutes ago and they went out riding. They took some papers with them, so I don't expect them back soon."

"If they do come back, tell Mr. Graham to phone, will you, please?"

Irma hung up the receiver. She had done all that she could do. For one insane second she thought of the police. Would they watch the motor roads, arrest the girls on sight, and return Mildred protesting but safe to her father? Perhaps they would. Still, there were reasons why Irma quickly forgot the police. First, the humiliation would be dreadful if the girls had no darker plan than giving Irma the slip for the morning. Second, if Scott were with them things might go badly with him. Irma knew nothing of the teeth of the law, but it seemed that since Mildred was a minor Wallace, in a bad temper, could make plenty of trouble for Scott.

The morning passed without Wallace having phoned. At 1 o'clock Irma tried the office again, only to learn that the gentlemen had neither phoned nor returned.

Irma found a sickening nervousness creeping upon her as the afternoon waned. She dreaded to tell Wallace of what had happened. He would take it hard. She wished that, like Mildred, she could run away, leaving him to draw his own conclusions. Her head ached and she remembered that she had eaten no lunch. At half past four she phoned the office again.

"Yes, Mrs. Graham. Just a moment."

So he was in and hadn't called her. Well, he'd be sorry about that.

"Hello, dear." Wallace's voice sounded contented and self-satisfied.

"Why didn't you call?" she asked.

"We didn't get back till a few minutes ago. Had luncheon out at the Fir Tree inn. Miss Cane said that you'd called, but I figured I'd be leaving shortly so I wouldn't bother. Nothing important, is it?"

"Rather. Mildred's run away."

"What? When?"

"Early this morning."

"Any news of her?"

"No."

Asks for Wardrobe Trunk.

"I am employed as a housekeeper and my daughter shares my little room with me. We have a hard time keeping it neat and tidy because we have no clothes closet and must hang everything on a costumer. I would appreciate having a wardrobe trunk, and as I cannot buy one, I am appealing to your readers to help me.

"MRS. B."

If you have an old wardrobe trunk taking up space in your storeroom which could be better utilized, I'd suggest that you give it to this woman. It would help so much in keeping her tiny home neat and attractive.

Handle All Physical Individualities in the Correct Manner

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Have you ever had your friends or acquaintances confide to you how self-conscious or really unhappy they used to be in their childhood over some physical peculiarity—or even just a physical individuality?

One woman I know had large and irregular teeth, and she said that when she was a child she did everything she could to avoid showing them when she smiled, and almost distorted her mouth. She says they made her so self-conscious that she's only just getting over it.

Another one had a snub nose about which she was eternally teased. Another had a long upper lip which came in for comments, when she was in her teens especially. And I am sure you can think of dozens of similar cases.

Now about each of those women there was this noticeable thing—either the unbeautiful feature was compensated for by other qualities like a charming figure, lovely hair, or a delightful personality—or the feature itself helped in the making up of an individual looking woman. They had all grown to accept themselves, but as children they had been very handicapped by their feeling about themselves.

The ideal thing would be to make your children so unself-conscious that they would never think about their looks. A few people are that way—but not many. Certainly not many women.

So, since few of us can get ideal results, the next best thing is to handle our children so that they don't have that hampering, deprecating attitude about themselves that so many children and adults suffer from.

I think a good general plan is to be matter of fact about both their good points and their bad. But when you have a chance, emphasize the good ones. If a daughter has a large mouth but lovely eyes and a fine skin, let her realize what assets the latter are and be casual about the former. If another daughter has no claim to beauty of face but has a quick, strong body and a fine carriage, let her know those are admirable possessions, and that personality often brings more happiness and fun and friendships than beauty.

Children, girls especially, often become very sensitive of what seem to them to be physical defects. A wise mother will balance things up for her daughter. There's a right way to do it—to teach her to accept a peculiarity if it is one, and to make her aware of it even to capitalize, without conceit, her points of beauty or charm.

Tailored Suits Have Jackets of Velvet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Side by side with the Empress Eugénie styles, the tailored suit marches in honor this fall. Suits are just as smart as more romantic clothes, and a heap more practical. They are made gay and new looking by having jackets of bright velvet trimmed with fur. Paris sometimes gives them a picturesque flair, also, by lending them the collars and revers of the incroyable—the overcoat of the French revolution.

The suit pictured today has these details and is from Maggy Rouff. The jacket of this suit is vivid red velvet, and its collar and revers are made of black Alaskan seal. So are the broad, split cuffs that finish the straight sleeves. The cut of this jacket is slightly fitted, and it fastens at the left side under one velvet button. It is interlined with wool to make it warm.

A black velvet skirt, flared from just above the knees by pie-piece godets, is worn with this red velvet jacket. This makes a dressy suit which can be worn for the most formal kind of afternoon affairs and also for informal evening.

A white satin waistcoat, shown in the background, completes this smart suit. This waistcoat is trimmed with lines of machine stitching arranged in a crossed, lattice pattern. The revers, collar, and cuffs are plain white satin, and the buttons down the front and on the cuffs are satin covered. The scarf that fills in the neck is a new style detail. Paris likes the scarf to be tucked inside the neckline thusly this season.

Plan Dedication for Aurora Memorial Bridge

Arrangements were being completed yesterday for ceremonies in connection with the opening of the new $330,000 Memorial bridge across the Fox river at Aurora, which will be dedicated on the anniversary of Armistice day, Nov. 11. The Memorial bridge dedication committee announced that prominent state officials would speak at the dedication ceremonies.

BOOSTING PRINCE INTO TREE BRINGS YANKEE 280 YEAR OLD LEGACY

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The prince, who later was King Charles II. of England, was boosted into a tree by "a country fellow," Richard Pendrell, 280 years ago.

And that is how Irving Pendrell, a Brooklyn insurance man, came into a $400 a year legacy today.

For hundreds of years the Pendrells have been getting the annuity, the only one of its kind in the country.

It was when Cromwell's "Ironsides" were pursuing the prince and capture seemed inevitable that history was made by the "country fellow," who helped Charlie into a tree and forced him to hide there until the pursuers had swept by.

The $400, paid from the estate of King Charles in recognition of the service, had been going each year to George W. Pendrell, a retired laundry man. With his death at 76 his son had inherited the legacy.

How Does a Woman Champion Manage?

Women champions cannot have "off days." Day after day of practice and play, and matches that permit no postponements. Then how do they manage during menstrual periods when other women are sunk with pain? They meet these monthly emergencies with Midol, and they don't ever experience a twinge of periodic pain.

Harmless as it is, a Midol tablet blocks all possibility of periodic pain for hours at a stretch. It isn't a narcotic. But it acts in seven minutes and lets you menstruate in comfort! Just ask the druggist for Midol.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

New England of Other Days Relives in Book

Veteran of Civil War Has Two Families.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Portrait of an American," by Robert P. Tristram Coffin [Macmillan].

"PORTRAIT of an American" is the kind of book that used to be written a half century ago by the literary member of a family in celebration of the eccentricities of the clan. It has the fragrance of those family documents of another day. It celebrates not only a person whose greatness was deeply rooted in his love for his family, but a group life which is as little a part of American life today as bows and arrows are.

The "American" whose portrait Mr. Coffin paints was, I feel sure, the author's father.

Mr. Coffin writes about "William" as if he were writing a fictionized biography, but every line tells the tale of his reverence and filial love not only for a person but for a mode of life now gone. "William" in the first chapter is a boy with patches on his pants that don't match, working for a New England college professor who lets him read the books in the family library and who has promised to start him on Latin soon. William's mother and father live in the narrative for a few pages until the father dies and the mother falls and breaks her hip and is an invalid.

William goes to war—the civil war. He is given a photograph by Abraham Lincoln—reproduced in the book. He is sent back to Maine to die, and surprises every one but himself by getting well. He marries and raises a large family. When his first wife dies he marries again and raises another large family. He loves the land and makes his children love it. He loves life and shares his zest for it with the world. He is a truly great man, for he gives a new eagerness to life to every one who comes in contact with him.

He is, in a simple way, an epic character. Mr. Coffin has painted a portrait as delicate as an authentic old New England silhouette.

"Portrait of an American" has just received honorable mention in a contest conducted by the National Arts club for the best manuscript on "The Love of America." The John G. Agar prize of $1,000 was awarded at a dinner at the club in New York last night to Robert Douglas Bowden for his book "In Defense of Tomorrow."

Speaking of New England reminds me of my review of Edna Ferber's "American Beauty." "Portrait of an American" has some of the "American Beauty" in it which Miss Ferber celebrates, the voluptuous coldness (as it were) of the New England soil which promises so much at sight and which yields to man with such icy abstinence. Mr. Coffin's New England is Maine, and Miss Ferber's Connecticut, but they both have the same cold but irresistible allure.

"American Beauty," like "Show Boat," has some thing rather than a person for its hero or heroine. The Mississippi river was the hero of "Show Boat." It was the story of the Mississippi river more than it was of any individual. Just so "American Beauty" is the story of a house more than it is the story of any one of the men or women who lived in that house. The house was built in the 1850s, after plans by Sir Christopher Wren. It dominated a family in all of its branches as it dominated a landscape, as in "Show Boat," the river dominated every one who lived near it. When you have finished the book you feel it is the house that is its hero rather than any one person.

One after another its owners came and went, spectacular figures in a particularly beautiful setting. Until finally it became the property of the daughter of a spieler in a medicine show married to a Polish immigrant, a character a little like Selina Peake, who was devoured by hard work on a dairy farm.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The Grand Coup Again.

How many successful men spend the first half of their productive years accumulating wealth and the latter half giving these accumulations away?

While the very fiber of competitive games is acquisitiveness it is sometimes excellent technique to reverse the life history of rich men. Give away first; receive later.

Those of you who solved yesterday's hand know just what I mean—it was a coup—a grand coup—and only a seemingly reckless tossing away of trumps produced game. The hand:

NORTH (Dealer)
♠—K, 8
♥—A, Q, 10, 9
♦—A, K, 10, 8
♣—7, 6, 3

WEST	EAST
♠—3	♠—Q, 9, 5, 4
♥—8, 7, 5, 3	♥—6, 4, 2
♦—9, 7, 6, 2	♦—3, 5, 4
♣—J, 10, 9, 5	♣—A, K, Q

SOUTH
♠—A, J, 10, 7, 5, 2
♥—K, J
♦—Q, J
♣—8, 5, 2

North bid a heart, holding better than the three high card tricks necessary to make an orginal four card suit bid of one and having a biddable suit in both hearts and diamonds. He bid hearts rather than diamonds, as it is the best practice with two biddable suits of equal length to bid the higher value suit first. East passed and South, with six spades, headed by the ace, jack, bid one spade. West, of course, passed, and North mentioned his diamonds, bidding two. East again passed and South rebid spades, West passing. North stopped to consider. He did not wish to play either his major or minor suit, since game is less probable in a minor and since South did not seem to fancy either of them.

North felt that South had no strength in clubs or no trumps. North, therefore, feared a no trump. He also knew that South had at least a five card spade suit because of his rebid. North's holding of K, x in spades was normal (or neutral) support for a five card suit. Having a total of four high card tricks in his hand and knowing South had a minimum of 1½ high card tricks, North saw 5½ high card tricks between the two hands, which meant that game was most probable. He, therefore, bid four spades. All passed.

West opened the club jack and East promptly took three club tricks. East then led the spade 4, not wishing to lead up to either the heart or diamond tenace in the dummy. South took the trick with the spade jack and led a small spade to dummy's king. On this play West discarded.

The discard told South that the adverse trumps were originally divided four and one in place of the normal three and two. He had four trumps in his own hand. East had two. If he kept four trumps in his own hand to the end he would be compelled to lead up to East's queen and be set. So he must get rid of two trumps to make game! Unless East had a singleton heart or a singleton diamond he could make his play.

South now led the heart ace, on which he played his king. He then led the heart queen from dummy, playing his jack. Dummy's heart 10 was then led and when East followed South trumped. South led the diamond queen to dummy's ace, leading back the heart 9 from dummy. East discarded a diamond and South trumped.

South now led the diamond jack to dummy's king and led back the 10. It matters not whether East plays his queen of trumps or his 9. In either case the rest of the tricks are South's.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer. To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square at the right, as S. 3, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Federal Work Experts Hear Plea for Deaf

Five Per Cent of People Affected, It's Said.

Almost five per cent of the population of the United States has defective hearing to some degree, Mrs. Howell Washington of Nashville, Tenn., field worker for the American Federation of Associations for the Hard of Hearing, told the federal board for vocational education meeting at the Stevens hotel yesterday.

"We believe the sensitiveness of persons who are hard of hearing is a worse handicap to them than their deafness," Mrs. Washington said. She uses an amplifying instrument herself. 'There are, we believe, about 10,000,000 hard of hearing adults in the United States and 3,000,000 hard of hearing children who will soon be adults. However, many of those children can be greatly benefited if their condition is recognized in time."

Mrs. Washington urged the more general use of the audiometer in public schools for systematic testing of children's hearing, in order that they may be given needed medical attention when it may actually aid them. She warned about "quick cure" quackery and said lip reading is the first aid for the hard of hearing, though it is as difficult to learn as a foreign language, and must be made almost a life study.

Success of the organization in finding employment for persons hard of hearing was related by her. Almost any vocations that do not depend entirely upon ability to hear quickly and surely are open to the hard of hearing, she said, and many have secured employment and become successful.

The vocational board also heard discussion of training for tubercular and blind children. Training for the former is a comparatively recent innovation, following improvement in medical treatment that removes the likelihood of recurrence of the malady.

A plan to have specially reconstructed radios with ear phones installed in all deaf oral classrooms in Chicago public schools was outlined at a meeting of the Parker Practice school Parent-Teacher association yesterday. In a recent campaign 2,000 radios and 500 earphones were donated.

100 Year Old Wine Good; Recorked for New Century

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The American Antiquarian society at its annual meeting in Antiquarian hall today learned that the bottle of Madeira wine which was deposited in the custody of the society Oct. 4, 1831, had been opened Oct. 4, 1931, and the wine found to have retained its savor and still palatable. It was further announced that the bottle had been recorked to remain in the possession of the society for another century. Calvin Coolidge was reelected president.

Publicity Seeking Pastors Condemned by Unitarian

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Robert C. Dexter of Boston, Mass., speaking at the round table conference of the American Unitarian conference today, said ministers who perform marriage ceremonies in airplanes, swimming pools, and under similar bizarre circumstances, should hide their heads in shame. Dr. John Howland Lethrop, Brooklyn, said the disarmament conference in Germany in February will be the greatest world event since the world war.

PRIZE AUTHOR

MARY HASTINGS BRADLEY.

The O. Henry Memorial Award committee announced last night in New York that Mary Hastings Bradley, Chicago writer, is one of the prize winners of its thirteenth annual award for the best short stories of the year by American writers published in American magazines. Mrs. Bradley's story, "The Five-Minute Girl," published in The Saturday Evening Post, Jan. 10, 1931, received the third rating among the several thousand stories read by the committee and also won a cash award of $250.

HARVARD'S DENTAL EXPERT CALLS DIET SAFEGUARD TO TEETH

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Percy B. Howe, Boston, professor of dental science at Harvard university, today was awarded the Fauchard medal for his researches into the influence of diets on teeth. The award was made in connection with the American Dental association convention.

Dr. Howe recommended more vegetables, fruits and milk in the average diet, with less meats and cereals.

"We've been brushing our teeth for 50 years and we still have cavities. The dentist says brush your teeth every day but be sure to come back. Why? Because he knows you'll have more cavities. Tooth brushes aren't the answer. Diet is."

5 New Cardinals May Be Named in November

Europeans Only Ones on Supposed List.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 21.—With the college of cardinals reduced to 55, the convocation of a consistory by Pope Pius XI. for awarding several new red hats, is imminent, according to reports current here. Nov. 16 has been mentioned as a probable date. The full quota of the college of cardinals is seventy.

The college, at present, consists of 29 foreigners and 26 Italians. It is not believed that more than four cardinals, possibly five, will be created this time.

Among those mentioned as likely to get the red hat is Msgr. Maglione, the present papal nuncio to Paris. It is said that he is also the pontiff's choice as the new vatican secretary of state if Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli persists in his wish to retire. In that case he is expected to become the archbishop of Florence.

A red hat, it is said, will be awarded to Msgr. Pizzardo, secretary of the sacred congregation, for extraordinary ecclesiastic affairs. Msgr. Pizzardo was one of the churchmen to whom the Fascists objected in the conflict between the church and the state over the Catholic Action society last summer. His elevation to the cardinalate would eliminate diplomatically one of the tangles in working out a settlement of that affair.

Others mentioned are Msgr. Marmaggi, the present papal nuncio to Poland, who is slated to replace Msgr. Pizzardo, it is stated, and Msgr. Caicia Dominioni, the papel chamberlain, who is known to thousands of Americans who have had audiences with the pope.

Pauline Frederick's Former Husband Marries Heiress

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Charles A. Rutherford, former husband of Pauline Frederick, stage and screen star, and Marguerite Dober, an heiress, revealed today they were married secretly in Tacoma a week ago.

Rutherford, a Seattle physician, and his bride first went to Everett to be married last Wednesday, Mrs. Rutherford said.

"But the doctor objected to a green tie I was wearing, so we came back to Seattle and changed the tie. Then we went to Tacoma and were married by a justice of the peace," she added.

Dr. Rutherford was divorced from Miss Frederick in 1925.

FREE LECTURES FOR CHILDREN SATURDAYS AT THE ART INSTITUTE

Free lectures are a regular feature of the Art Institute of Chicago. Miss Helen Mackenzie, curator of the Children's museum, will talk to children Saturdays at 9 a. m. in the lecture hall adjoining the Children's museum on the first floor. The dates and subjects are: Oct. 24, "Famous Ceilings"; Oct. 31, "Church Furniture, Old and New"; Nov. 7, "Beautiful Doors and Doorways"; Nov. 14, "Windows, Old and New"; Nov. 21, "Saints and Their Symbols"; Nov. 28, "Grotesques in Art"; Dec. 5, "Princes and Princesses in Art"; Dec. 12, "Famous Equestrian Portraits"; Dec. 19, "Historical Events in Painting."

Kilbrath Junior Warden of the Illinois Odd Fellows

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 21.—(AP)—James L. Kilbrath of Energy was elected grand junior warden of the Grand Lodge of Illinois Odd Fellows this afternoon. There were five candidates. Thomas P. Fields of Monmouth was elevated to the office of grand master, replacing E. M. Cobb of Centralia who was named grand representative. Bertha Smith was elevated to the presidency of the Rebekahs, succeeding Grace M. Bairstow of Waukegan.

Two Movie Stars Upset with Canoe; Both Saved

Missouri Youth Wins Yorktown Essay Prize

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Calhoun Barkley, of Mexico, Mo., won the national essay contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution in connection with the Yorktown sesqui-centennial.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In THE TRIBUNE Tuesday there was a report of a shipment of cars from the Pullman company for service in Brazil. It said there were twenty-one specially built dining cars. The fact is that the shipment consisted of four dining cars, five sleepers, six coaches, and six baggage mail cars.

Mrs. Mary Clark, 79 years old, 5509 Lakewood avenue, died Monday of injuries received in an accident, and not of a heart ailment, as reported in THE TRIBUNE.

Chicago Relief Fund Is Past 3 Million Mark

Sears, Roebuck Adds Its $100,000 to Fund.

A contribution of $100,000 from Sears, Roebuck & Co. to the joint emergency relief fund was announced last night by Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the trades, industries, and professions division. The contribution was the seventh one hundred thousand dollar gift made since the campaign started and raised the total fund to $3,148,643. The mark aimed at is $4,800,000.

Robert E. Wood, president of Sears-Roebuck, announced that the company's subscription will be increased later when a final report is made on pledges made by employés.

Subscriptions to the fund reported by the chairmen of the various groups in the trades, industries, and professions division were made public yesterday. Only 27 of the 57 groups turned in reports at a meeting held Tuesday. The $735,133 reported has already been included in the total stated above. The groups, their chairmen, and the amounts pledged by each were as follows:

Every prominent women's organization in the county has been enlisted in the campaign, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the women's division, announced yesterday.

A telephone battery of women, led by Mrs. George A. Nichols, has already sold over $5,000 worth of tickets for the All-Star Gambol on the afternoon of Nov. 1 at the Civic Opera house.

Forty Kiwanis clubs will cooperate with the campaign today at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman. Among the speakers will be Samuel Insull Jr., Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Charles S. Dewey. W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE'S radio station, will broadcast the event, beginning at 1 p. m.

To provide relief more quickly to families in destitute circumstances the joint emergency relief committee is setting up the machinery to establish 14 new relief stations over the city. Eight of them are being established now.

These stations will handle only cases where the needs are purely economic in character and thus do not need the medical, social, and mental care required by those families who cannot care for themselves in ordinary times.

Irving Park district, 4710 Irving Park boulevard.

Oakwood district, 700 Oakwood boulevard.

Avondale park district, 3500 School street.

Lincoln park district, 110 West North avenue.

These stations will be under the fiscal management of the American Red Cross, whose main office is at 616 South Michigan avenue. They will coöperate with the five major family agencies, the American Red Cross, the United Charities, the Jewish Charities, the Catholic Charities, and the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army will operate stations at the following addresses: 2334 Milwaukee avenue, 713 North State street, 1514 West Madison street, 3516 South Halsted street, and 6858 South State street, all of which are for family relief work.

Family service stations operated by the United Charities are as follows: 1725 Wilson avenue, 9143 Houston avenue, 1125 North Marshfield avenue, 4500 Prairie avenue, 6431 Dante avenue, 2959 South Michigan avenue, 257 West Sixty-third street, and 1959 Washington boulevard.

Catholic charities, whose general office is at 126 North Des Plaines street, operate through the individual parishes. All Jewish relief work is dispensed from the general office at 1800 Selden street.

The Joint Emergency Relief committee has made provision to shelter 7,500 men and about 250 homeless women. Shelters for men are located at 116 South Green street, 509 North Union avenue, at the Wrigley lodge, 563 Randolph street, 308 South Green street, 142 North Union avenue, the old Criminal Court building, 847 West Monroe street, 118 South Green street, 220 Morgan street, 3140 Indiana avenue, 459 East Thirty-first street, and 3027 South Wabash avenue.

Shelters for women are at the Women's Service bureau, State and Lake building; the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial Lodging house, 2412 Prairie avenue, and the Sunshine Haven for Colored Women, 3311 South Michigan avenue.

Archdeacon Ziegler Talks During Meeting at Jail

A new program of meetings was begun yesterday afternoon in the county jail chapel under the direction of the Rev. Joseph Higgins, Episcopal prison chaplain. The Rev. Mr. Higgins has developed a "speakers' bureau" for carrying on the Wednesday afternoon programs. The speaker yesterday was the venerable Winfred Ziegler, archdeacon of Chicago.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Samuel Barrymore Colt, Ethel Barrymore's 11 year old son, started a screen career today by signing to play a subordinate rôle, that of a fast living young New Yorker in a picture directed by Dorothy Arzner, Hollywood's only woman director. He is using Samuel Colt as his motion picture name. In his assignment he will play in a cast with Buddy Rogers, Paul Lukas, Stuart Erwin, Judith Wood, and Dorothy Hall. He made his stage debut in Rochester, N. Y., three years ago, and also played Chicago with his mother and his sister, Ethel Barrymore Colt, in the stage version of Julia Peterkin's "Scarlet Sister Mary."

Janet Gaynor has acted as English tutor to Raoul Roulien, youthful good-looking South American, who has a minor part in her "Delicious."

Philip and Aimée Stuart, English playwriting team, are taking up their scenario stunt on the M-G-M lot, where those other exemplars of English culture, P. G. Wodehouse and Frederic Lonsdale, held forth earlier this year with such indifferent results.

Neil Miller, the ex-sugar plantation worker, who accompanied Dorothy Mackaill here from Hawaii and became her fiancé, is now singing in a local café orchestra.

Columbia is getting started almost a month later than the other studios in filming its fall football offering, with the company headed by Jack Holt now hard at work daily making "Yellow." Exterior scenes are being shot at University of California at Los Angeles, and at the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

Skin Insensitive to Jibes Is Possession of Priceless Value

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Is it true that when you care for a person, you are supersensitive about everything that person says?" Bess asks.

"Bess admits she has the average sense of humor, yet she suffers a predisposition to taking seriously every little thing her best beau says, though she knows down in his heart he doesn't mean it the way it is taken. Unfortunately, the beau is troubled with the same complaint. He minds things that are said, too, though he realizes there is no intent to hurt.

"Can this trait be overcome, and how?" Bess asks.

An analysis of the supersensitiveness might help clear the air. Isn't it because the supersensitive "Besses" and their supersensitive beaus set themselves up in their own minds as rather superior persons, immune to criticism? In this play-acting business at which sweethearts are experts they put forward the best foot and expect to be honored and judged on it alone.

So, it becomes no small affront to their ego if they're caught red handed with a human frailty. Their reaction is touchiness to the discovery. It is particularly disconcerting when the beloved one for whom one has been putting up this fine front gets a peek in at the real person. That's what hurts us silly, vain old humans. It isn't what's said so much all that some one is on to us. That's what hurts our vanity.

And it is to save us from just such ridiculousness that the blessed gift of humor was dispensed. Or, if not a sense of humor, then so tough a hide that the jibes skid off without so much as leaving a pin prick. Either serves—humor or the tough hide.

Personally, I think the tough epidermis a possession to be greatly envied. Taking it by and large, it's a stouter protection than humor. Humor gives one out a bit more easily. But the person who comes by it naturally, or can buckle on that protective armor of not giving a darn what any one says or thinks, is in a fair way to getting a good deal more out of life than the sensitive soul.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Unwelcome Pursuit.

"Dear Miss Blake: I know a girl who is crazy about me. She wrote a letter to me I didn't like. I want to forget her. EDDIE."

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' COSTUME SLIP.

Many of the new costume slips are cut on the bias, and this one, with its moulded line to well below the hips, has an especially slimming effect. The bottom of the skirt is circular, and the diagonal line of the upper edge will be just right for the V shaped dress neckline. Crêpe de chine and flat crêpe are the most popular materials.

The pattern, 3348, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 1¼ yards of lace banding.

Radio City Programs Will Circle the World, Roxy Tells Londoners

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Samuel L. Rothafel, "Roxy," the New York showman, arrived in London today after completing a European tour in search for ideas for the Radio City of New York. Roxy stated:

"When it is ready, in two years, Radio City will broadcast over the entire world. By that time there will be improvements so that it will be possible to pick up the broadcast here without interference."

He added that television would not generally be introduced until it had been perfected. "That was the mistake made with sound films," he declared.

..looks and feels "years younger"

Read the secret that turned the calendar back!

LUCKY fellow—getting a new lease on life! Getting the chance to wipe out those years crippled by underweight, poor complexion, sleepless nights. Getting the chance to show what he can do when he's feeling fit—"better than he has for years."

Friends notice the difference already! Tell him how much younger-looking...But wait—read Mr. Adams' story in his own words:

"My weight was down to 130 pounds when I started taking Ironized Yeast. After taking three packages, my weight has reached 150 pounds. My complexion is clear. I also have sound and restful nights. In fact I feel better today than I have for the past three years. My friends all tell me that I look years younger." Chas. W. Adams, 321 S. Salcedo St., New Orleans, La.

New Health Ahead!

No doubt you'd pay almost anything to put on some weight. No doubt you'd do almost anything to get rid of constipation, weakness or skin and stomach disorders. Yet all Mr. Adams paid was the small cost of three packages of a new tonic. And all he did was to take these pleasant tablets after meals. So why not try this easy way to gain health and weight?

Double Results—quick!

This remarkable scientific formula not only builds up your body structure—adding new firm flesh, helping strengthen nerves—but it also tones up the action of your organs. It helps your stomach digest better—your intestines eliminate better—and enriches and purifies your blood.

That's because Ironized Yeast contains imported "beer yeast"! This famous health yeast is concentrated to seven times the tissue-nourishing value of ordinary yeast. It is then ironized—scientifically treated with three distinct kinds of tonic iron.

GUARANTEED! Thousands owe new attractive figures—new glorious freedom from aches and pains—to Ironized Yeast. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded by the manufacturer. AVOID IMITATIONS! Insist on genuine Ironized Yeast. Look for the "I.Y." on each tablet. Food Talk.

Diabetics have come to us for general assistance in dietary problems peculiar to them. Every diabetic should be under a doctor's care, but we hope that the general grouping of foods given today will be of assistance to those who have to plan diabetic menus. It should be remembered that these foods are simply ones which do not have a high carbohydrate content, and cannot be specifically applied to individual cases.

First of all, patients suffering from diabetes have to reckon with diet "don'ts." These include coffee, tea, milk, macaroni, spaghetti, peas, beans [dry], lentils, sweet corn, potatoes, all pastries, condiments, bread [except gluten and soy], dried fruits, sirup, honey, canned fruits [unless unsweetened], jams, jellies, and preserves. Quite a formidable list, isn't it?

General diabetic diets may consist of clear vegetable soups, broths, and cream soups—the last mentioned made with cream, but no flour. Relishes and entrées include, ripe olives, lettuce, radishes, celery, cucumbers, endive, cheese timbales, and eggs in any form.

Vegetables and fruits have been grouped according to carbohydrate content. Vegetables with a maximum of three per cent carbohydrate content are lettuce, endive, cucumbers, spinach, beet greens, celery, asparagus, brussels sprouts, sauerkraut, string beans, sea kale, and tomatoes. Five per cent vegetables are cabbage sprouts, cauliflower, chard, eggplant, pumpkin, cabbage, leeks, radishes, collards, and mushrooms. Ten per cent vegetables are beets, okra, turnips, onions, squash, carrots, and rutabaga. Fifteen per cent vegetables are parsnips, canned lima beans, artichokes, and green peas.

Classification of fruits with the same percentages of carbohydrates is as follows: The five per cent class includes ripe olives, watermelon, and the avocado pear. The ten per cent class includes strawberries, lemons, cantaloupe, peaches, pineapple, mango, blackberries, oranges, orange juice, grapefruit, and cranberries. The fifteen per cent class includes raspberries, currants, blueberries, apricots, pears, huckleberries, and cherries.

So much for the vegetables and fruits. The patients may have desserts, though they are not guaranteed to satisfy that exasperated craving of the sweet tooth. Unsweetened gelatine [vegetable], custards, canned fruits, and ice cream—remember these are all unsweetened!—compose the entire list. If you are thirsty, and we have eliminated most of your drinks, you may have buttermilk, unsweetened orange and lemonade.

A famous sanitarium has made a great study of the diabetic, and has, as a result, put on the market many foods, including beverages, breads, unsweetened canned products, and many other food ingredients to be used in diabetic diets. They are moderately priced and can be found in almost all good grocery stores.

Today's recipes, which are NOT for diabetics, will be included with those of tomorrow. Look for them. "Fish mousse" is particularly good.

Antonio Cortis Here for Opera Season's Opening

Antonio Cortis, Chicago Civic Opera tenor, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Broadway Limited at the Union station, accompanied by Mrs. Cortis and their younger daughter, Lolita, 3 years old. They are residing at the Seneca hotel. The Cortis family spent the summer in Denia, a village in Spain. In September Cortis sang in concerts in Milan and in London. Their elder daughter, Carmencita, 14 years old, remained in Spain on the departure of her parents. She is attending school in Barcelona.

Polish Count Here with Bride, an Oil Heiress

Count John Drohojowski and his wife, formerly Miss Katheryn Connell, who inherited $3,000,000 from the estate of her grandfather, Robert Glenn Desby, oil operator, arrived in Chicago yesterday. They are returning from Europe to her home in Tulsa, Okla. They were married last February after meeting about a year previously in a small school house at Millbrook, N. Y. There she was appearing in a school play. The count formerly was secretary to the ambassador of Poland in Rome, and before that a newspaper correspondent in Berlin. They are at the Blackstone hotel.

REAL Doctor's Remedy safest aid to bowels

A DOCTOR knows the best and safest way to stimulate the bowels when bad breath, coated tongue, sluggishness, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition shows they are lagging. There could be no better proof of this assertion than the overwhelming sales and popularity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Syrup Pepsin is a doctor's prescription for the bowels—made by the same formula Dr. Caldwell wrote and prescribed over and over during his forty-seven years of practice. He tested its gentle action with women, older people, babies and children; saw that it does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. He proved its action thorough, complete, with the most robust men. Then as its pleasant taste and perfect action caused it to grow in popularity, he permitted it to be bottled and kept by druggists everywhere, ready for use.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist today. Then, next time you or one of your family feel the need of a bowel cleansing, you will have a doctor's choice of what is best.

Society Plans to See Show by C. C. Drake

BY THALIA

CARLOS C. DRAKE is apparently going to be a fine contradiction to the "prophet without honor in his own country" tradition by being a playwright with a grand debut in his own home town. The Studebaker theater, wherein his first drama, "Against the Wind," is to open on Monday, is practically sold out for next week. The first night audience will be marked by a large Little Forest representation, not only because the setting of the drama is the "Little Forest" and the characters counterparts of just such denizens as dwell in our fashionable suburb to the north but also because so many of the Chicagoans who have known him since he was a small boy going to the public school want to see Carlos' play, and all of the Drake clan will be on hand—the playwright's parents, the Tracy Drakes; his aunt and uncle, the John Wilkie Mitchells, and all the cousins of the younger generation.

Others to be present include the D. Hale Cummingses, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Dr. L. L. MacArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Mrs. Elliot Jenkinses, Miss Jane Cox, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clows, and the Henry Bartholomays. Durand Smith, who presents a biographical sketch of C. C. Drake in the current Chicagoan, is taking a half dozen guests, and the Ben Marshalls are having a box party. Mr. and Mrs. Carlos C. Drake are now with the play in Cleveland. There it is going through a session of production adjustment.

The second night performance has been bought out for the benefit for the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan Asylum, and that also will be a gala audience. Wednesday evening the Drama league has taken a large block of seats, and on Thursday night is a benefit Mrs. Ernest R. Graham is arranging. Mrs. Roy Sturdevant, chairman of the committee for the Tuesday evening benefit, is entertaining at a dinner party at the Blackstone for Miss Margaret Chapman and some of the other debutantes before and at the play.

The St. Luke's committee is elated because the fashion show on Tuesday cleared approximately $28,000, a sum that is considered most munificent in these hard times. It'll probably be a little more than that, because there are still some proceeds coming in.

The marriage of Miss Neola Northam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kent Northam, to John Theodore Zatteau, son of Mrs. Justine Zatteau, is to take place on Saturday evening at the Northam residence at 1043 Forest avenue, Evanston. The ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Lawrence W. Johnson of the First Presbyterian church at 8:30 o'clock with only members of the two families and a few friends in attendance. After a wedding trip Mr. Zatteau and his bride will reside temporarily with the Northams. Mr. Zatteau formerly resided in Riverside and is now of Evanston.

Talked about . . . Word is being passed around across lunch, tea, and bridge tables that coating the house plants with olive oil makes them shine as though they are lacquered, but there's also a contradictory impression that such treatment will kill the greenery. . . . Debutante Florence Carr is nicknamed "Flivver" by her intimates. . . . A young woman was telling the other day about how she is cutting down the amount of her tips to taxi drivers and the girl who "does" her hair, and when she gets home deposits the savings in a receptacle to be hoarded for depression relieving purposes. . . . Elsa Armour carries a large oblong brown handbag with a crescent shaped brass opener and E. A. in block letters about four inches tall.

The fall meeting of the Chicago Wellesley club is to be held at 3:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon in the trustees' room of the administration building for the 1933 World's Fair. Miss Helen Bennett, a Wellesley alumna herself, will tell the club about the exposition, and then tea will be served, after which those who want to can go through Fort Dearborn. Guests will include delegates from the Wellesley clubs of other cities in this region and the 1931 graduates. Mrs. Francis E. Broomell is president of the club this year.

Bits . . . Alice Coonley, the Prentiss Coonleys' daughter, broke her collar bone during one of the Lebanon Valley hunt's runs recently, when her horse stumbled into a hole, but she's back at the Coonleys' Folly farm at Great Barrington, Mass., now after a stay at the House of Mercy hospital in Pittsfield. . . . Mrs. Paul Healey has been at the Drake for several weeks and has now gone to Coronado Beach to be with her father and mother, the John Tracy Alexanders. . . . Miss Emily Larned of the Ambassador East returns from the east this week in time to preside at the American Opera society musical at the Fortnightly on Sunday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kehoe, who have occupied the Carl Stibolt house, "Cromarty," in Lake Forest, this summer, are moving in this week to their Sheridan road apartment. . . . Janet Fairbank, the Kellogg Fairbanks' daughter, is to sing in concert at the Kinsolving musical morning on Thursday, Nov. 19, at the Blackstone.

Also . . . Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick was to attend the meeting of the American Welfare association's national board in New York City while she's east. . . . The Gardiner Hammonds are staying out in Lake Geneva until Nov. 1. . . . The William Wrigleys are going to Lake Geneva for week-ends, using the lodge on their property, as the big house is closed for the winter.

Seventh Day Adventists Change Tenure of Officials

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Delegates to the annual general world conference of the Seventh Day Adventist church today approved a tenure of office resolution which will, within the next year, remove from office four international leaders, seven of twelve regional presidents and many of the 65 state presidents. A twelve year term was fixed for general officers, eight for regional officers, and six for state leaders.

An Unwise Reducing Program Frequently Followed by Tragedy

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Dear Miss Donnelly: Why do you urge women to reduce? Unless a woman is dangerously fleshy, let her keep her curves. Let her put sugar in her coffee and let her eat butter and cheese. She needs all of these things. Just let me cite a few tragic cases caused from reducing:

"First, I'll tell about myself. Five years ago I weighed 125 pounds and was in good health, but my friends kidded me about getting buxom so I started reducing. I cut down on food, with the result that I contracted tuberculosis of the lungs, and have been spending my time and thousands of dollars trying to regain my weight and health. Now I weigh 135 and may get well if I keep on gaining. I am ten pounds overweight but I wouldn't part with a pound. I've learned too costly a lesson.

"Next, I'll tell you of a friend, a prosperous and attractive business woman of 58. Her avoirdupois was becoming to her. But she decided she wanted to be slim, so she started taking a reducing medicine. She lost weight all right, but the trouble is she can't stop losing even though she has discontinued the medicine. She's a shriveled up, 90 pound, wrinkled old woman now. Her health and beauty gone, she never ventures outside her home, but just lies around waiting to die.

"A friend of mine reduced herself into tuberculosis, too, and isn't expected to live through another winter.

"A SADDER BUT WISER WOMAN."

I may be accused of a lot of things on judgment day, but never of advising a woman to reduce below her normal weight. And NEVER, NEVER have I advised medicine taking for reducing. Always I have warned that reducing is carried too far when one gets below normal, and my correspondent admits that her normal weight is 125 and that it was at this weight she started her reducing work. Always I've warned women to keep away from pills and bottles, to diet sanely and slowly, to avoid freak diets and to consult a physician if there was any suspicion of internal disorder. And I repeat the warnings.

For the reducing catastrophes, when you get right down to analyzing specific cases, are not excess flesh reducing fatalities but flesh reducing ones and there's a great deal of difference between excess fat and the fat needed to keep the body in health. In other words, it's insane to reduce below normal or by unscientific methods. It's sane to keep the figure free of excess poundage.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

W. K.: THE POINTED ELBOW may be rounded out with the general body rounding. Tone down the rough cuticle with pumice for smoothness and a bleach for whiteness. Lemon or diluted peroxide may be used as a bleach.

P. K.: STANDARD WEIGHT FOR a woman of 35, five feet three inches, is 130 pounds—a girl of five feet four inches, 120 pounds, and a woman of 55, five feet six inches, is 153 pounds.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary Henry L. Stimson was host at luncheon in the Pan-American building today to the European guests of this country at the Yorktown celebration. An orchestra stationed in the patio of the building played the national anthems of the guests, as they were being received and seated. While the men were at luncheon with the secretary, Mrs. Stimson was hostess to the ladies accompanying them, at luncheon at Woodley. There here guests were: Mme. Claudel, wife of the French ambassador; Frau von Prittwitz and Gaffron, wife of the German ambassador; Mrs. Adams, wife of the secretary of the navy; Mrs. Hughes, wife of the chief justice; the Marquise de Chambrun, Baroness von Steuben, Countess de Pange, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, Mrs. William R. Castle Jr., Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the American ambassador to Italy; Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. Matthew E. Hanna, and Mrs. Pierre de L. Boal.

Marshal Petain of France was given a reception this afternoon by the Sons of the American Revolution in their clubhouse. The president general, Benjamin N. Johnson, and other national officers received the company, which included also the other visiting foreign delegations to the Yorktown festival.

OPTIMISM SUBS FOR PESSIMISM AT OHIO STATE

Confident of Victory Over N. U.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—The way things look right now you really should come down to Ohio's hospitable capital to see that Ohio State-Northwestern football contest next Saturday—a game that will do much to settle the championship of the Big Ten.

More than 50,000 are expected, but they've got room for a lot more in case the urge develops under a continuation of the current happy weather and the potentialities of the contest. You know they had 97,000 on hand when they opened Ohio stadium in 1922, which is the record and considerably more than the present capacity.

Have Room for 63,000.

Right this minute, however, 63,000 of us could march out to the stadium and find a seat.

We don't want to seem to be shilling for the box office, for money never interests us, but we are pulling for a big, colorful gathering at this significant affair.

If we seem a little too enthusiastic and optimistic, it's probably the reaction from having spent the last two weeks in an environment of pessimism. We were with charming pessimists at Lafayette and Madison, of course, as dandy a bunch of moaners as we ever heard moan a moan, but somehow we felt refreshed today to find the Ohio State bunch respectful of Northwestern's strength, but frankly confident they will make a real battle of things come the week-end.

Attaches of the Ohio athletic establishment and the more active partisans maintain that the belief the Buckeyes have more than a fair chance to upset Northwestern will not spread to that dreaded football malady, overconfidence. A new psychology is being worked out, apparently. At any rate, a rollicking lust for victory is replacing the crêpe bedecked gloom so common in the preparation for major football spectacles.

Get Light Defensive Drill.

In accordance with Coach Williamson's policies adopted this week, the Buckeyes tonight were given another light workout consisting mainly of work of a defensive nature.

During the first part of the practice period, Coach Willaman took over the line, and with Line Coach George Hauser gave members of the forward wall individual instruction in ways and means of stopping the Purple's set plays.

Don Miller, one of the famous Four Horsemen [as if you could forget], had complete charge of the back field during the period and worked out new ways to stop the dreaded Rentner passing attack.

When the Buckeyes take the field against Northwestern Saturday the same lineup will start that took up the battle against Michigan and administered the 20 to 7 blistering last fall.

Lost to N. U. in 1930.

The 19 to 2 defeat of the Buckeyes at Evanston last year will have little or no bearing in the outcome of Saturday's game, for only five of the men saw service in that game and of these only two were classed as regulars.

Capt. Holcomb at right half, Hinchman at left half and Bell at tackle and Varner, the transplanted half at guard, are the only regulars who played last year.

Hudnich, regular tackle both this and last year was injured in the game against the Northwestern affair, two years in a row, and this will be his first meeting with the Wildcats. Smith at center and Nasman at end, another transplanted center, were in the game as substitutes as was Carroll at the back field.

The remainder of the Ohio team are sophomores playing their first season in the big time. Gailus at guard and Hagen at end are first year men, while Cramer at quarter and Vuchinich at full back are seeing their first action in the Big Ten.

Cramer Another Fesler?

Right here is a good place to bring out the fact that local football fans are eyeing this boy Cramer with critical glances, looking for a successor to the graduated idol, Wesley Fesler.

Fesler, it will be remembered, took the Ohio Staters' hearts where the immortal Chic Harley left off and to date Cramer seems to be the new hero fellow. The Dayton Stivers High boy, almost a home grown product and not a far traveled importation, seems to have given the "downtown coaches" something besides Williaman to talk about.

N. U. IN LIGHT DRILL

Rather than risk further injury to men already in need of considerable physical repair, Coach Dick Hanley called off all actual contact work in Northwestern's football camp yesterday. The practice was by far the lightest given the Wildcats this season.

Another workout will be held today, after which the squad of 33 players and coaches will depart for Columbus. The Northwestern party will arrive in the Ohio capital tomorrow.

ILLINI ACE

GIL BERRY.

Illini Line All Sophomores in Michigan Tilt

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—An Illinois line composed entirely of husky sophomores will start against Michigan in the homecoming game here Saturday, Coach Bob Zuppke indicated today before he sent the squad into a drill of aerial defense. Although there are one or two veterans still being considered, the forward wall probably will consist of the following second year men, whose weights also are given:

Center—Bill Hedtke, 197; guards—Sam Gorenstein, 203; Bob May, 186, or Lind Platt, 203; tackles—Cliff Hyink, 203, and Dick O'Neill, 193; ends—Scott Marriner, 193, and Fred Frink, 168. Lind Piatt of Monticello has shown improvement during the past week to gain consideration at guard.

The second team scrimmaged against the freshmen, but the regulars drilled only a short time on offense. Murray, full back, and Dave Cook, half back, were given special work in tackling.

MICHIGAN FULL MAY BE LOST

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Possibility that Capt. Roy Hudson, full back, might be missing from the Michigan lineup at Champaign Saturday was hinted today when Hudson remained out of active practice. Hewitt was at full back, Newman at quarter and Fay and Heston at halves.

The regulars spent much of the time tackling. Freshmen backs were given an opportunity to carry the ball and the first string men sent out to bring them down. The results showed improvement over the tackling done in games, but left much to be desired.

Reserves Work Against Passes.

The first reserves practiced a defense for Illinois passes, working against a second freshman eleven. A third freshman team scrimmaged with the B team, which is to meet Olivet here Saturday afternoon.

Some indication of the lineup that may start against Illinois was seen in the team picked to run through formations. Petoskey and Williamson were at ends, Auer and Wistert at tackles, Hozer and Lajeunesse at guards, Morris, center; Newman, quarter; Fay and Heston, half backs, and Hewitt, full back.

The team will leave here tomorrow night, spend Friday and Friday night in Chicago at the Windermere, and go on to Champaign Saturday, arriving at noon. The squad will work out at Stagg field Friday afternoon.

KID CHOCOLATE STOPS GOLDBERG IN THIRD ROUND

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban, who holds the junior lightweight championship, had an easy time tonight scoring a three round technical knockout over Al [Rube] Goldberg, New York, in their ten rounder at the Hollywood arena.

The Cuban sparred through the first two rounds, then opened up in the third and knocked his opponent down four times before Referee Jack Masterly stopped the bout two seconds before the end of the round. Chocolate weighed 131, Goldberg 136.

"NOTRE DAME TO BE PITT SETUP," ADMIRER WRITES

And Coach Anderson of Irish Agrees.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—"Pitt will beat the Army by three touchdowns and the Irish by about two." Thus read a letter which came to Coach Hunk Anderson of the Notre Dame football team today as it prepared to meet the Pitt Panthers here Saturday.

And Hunk agreed with the letter. "Yes, they have a good chance to beat us by two touchdowns," he said. "The letter shows good logic and it's from some one in Pennsylvania who signs himself 'A Staunch Supporter of Notre Dame'."

Pitt Has New Offense.

The main reason Anderson agrees with the letter was the declaration of Jock Sutherland that Pitt is coming west with an entirely new offense, on which it has been working for weeks. The Panthers have shown only five plays from one formation in games this year.

Accordingly, in today's varsity scrimmage against the reserves using Pitt formations, Anderson had the "Hamburgers" use every play Pitt showed last year before and during the Notre Dame game, every play the Panthers have shown this year, and he even borrowed from other Warner offenses.

Varsity Stops 'Em.

The varsity stopped all of these effectively because it is accustomed to the Warner style of play and because the reserves were poorly organized.

"Everything will depend on the initiative and resourcefulness of our players Saturday," Anderson said. "They will have to form their own defense when the game starts Saturday. I have done all I can, but I think Sutherland will have something new for us. Maybe he has a whole new system."

The letter which led Anderson to admit that Notre Dame may take a beating Saturday read in part:

That Pessimistic Letter.

"Gosh, Hunk:

"You're in for a stiff licking next Saturday. You don't know it, but you are facing an impregnable line and America's strongest running attack.

"Actually these men comprise America's greatest steam roller and nothing can stop them—not even Culver, Kurth, Harris, Capt. Yarr and the other excellent men. The secondary will have to make all the tackles because Pitt's running attack always passes the line.

"Pitt had stage fright last year. [Notre Dame won, 35 to 19.] When it recovered in the last quarter, though, it ran up 19 points and here was one N. D. rooter in the stands who was glad when the game was over.

"Hoffman, Pierce, Harris, and the others were pushed all over the lot. Of course, Pitt scored on a Notre Dame fumble, but the N. D. boys always fumble so darn much.

"Pitt will beat the Irish by two touchdowns. You don't know me, but I'm a staunch supporter and I say 'Pitt is too powerful.'"

PANTHERS HEAD WEST TONIGHT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The University of Pittsburgh's first three football teams will leave tomorrow night for South Bend, Ind., where Notre Dame will be encountered on Saturday. The squad, which is in good shape for the annual game with the Irish, will practice in the Notre Dame stadium on Friday.

CONDITION OF COMISKEY IS REPORTED FAIR

Eagle River, Wis., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The condition of Charles A. Comiskey, 73 year old owner of the Chicago White Sox, who has been ailing at his summer home near here for some time, was reported as "fair" tonight by J. Louis Comiskey, a son.

"He is slowly showing improvement and for the present, at least, is quite all right," the son, who is treasurer of the ball club, said. He denied reports that the White Sox owner was "very low" last night.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BOOTH OR ECKERSALL?

A READER has asked whether we consider Capt. Albie Booth of Yale or the late Walter Eckersall the greater football player. The query was prompted, no doubt, by the fact that both played at a poundage under 150 among boys weighing from 175 pounds to over 200 pounds.

WALTER ECKERSALL.

That is the kind of question one wishes to avoid. When a period of 25 years has elapsed from the great Eckersall of 1905 and 1906 to the great Booth of 1930 and 1931 conditions have so changed and football has so changed that opinion is opinion, and merely that, with nothing tangible to prove one's viewpoint.

The Wake never had seen Albie Booth until Saturday. We were more than pleased with that survey. Booth, as was Eckersall, was a triple threat. He was elusive, he could toss passes, and he could kick. Eckie also did all those things.

Eckersall's best gains were in an open field where his dodging and speed [he was a ten second track man] spelled woe to the opposition once he was loose. Eckie, we think, from a brief view of Booth, was perhaps better than Booth in his change of pace in avoidance of tacklers. In squirming away from tacklers and in line plunges—a less than 150 pound back actually going into the line—none would seem to excel Albie.

In kicking, we must give the palm to Eckersall, great punter that the wearer of the Blue is. In drop kicking Eckie not once but several times won games for the Maroons where his kicks were the only counts. Eckie also was a passer, but the aerial attack was just beginning to function at that time. In defense, Eckersall was almost without a peer as safety man in Chicago's back field.

So, just as matter of opinion, with no way of proving it, The Wake would class Eckersall as a greater all around football player than Booth—and we have a high regard for the young man from New Haven in the one game in which we saw him perform.

"Goody! Goody!"

Never let your heart forget
The cry of "Goody! Goody!"
Then your risibilities
Won't grow cold and woody.
Joy is ever waiting
To be as gaily met.
Never such a heart serene
Is likely to forget.

Other people need a sign—
In a world grown sour—
That the sun is bound to shine
Through the darkest hour.
If a fellow loses heart
Ask your spirit, "Should he?"
Comes your answer with a cure,
Singing "Goody! Goody!"

Barren, too, in places,
Finding tragedy enough
Crushing human graces.
Never let your heart grow up—
Cold, austere, and moody,
Give a cheer to every one

Ole Miss Back Makes Longest Run of Year

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The ball is in kickoff position on Alabama's 40 yard line in the stadium at Tuscaloosa. Spread out across the field defending their goal are the players of the University of Mississippi.

The referee's whistle shrills and the ball goes whizzing far down the field. Dashing back nine yards behind his own goal line Edmund Burke, Ole Miss back, squeezes the ball to his chest and heads for the other goal line 109 yard away. Alabama's players swarm in on him but he fights his way clear until Alabama's goal line is crossed.

The run proved to be only a gallant gesture in a losing cause as Alabama rolled over Ole Miss, 55 to 6, but it gained Burke the honor of making the longest run of the year to date in a football game.

Burke's 109 run, however, is only one of ten touchdowns made by college football players from the kickoff, according to statistics gathered by Parke Davis, national football statistician of Easton, Pa. Abraham Eliowitz, Michigan State's plunging full back, ran only six yards less against Alma.

Deacle, substitute Washington and Jefferson back, ran 97 yards to defeat Western Maryland at Baltimore last Saturday, and George Stubder ran 96 yards for Missouri's only score in a losing game with the Kansas Aggies. Six other runbacks of kickoffs for scores covered 75 yards or more.

The longest run from scrimmage for a touchdown was 97 yards by Donald Wheaton of De Pauw against Cincinnati and it won the game as DePauw kicked the goal for the extra point and a 7 to 6 victory.

There have been ten long runbacks of punts for touchdowns, according to Davis' figures, the longest being for 92 yards, by Louis Bush, little half back of Massachusetts State against Bowdoin.

Florida Approves Tracks; Start to Build 9 Next Day

Miami, Fla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Proprietors of nine Florida race tracks spurred construction and improvement work at their plants today following yesterday's county referendum elections in which the tracks were authorized to operate under Florida's 1931 law legalizing racing and parimutuel wagering systems.

One horse track, proposed for construction on a man-made island in Biscayne bay, was approved by the voters despite the fact that the war department recently revoked the permit for construction of the island.

Six of the tracks are in Dade county and in the Miami area. Of these the Hialeah horse track, operated by Joseph E. Widener, has been in existence for several years. Another horse track proposed by Frank J. Bruen, former managing director of the Hialeah track, will be built in Coral Gables for a 1931-'32 meeting.

Official count of yesterday's vote in Dade county showed that the Hialeah track led the ticket, gaining 20,419 favorable votes of the 22,701 cast.

Three dog tracks here, all of which operated last year, were approved for further activity under the racing law.

BRESNAHAN, IOWA TRACK COACH, TO WED NEXT MONTH

Tama, Ia., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Announcement of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Withington to George G. Bresnahan, University of Iowa track coach, was made today by Mrs. Grace Withington, mother of Miss Withington. The marriage will take place during the Thanksgiving holiday at the university.

Miss Withington is a teacher in the Tama Junior High school. She has attended the University of Iowa, Grinnell college and Iowa State college at Ames and is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

NOW THEY WANT TO INVESTIGATE N. Y. COMMISSION

But Shouldn't Some Things Remain Sacred?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 21.—The suggestion is made that Judge Seabury, that destructive critic who has been casting sinister innuendoes at various Tammany statesmen, including, I am assured, some of the sweetest and most generous characters that ever lived, should now investigate the administration of the New York state prize fight commission.

May I say that I think this would be a very bad idea? After all, there are some things in this country which should be held sacred, and if Judge Seabury should now shake the public faith in the New York prize fight commission, what would the people have left?

Here is something clean and fine and beautiful and yet there are vandal natures who will drag the honorable chairman, Mr. James Farley, into some court room and make him answer some insinuating lawyer's "Where were you on the night of the sixteenth?" I claim that if the time ever comes when the people get so out of hand that they are heard to boo Professor William Muldoon, the grand old man of fistiana, then there will be no authority left and anarchy will not be far behind.

Differentiate Between Bums.

One hears charges that the prize fight commission has misapplied its authority in many instances. For example, the commission has just forbidden a bout between Primo Carnera and Paulino Uzcudun, two honest, fun loving young sportsmen, on the ground that they would not be a good match. The same commission, however, approved not long ago a bout between Primo and Patrick Redmond, which was not a good match either. In fact that was one case in which the promoter found himself under legal compulsion to certify that one of his gladiators was, in the artistic sense, a bum. The promoter, Mr. James J. Johnston, did so certify. He went even farther.

"You may tell the public for me," he said, "that our Patrick is positively the worst bum I could find and I think you will admit that I am one of the leading bum fanciers of the day. I might even say that since the death of Leo P. Flynn there is no man living who has handled as many odd and curious bums as I have.

"One reason why I admit that our Patrick is a bum is that the federal court will not let Primo fight any one but bums until he fights Schmeling for the Garden. The other reason is that I want to see how much the customers can take. If they come to this fight when I warn them in advance that Redmond is a bum, then there is no limit to their endurance."

It's Pretty Terrible.

The customers did go to Mr. Johnston's fight and all present agreed that it was one of the worst ever produced.

Now Mr. Johnston had composed his differences with the Madison Square Garden corporation and become the big store's matchmaker. But the match between Paulino and Primo was arranged by his predecessor and was forbidden before he took office. Perhaps he can rematch them.

My correspondent who proposes a Seabury investigation of the prize fight commission expresses a curiosity regarding the names and activities of those who are referred to from time to time as sinister characters, blots on the escutcheon of the ring sport, and so forth. Hints and unsupported suspicions whet his interest and he suggests that if journalism cannot find the facts, then Seabury ought to.

With this I do not agree.

Mr. Farley Is Dictator.

The prize fight commission is a dictatorship and Mr. Farley a Stalin. When the rich kulaks of the Garden firm offended his authority last summer he banished them to the bleak cauliflower wastes of Cleveland with their Schmeling-Stribling fight. When the Garden firm might have made use of Primo Carnera, Primo was held to be suspended for life and unavailable. But when Mr. Johnston

DEATH ROBS TURF

JAMES ROWE JR.

Jimmy Rowe, Twenty Grand Trainer, Dies

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—James Gordon Rowe Jr., who as trainer for Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stables saddled Twenty Grand for his greatest triumphs, died here today after a two days illness with acute indigestion. He was 42 years old.

Son of the late James Rowe, who trained the famous stables of James R. Keene and the late Harry Payne Whitney, young Jimmy carried on for the Whitneys after the death of his father at Saratoga Springs in August, 1929. With Boojum, Whichone, and Beacon Hill in his barns that year, he won $362,000 for the stable. He boosted the figure to $385,972 in 1930 with Whichone, Mad Kiss, Beacon Hill, and Dustemall.

Studied Engineering.

In the winter of 1931, he transferred to the other branch of the Whitney family—the Greentree stables of Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Young Jimmy—as he was still called after his father's death—spent his early life about the race tracks, but old Jimmy was determined his son would have a college education.

Young Jimmy went to Fordham. Then he went to Cornell to study engineering. But the lure of the turf was too powerful and while the logarithms and the Latin were still fresh in his mind, he became assistant trainer for Harry Payne Whitney, working with his father.

Led Many Winners.

In the Greentree string, there was a handsome three year old which had won some $40,000 for Thomas Murphy. It was that colt which was to bring to the name of Rowe its greatest acclaim.

Twenty Grand won a total of $295,925, about a quarter of a million of that figure under the handling of Rowe. Thus for two years James Rowe Jr. was the leading money winning trainer on the American turf.

During the last year he campaigned with such successful racers as Anchors Aweigh, Checkerberry, Comstockery, Curacao, Measure, St. Brideaux, Semaphore, and Surf Board. His was the largest string in training in the country. He had 78 horses both here and in the west.

ARKANSAS, TULSA MAY BECOME NEW VALLEY MEMBERS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Post-Dispatch said tonight plans are under way to invite the University of Arkansas and Tulsa university to join the Missouri Valley Football conference.

When the colleges now composing the Big Six seceded from the Missouri Valley conference, four schools—Washington university, Oklahoma Aggies, Drake, and Grinnell—remained, and since then Creighton university has been added. The time has come, Missouri Valley officials believe, the Post-Dispatch said, for a further extension.

Dr. Naismith Breaks Two Ribs in Bathtub Fall

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Dr. James Naismith, inventor of basketball and member of the University of Kansas physical education department, is confined to his bed as a result of two broken ribs sustained today when he slipped and fell in his bath tub. It was said Dr. Naismith was not seriously injured and would be able to resume his work in a week.

100% CHARITY CARD TO RAISE $50,000 FUND

Princess Camelia Is Choice in Filly Race.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The horses will run for charity at Hawthorne this afternoon and at the end of an eight race program officials of the Hawthorne association expect to turn about $50,000 into Gov. Emmerson's fund for the unemployed.

Some 15,000 or 20,000 race goers will help contribute to the fund, for the advance sale of Charity day admission tickets last night indicated that about that many people will see the program.

If the Hawthorne association is able to realize $50,000 from the day's sport, the race tracks in Chicago will have contributed $100,000 to the charity fund. It may go beyond that mark when later donations are made.

Hawthorne's charity affair today is a 100 per cent proposition. All profits, including receipts from programs, which today will be sold at 25 cents, will go into the charity fund. If all the 20,000 tickets are sold considerably more than $50,000 may be raised.

Young Fillies Run Feature.

A race for 2 year old fillies called the Charity Day Purse will be the feature and it engages all the best juveniles of that sex quartered at Hawthorne. Joe Leiter's Princess Camelia, a stake winner earlier in the season, likely will rule as the favorite.

Then there will also be a renewal of the Stockyards Derby engaging a dozen ponies which daily chase the cows and the steers around at the Union stockyards. This race is at three furlongs and the lads from the yards will do the riding. Many wagers were made at the yards yesterday on the outcome of the race.

Another perfect racing day found 11,000 at Hawthorne yesterday and they watched Seguro, the extreme outsider, race to victory in the Drake handicap at a mile and a sixteenth.

He was in under the feather of 102 pounds and took the lead not long after the start to be in front all the way. He wound up by beating Kinosen, the favorite, by three lengths. Old Brown Wisdom ran fairly well in spots and took down third money. There had been a late plunge on Mowris, but Corbett had him far out of it in the early stages.

Lewis Rides Four Winners.

Jockey Melvin Lewis, the 16 year old from Colorado, for the second time since the Hawthorne fall season opened, galloped home on four winners—and not one of them was a favorite in the betting.

He started his string of triumphs with a victory on Stick Around in the second race. In the mutuels Stick Around paid $21.04 for a $2 ticket. In the third race he triumphed on High Proof. This one paid $11.94 in the $2 market. In the fourth race he kicked Very Well from Alderman John Coughlin's stable past the winning post. The return for a $2 investment was $21.68.

In the sixth race Lewis climbed into the saddle on Phantasime, a long shot from Ben Rosenheim's Rose Home stable of Chicago. He brought Phantasime home and the $2 mutuel figures were $33.88.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The Meadows steeplechase, feature here today, was won by John R. Macomber's Red Bridge. A. J. Gadek's Tequila was second and Thomas Hitchcock's Chenango third.

Chenango, with G. H. Bostwick up, was the favorite, and carried top weight, but he ran poorly and jumped unsteadily. The race throughout was a contest between Red Bridge and Tequila, the latter setting the pace most of the way.

Red Bridge paid $4.70, while Tequila, an outsider in the field of five, paid $3.70 to place.

E. J. Booth's Stepping Sister, the favorite, won the third race, for 2 year olds, by a head in 1:41. Triple Threat was second and Beauty Bride third. Tough Girl and Beauty Bride led the field of twelve to the stretch, when Stepping Sister took the lead to win after a hard stretch run. The winner paid $3.80. J. Paradise fell off Thunder Speed and was taken to the track hospital.

Boscobel, favorite in the first race for maiden 2 year old fillies, won by a length from Big America, and ran five and a half furlongs in 1:07 2-5. Donella was third, four lengths back.

TUSKEGEE TEAM DUE HERE TODAY FOR TITLE GAME

The Tuskegee institute football squad of 30 players will arrive this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Englewood station over the Pennsylvania railway. The team worked out yesterday in Atlanta on the Morehouse college athletic field for their third intersectional game with Wilberforce University of Ohio at Mills stadium Saturday afternoon. The Wilberforce team will arrive tomorrow.

A last minute switch was made just prior to the team's departure for Chicago. Capt. Hockett, who has been playing center, was sent to guard and Camp placed at center. King has been replaced by Walker at full back in the starting lineup.

The game will start at 2 o'clock. Just before the kickoff the fans will stand for one minute in silent tribute to the late Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach. Taps will be sounded and the flag lowered. Both Coach Graves of Wilberforce and Coach Abbott of Tuskegee attended Rockne's summer school for coaches.

THOUSANDS OF BLUE GEESE FLY OVER MANITOBA

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Blue geese and lesser snow geese in tens of thousands, have been passing over Manitoba in the Rosser district this week. This is the first time in the history of the province that these species have returned to the south from their breeding grounds in the Aretic islands by way of Manitoba.

One observer reported seeing 12 to 14 mixed flocks of blue geese and lesser snow geese eight miles west of Winnipeg. In this unprecedented migration, he estimated that the number in each flock varied between 500 and 2,000.

The geese were flying high, but due to their call and distinctive flight formation, they were identified.

Only this year have experts discovered the breeding grounds of the blue goose, for years a mystery to science. The location was found on two islands, Baffin and Southampton, situated at the upper extremity of Hudson bay, parallel to the straits.

WARNS MAROONS TO SHOW SPEED; INDIANA WILL

Snap and precision in the execution of plays will be at least one improvement in the performance of the Maroon football team next Saturday, Coach Stagg yesterday sharpened his demand for quicker decisions and more zip in the back field.

Stagg again pitted his first team against a husky freshman group wearing the red of Indiana, while the second squad opposed freshmen in Purdue jerseys. Indiana will probably see 11 Maroons in action Saturday, since Coach Stagg intends to use liberal replacements.

Horwitz, Wien Report.

Capt. Horwitz and Bernie Wien returned to practice yesterday, but Jack Bowring, 200 pound tackle, developed a charley horse which will probably keep him out of the Hoosier encounter. Carl Gabel, recruited from the wrestling team, replaced him on the first squad. In the first back field were Paul Stagg, Temple, Birney, Bunsel, and Wallace. Sahlin, Zimmerman worked with the reserves. Wayne Boyd, candidate for end, has been converted into a guard and may play a part of Saturday's game.

Stagg evidently still has faith in the efficacy of the flanker play and the new method of calling signals, though neither showed to advantage against Yale. The flanker was the principal mode of attack in yesterday's practice.

Watch Fuqua, Says Page.

MORE PASSES AT INDIANA

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—More drill on offense occupied the Indiana football squad this afternoon as it began to conclude preparations for the Chicago game in Chicago Saturday.

Adolph Rabik again appeared in uniform and his appearance was a signal for rehearsal of the Hoosiers' newly developed passing attack. The little sophomore back who, until his injury early in the practice season, was regarded as a great varsity prospect, threw his passes far and accurately.

PURDUE DRILLS ON PASSES

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Purdue's new forward passing combination, with Fred Hecker, sophomore back, tossing the ball, and Paul Moss receiving, kept the freshmen running all over the lot today as the patched-up Boilermaker eleven went through an offensive scrimmage session in preparation for the intersectional game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh Saturday.

With most of his veteran backs still on the ailing list, it was evident that Coach Kiser is planning on Hecker, along with Paul Pardonner, sophomore quarter back, to provide most of the punch for the running attack. The game with Carnegie will find Purdue facing for the third successive Saturday a team that has been pointing for the Boilermakers since the start of the season and with the lineup disrupted by injuries, the feeling is that Purdue will be lucky to win.

CARNEGIE DRILLS IN SECRET

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech's drills looking to the game here Saturday with Purdue have been strictly secret, but word was passed around today that the squad has been shaping up well in rehearsals. As a result Carnegie Tech stock went up several points following a decline earlier in the week. There is now a tendency to rate the Plaid close to an even choice against the Boilermakers.

IOWA SHOWS POWER

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Optimism prevailed at the University of Iowa football camp today as the Hawkeye regulars smothered Minnesota plays and then walked through the yearlings in scrimmage.

Coach Burt Ingwersen gave the varsity the last hard scrimmage before the Gopher game, using, with two exceptions, the lineup which started against Indiana last Saturday.

Only Randahl Hickman and Jerome Erb, half backs, were excused from heavy duty. Kriz, who sustained a bruised back in punting practice yesterday, reported but worked only on signals and passing. In a brief aerial drill Trickey, junior end who played his first intercollegiate game against Indiana, showed ability in receiving.

The Iowa squad will entrain for Minneapolis tomorrow night.

GOPHERS STOP FROSH

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Minnesota's regulars made a good stand against Iowa plays as used in scrimmage by the freshmen this afternoon. The Hawkeyes' running game was good for a few gains through the regulars' line, but the Minnesota trick plays were stopped.

Later the varsity took the offensive. Despite the fact that MacDougall's thumb was encased in a brace, he took the quarter back position and made consistent gains. His long stay with the regulars indicated that he will see more action than usual Saturday, as he insists his fractured finger isn't handicaping him.

Walt and Johnny Haas and Jack Manders also starred on offense, using some new plays on the freshman squad.

Three Leading Soccer Teams to Play Sunday

Three leading teams of the International Soccer league play Sunday at the Norwegian American's grounds, the West Fullerton avenue. The Scottish-Americans, who are leading with four straight wins, will battle the Hakoah, third place holders, in the feature, while the Norwegian-Americans, second position team, meets Humboldt Park in the opening event.

Raise Funds for Band.

Two special trains, with Northwestern rooters aboard, will leave Chicago tomorrow night. This party will include 160 members of the Northwestern band, whose presence with the rooting section was made possible by funds raised by popular subscription among the student body and business men of Evanston.

Coach Hanley's spirits reached a new low yesterday as he contemplated what the future holds for his Wildcats in their important assignment against Ohio State Saturday. The back field has been buffeted about considerably both in games and scrimmages, with the result that all four members of the ball carrying brigade are not as fit as they should be.

Although Ole Olson, the team's star kicker and full back, has reported back to the squad, he still shows the effects of his leg injury and probably will be replaced by Al Moore in Northwestern's starting lineup Saturday. Moore's fine performance against U. C. L. A. Saturday, coupled with his showing against the frosh in Tuesday's scrimmage, makes his presence in the starting lineup almost a certainty.

Seek Reserve Line Men.

Other likely starters in the Purple back field are Rentner and Meenan, half backs, and Potter, quarter back. All members of this trio are nursing bruises of one kind or another, but are expected to be able to start.

Meanwhile the search for reserve line men continues unabated in the Purple quarters. Coach Hanley feels that Saturday's game will be largely decided among the forwards. Ohio's husky line, which averages nearly 200 pounds, will give the Wildcats a severe test. Against Notre Dame, the Purple was forced to carry on with the first string line men rather than risk the presence of the reserves, and this same procedure will probably be resorted to Saturday.

BADGERS LEAVE TODAY

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Dummy scrimmage was the only serious work given the Wisconsin football squad today in preparation for its intersectional game with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday. The freshmen, coached by Director George Little and Del Secrist, who scouted the Quakers, put on Penn plays for half an hour, the varsity showing a good understanding of the attack offered. The reserves were then sent in, following which the third and fourth teams scrimmaged the frosh.

PENN GROOMS DEFENSE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—[Special.] — The Pennsylvania football squad today laid special plans to stop the Wisconsin backs who appear here Saturday. In Goldenberg, Schneller, Rebholz, and McGuire the Badgers have a fast quartet with plenty of replacements, and the Penn coaches stressed the importance of the linemen getting through.

None of the varsity players was allowed to scrimmage. Several are still nursing injuries received in the Lehigh game.

Perina Drills on Kicks.

Full Back Carl Perina was put through a kicking drill with the linemen and ends instructed to charge through, if possible. Working with Perina in the back field were Bud Smith, quarter back; Jerry Ford and Warren Gette, half backs. Ed Lewis, regular right half back, is injured, but may be able to play in the Wisconsin game.

Quarter Back Bill Graupner followed the varsity in its plays, but still limps and is not likely to see much action Saturday. Bill Raffel was used at left end, replacing Len Tanseer.

George Little, director of athletics at Wisconsin, notified Dr. E. Leroy Mercer, Pennsylvania, dean of physical education, that Wisconsin's special train will leave Madison late tomorrow afternoon and has requested the use of Franklin field for practice late Friday.

FORM INDOOR LEAGUE.

The Chicago Indoor Baseball league will be organized tonight at a meeting of team managers at 311 South State street.

OHIO'S BLOND EXPRESS

Bill Carroll, Ohio State half back, is said to be the fastest ball carrier in the Big Ten. Vanderbilt and Michigan couldn't catch him, so they dubbed him the Blond Express. Columbus folks are wondering if the Purple, those expert commuters, can catch the big train.

Bill Carroll Would Teach History; So He Makes Some

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Vanderbilt felt the fury of Ohio State's "Blond Express"—then Michigan and one now begins to wonder about Northwestern. For Ohio's "Blond Express" is William Thomas Carroll, one of the fastest half backs in the Western conference.

It was Carroll who led the Buckeye attack against Vanderbilt in the last half when the Ohioans came back to all but win the game. One week later it was the same Carroll, by his cutback and end running ability that led to two of the three Ohio scores against Michigan.

Practices in Summer.

When Carroll came to Ohio State he was reputed to be the speediest half back in Ohio high school circles. He lived up to his reputation as a freshman and was one of the most valuable men among the yearlings.

But last year, his first year on the varsity, he was troubled with boils on his feet. Other handicaps tended to shake his confidence under fire.

This year, however, Carroll seems to have found himself. During the summer he kept in condition by training two hours daily in the Ohio stadium—after a day's work painting the seats. Records so far show Carroll's vacation training was not in vain.

Carroll, who is 5 feet 10 inches in height, is 21 years old. He weighs 174 pounds. His favorite recreation is reading detective and sports stories. He plans a career as a history teacher following graduation.

Carroll Is Old Fashioned.

Carroll is very old fashioned, championing such puritanical principals as scoring touchdowns to win and courting one bonny young thing at a time. He has been instrumental in most of Ohio's goal line invasions this fall and has been going with the same girl for seven years. Both are considered very remarkable accomplishments in the Big Ten.

Beta Theta Pi claims Carroll as one of its more illustrious members and he is a junior in the college of commerce and journalism. Carroll was a prep teammate of Lou Hinchman, and the two have played together in all lines of athletics since they first met as freshmen in Columbus North High.

Ernie Butcher Returns to De Paul Team

Ernie Butcher, De Paul university veteran half back who has been on the sidelines for the last two weeks with an injury, returned to the squad yesterday. Butcher got away for long runs, indicating he had returned to the form which stamped him as one of the hardest running backs in Blue Demon history.

It is probable that Butcher will start with his old running mate, Mat Steffen, when the Demons face Hastings college Saturday afternoon at Soldiers' field in the benefit game for St. Vincent's orphanage. Steffen has recovered from injuries and figures to be even more spectacular than he has been in De Paul's three victories.

Jim Condon continued to show promise at full back, while Joe Dea's passing and running netted repeated yardage in scrimmage. Ed Casselles shows improvement at half back.

Babe Roche, crippled since the first game at Detroit, began to appear like his old self at end. Heine Coan, the other veteran end, was back in uniform.

Eddie Lyons and Hal Cherne, star linemen, are still on the ailing list and may be out of Saturday's contest.

Layton Wins 2d Game, Loses 3d in Cue Tourney

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., won his second straight match in the southern qualifying billiard tournament today when he defeated James Thompson of Tampa, Fla., 100 to 84, in 27 innings. In another match, Thompson scored his first victory, defeating Walter Franklin, Kansas City, 100 to 92, in 19 innings.

Benny Allen of Kansas City defeated Layton in a match tonight, 100 to 58, in 17 innings. Allen and Layton have won two matches and lost one each, while Franklin and Thompson have lost two and won one.

FREDDIE SPENCER SIGNS TO PEDAL IN STADIUM RACE

Freddie Spencer, considered the world's fastest indoor bicycle rider, has signed to ride in Chicago's twenty-sixth international six day bicycle race at the Stadium Nov. 8 to 14.

Spencer's sensational riding has always made him a popular favorite. He is training on the roads around his home in Plainfield, N. J., and in a Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

OREGON ELEVEN STARTS EAST FOR PAIR OF GAMES

Eugene, Ore., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Bound eastward for two intersectional games on successive Saturdays, the University of Oregon football squad entrained today for Grand Forks, N. D., where it will meet the University of North Dakota eleven Saturday. From Grand Forks it will go to New York for a game with New York university Oct. 31.

Four players will carry Mount Carmel's hopes against De La Salle in their charity game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. The boys, who already have led Mount Carmel to victories over Leo and St. Ignatius are Bud Gonya, McKernan, Burns and Durkin.

Durkin, who plays left end, in addition to being able to kick for extra points, started Mount Carmel's attack against Leo last Sunday afternoon when he took a pass from Bud Gonya and raced 30 yards for a touchdown.

An hour after dark last night, De La Salle's squad was still practising. Coach Norman Barry was telling his players about their poor showing against Joliet and St. Ignatius, although they won the games. "They're the weak teams of the south section of the Catholic league," Coach Barry said.

Charles [Feed] Murphy, star center of Loyola university's basketball squad two years ago, has been appointed basketball coach at Leo High school, it was announced yesterday. Leo also announced that Bud Murnighan, left half back on the football team, will be out for several weeks. He suffered a fractured arm last Sunday.

In the north section of the Catholic league St. Philip, which leads the section with two victories, will seek its third league victory of the season against St. Patrick tomorrow night at Mills stadium. And St. Philip is confident of its third triumph, for St. Patrick has dropped three consecutive league games.

Coach Bob Dougherty, whose Harrison Tech squad will face McKinley tomorrow in its second league game of the season, is still looking for an out of town game on Thanksgiving day. "Any team outside of the city limits," says Coach Dougherty.

Oak Park will invade Winnetka Saturday to meet New Trier in its third Suburban league contest. The leadership of the league will be at stake, each squad having scored two victories. Other league games Saturday will pit Morton against Deerfield, and Proviso will visit Evanston.

Glenbard, West Suburban conference title favorite, drew a bye in this week's schedule. Saturday's games will see York against Downers Grove, Riverside at Hinsdale, and Maine at West Chicago.

Capt. Stanley Mondala will be missing from Crane Tech's lineup when it meets Marshall at Mills stadium Saturday. He is out with a leg injury and will be unable to play for three weeks.

An injured ankle will keep Bill Haarlow from Bowen's basketball practice for three weeks. "He'll be all right by the time the season opens," said Coach Applegran.

DULUTH HOCKEY TEAM IS SOLD TO BUSINESS MEN

The Duluth club of the American Hockey league has been sold by W. Gordon Hegardt to a group of Duluth business men, Thomas J. Shaughnessy, vice president of the league, was advised yesterday.

John Mitchell, veteran Hornet center, has purchased an interest in the club and will assume the management. Six cities represented in the American league last year will again form the circuit. They are Kansas City, St. Louis, Buffalo, Chicago, Duluth, and Tulsa.

Texas Squad Works Out in Dallas for Harvard Game

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 21.—(AP)—En route to Cambridge, where it meets Harvard university Saturday, the University of Texas squad took a two hour workout here today. Coach Clyde Littlefield expects to give his squad a light workout in Indianapolis Friday.

Star Centers to Wage Duel in Bear Game

Bert Pearson, who played a brilliant game against the Cardinals last Sunday, will have a worthy opponent at center next Sunday when he meets Nate Barrager, the 220 pound center of the Philadelphia Yellowjackets, at Wrigley field. Barrager was a star at the University of Southern California in 1929.

Garde Grange also will have his work cut out for him, as he will be called upon to take care of Bull Behman, the 245 pound Philadelphia tackle. Garde, who will play at right end, weighs only 178 pounds.

It will be Ladies' day, the first in the history of the National Football league, and indications are that the fair sex will be out in large numbers.

A preliminary game between the Charles V. Barrett eleven and Marquette Arrows will start at 12:30 p. m. Between halves of the Bears-Yellowjackets battle the Teddy Bears and Ramblers, teams of boys averaging about 12 years of age, will play a return engagement.

These younsters met two weeks ago and the Ramblers won, 6 to 0, when Whataman Rogers raced over for a touchdown. Jack Burns will lead the Teddy Bears.

George Pins Dr. Meyers with Spin, Body Slam

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—In a wrestling match which was interrupted by a minute's silence at 10 o'clock in honor of Thomas A. Edison, Ed [Don] George, heavyweight grappler from North Java, N. Y., threw Dr. Fred Meyers of Chicago at St. Nicholas arena tonight. George used an airplane spin and body slam to end the match in 37 minutes 31 seconds.

Malkov and Fisher Added to Mat Card

A match for the world's light heavyweight championship has been added to the wrestling program sponsored by the benefit division of Gov. Emmerson's joint emergency relief commission at the Chicago Stadium Monday night, Nov. 2.

Fisher and Malkov both can make either the middleweight limit, 160 pounds, or build up to the light heavyweight class, 175 pounds. They are expected to enter the ring at about 170 pounds. Malkov has been working out with Lewis at Howard's gymnasium.

Zbyszko is due Saturday from California to finish his training for the Lewis bout, the winner of which will be recognized by the Illinois athletic commission as world's champion.

DR. SCHNITZLER, AUSTRIAN POET, DRAMATIST, DIES

Stricken in Study as He Plans New Play.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Arthur Schnitzler, one of Austria's most prominent literary men, died suddenly today of apoplexy. The playwright, poet, and author of numerous stories, who was 69 years old, had not been ailing and was about to dictate a new drama to his secretary when he was stricken.

ARTHUR SCHNITZLER.

He attended the theater last night and went for his customary walk this morning. When his secretary arrived at his study shortly before noon she found the dramatist seated at his writing table, bent forward and unconscious. Doctors were summoned, but he never regained consciousness and died a few hours later.

In Dr. Schnitzler modern Austrian literature lost one of its greatest representatives. He was intended by his father for a medical career, but after seven years of intense medical work as an assistant to his father, a prominent Vienna throat specialist, Arthur Schnitzler discovered that he belonged to literature.

"Anatol" His First Book.

He mingled with some of Vienna's most eminent authors and dramatists who made his father's drawing room their meeting place. At the age of 28 he published a book of verse, followed by a volume of short stories.

His first book, "Anatol," published by himself in 1893, later dramatized as "The Affairs of Anatol," was one of his best known. John Barrymore first played the rôle of Anatol in New York in 1912 and subsequently the play was made into a movie with Wallace Reid as the principal character.

Wrote Dramatic Works.

His chief dramatic works include a series of one act plays under the title of "Anatol," "Liebelei," "The Green Cockatoo," "The Veiled Beatrice," "Professor Bernhardi," and "Reigen." One of the most prominent exponents of Schnitzler's works was Alexander Moissi, who has appeared in the United States and who played in "The Green Cockatoo."

Of Schnitzler's literary works the public favored especially "Lieutenant Gustl," which was translated into English under the title "None But the Brave," "Der Weg ins Freie," and "Daemmerseelen."

Won Tilt with Censors.

On several occasions Schnitzler was denounced for alleged immorality in his writings or for anti-patriotism. His "Casanova's Homecoming" won in a tilt with the censors in New York not long ago.

Dr. Schnitzler leaves a son, who is a stage manager and actor in Berlin. His only daughter, who was married to an Italian officer, committed suicide last year.

WOMAN MISSING AFTER HER HOME IS BURNED DOWN

Search Ruins in Vain for Spinster.

Canton, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Officers have been unable to find a trace of Miss Mary Dvorak, 47 years old, whose home in Liverpool was mysteriously destroyed by fire yesterday. Knowing of no reason why she should disappear, officers searched the ruins on the theory that she may have been burned to death, but without result.

Miss Dvorak, a sister and their father, Joseph Dvorak, came here some years ago from Chicago where it is said the father had been a saloonkeeper prior to 1917. Members of the family were secretive about their previous life and had little association with other residents of the town. The father died last year.

The sister, Barbara, died under mysterious circumstances in 1925 when a houseboat burned after an explosion. Several days later her charred body was found in the Illinois river. The mystery of her death was never solved. One theory advanced at the time was that she had been locked in the houseboat.

Officers turned to Chicago today, seeking a Charles Elgut for questioning. Elgut is reported to have been negotiating for the purchase of the Dvorak home. It was reported here also that Miss Dvorak and Elgut had planned to marry, but this was denied by acquaintances of Miss Dvorak.

An uncle of the missing woman, Thomas Dvorak, is said to live in Chicago.

BUSINESS KEPT GOING BY "ADS," PUBLISHERS TOLD

Advertising is keeping business on a profit making basis in the lean times of the depression, James O'Shaughnessy of New York told members of the Inland Daily Press association at the annual autumn meeting of the organization which closed yesterday in the Morrison hotel. "When business activity comes back into its own," he said, "the advertisers will be thankful that newspapers were not stampeded into a serious loss of advertising power and value." R. D. Sanche of the Wausau, Wis., Daily Record Herald told the publishers that there is a definite relationship between the volume of newspaper advertising and consumer consumption.

LONG SICKNESS CLAIMS LIFE OF MRS. ALMA EITEL

Mrs. Alma Kranz Eitel, wife of Otto Eitel, died last night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Felix J. Notz, 521 Stratford place, after an illness of several years.

She was 50 years old, a native of Chicago, and the daughter of the late John Kranz, real estate operator and candy merchant. Her husband is a brother of the owners of the Bismarck hotel, but is not connected with the hotel. Mrs. Eitel lived at the Blackstone hotel while in Chicago, and at her summer home in Stuttgart, Germany, at other times.

Surviving Mrs. Eitel are her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Notz and Miss Florence M. Kranz of Chicago, and Mrs. Benger Heinrich of Stuttgart. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Notz residence. Burial will be in Graceland.

LINGLE ESTATE INVENTORY LISTS $7,179 IN ASSETS

An inventory of the estate of Alfred Lingle, who was murdered in the Illinois Central subway at Randolph street on June 9, 1930, was filed and approved yesterday before Nunelo J. Bonnelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Leo V. Brothers was found guilty of the killing and his appeal is now before the Illinois Supreme court. He was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment.

The inventory sets Lingle's assets at $7,179. A savings account in the Lake Shore bank amounted to $2,000 and a trading account in the brokerage office of Stein, Alstrin & Co. credited him with $3,779. The sum of $1,400 was found in his clothes on the day of the killing. The inventory was presented by Mrs. Helen Sullivan Lingle, the widow, through her attorney, Cornelius J. Harrington.

Purity Bakeries Reports Profit; Votes Dividend

Purities Bakeries corporation reports earnings for the forty weeks ended Oct. 3, of $1,364,695.70, after all charges. This net income is $1.70 per share on 805,044 shares of common stock now outstanding. This compares with $3,299,404.82 earned in the first forty weeks of 1930, which was $4.10 per share on 805,060 shares of common stock then outstanding. For the twelve weeks ending Oct. 3, 1931, earnings were $173,721.27 after all charges, equivalent to 22c per share, comparing with $884,114.97, or $1.10 per share earned in the corresponding twelve weeks of 1930. Directors today declared a dividend of 50c per share on the common stock payable Dec. 1, 1931, to stockholders of record on Nov. 13, 1931.

Actor Dies on Stage; Misled Crowd Applauds

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—David Baratz, an actor 35 of his 55 years, collapsed and died on the stage of a Second avenue theater tonight amid the applause of an audience that thought he still was acting a part. Other performers saw that something had gone wrong and signaled for the curtain. Bellevue hospital physicians said he had died of heart disease. Baratz left a widow and three sons, one of them an actor playing at the Lawndale theater in Chicago.

SIEBEL ACQUIRES EQUITY IN GOLD COAST BUILDING

Has Plan to Refinance 18 East Elm.

Records in the Cook county recorder's office yesterday disclosed the transfer of the ten story apartment hotel property at 18 East Elm street by Bernard T. Hecht, described as receiver of the estate of the 18 East Elm Street Building corporation, to Emil A. Siebel of the Siebel Laboratories for a stated $1,000. The building, completed about six years ago and standing on a lot 105x103 feet, contains 132 apartments. It is being operated under the receivership of the Chicago Title and Trust company.

Benjamin S. Mesirow, attorney for Mr. Siebel, states that his client acquired the equity in the property through a proceeding to dissolve the corporation under a decree in the Circuit court. He estimates this equity as being worth considerably more than $100,000. The sale was made subject to obligations consisting of a bond issue of approximately $900,000, which was underwritten by Leight & Co.

Have Refinancing Plan.

"We plan to make a proposal to the bondholders' protective committee for refinancing," Mr. Mesirow stated. "Under our plan a new bond issue would be written on the property which would be commensurate with its present earning capacity. The difference between the original bond issue and the new one would be made up through the issue of preferred stock.

"The preferred stock would have a prior claim on earnings of the property in excess of bond interest requirements and in the event of a pick up in the real estate market should be of real value to the bondholders."

Sheridan Road Lease.

A ten year lease on the Lakeland apartment hotel at 4539-43 Sheridan road, just south of Wilson avenue, was filed for record yesterday. Isabel Everling is the lessor and A. S. MacFarlane is lessee. The lease, dated Aug. 5, 1931, provides for a term rental of $180,000. The Lakeland is an eight story building containing 107 apartments and two stores on the ground floor.

The Midway Park apartments at 440-48 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, have been sold by the Union Bank of Chicago, trustee, to Ralph E. Clarke for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $121,000. The ground is 125x171 feet, and the building contains thirty-one apartments. L. C. Traeger was attorney for the purchaser.

ACID SPRAYED IN TAILOR SHOP BY TERRORISTS

Three armed vandals menaced the owner and two employés of the K. & M. Tailoring company at 2310 Armitage avenue last night, and while their captives look on, sprayed acid over suits and bolts of cloth, causing $500 damage.

The gunmen first met H. L. Kinsler, the owner, and a moment later came upon his clerks, Gus Speziek, 5713 Ainslie street, and Morris Kinsler, 840 Eastwood avenue. Two of the invaders guarded the prisoners while the third poured acid over the stock. No robbery attempt was made. H. L. Kinsler refused to tell police whether he had any union troubles.

RESERVE SYSTEM HAS MORE GOLD THAN IT NEEDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The federal reserve system still has more gold than it needs, despite recent huge exportations.

Under the law, federal reserve notes must be guaranteed by 40 per cent gold and 60 per cent eligible paper. Until the gold started leaving the country, they had 70 per cent gold and 30 per cent paper.

At the same time, they had considerable "free gold"—not obligated to guarantee reserve notes—on deposit to meet the demands for gold exports, the reserve board said today in its monthly business review, the banks substituted eligible paper for gold collateral on notes.

As a result, the stock of "free gold" which might be needed to meet further demands, is about the same.

The gold statement of the New York federal reserve bank showed an increase in gold earmarked for foreign account of $7,900,000. Exports amounted to $1,165,000.

Raise Bank Rates.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that the federal reserve bank of Philadelphia had increased its rediscount rate ½ of 1 per cent, to 2½ per cent, and the St. Louis bank had increased its rate 1 per cent, to 2½ per cent. Only the banks of Atlanta, which has a rate of 3 per cent, Minneapolis, with a rate of 3½ per cent, and Kansas City, with a rate of 3 per cent, have not announced increases.

Economo, Vienna Sleeping Sickness Expert, Is Dead

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Prof. Constantine Economo, Vienna neurologist and Austria's pioneer aviator, died today of a heart attack at the age of 45. He was well known in America for his lecture tours in connection with research in sleeping sickness and his cranium charts. He was honorary president of the Austrian Aeronautical club.

TRADE LEADERS WEIGH EFFECT OF RATE RULING

Seen by Some Better Than Nothing.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Bankers and business leaders were occupied yesterday in digesting the decision of the interstate commerce commission to permit limited increases in freight rates on various commodities. While the decision was disappointing, it was accepted largely on the theory that half a loaf is better than no bread.

There were opinions that the proposed increase in rates may prove an immediate stimulus to trade to a slight degree by encouraging purchases of materials to replenish depleted supplies before higher rates can be put into effect. And there was comment that the railroads may well benefit considerably more than the estimated $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 a year when business turns upward and traffic expands.

Penalty on Strong Roads.

On the other hand, doubts were freely expressed whether the railroads will accept the commerce commission's proposal that revenues derived from the increased rates shall be pooled. It was pointed out that this constitutes a penalty against the strong roads and so smacks of socialistic doctrine. Another question raised was whether the limited rate increase will result in a movement by the carriers to reduce wages.

The theory that the rate increase will stimulate business speedily is mentioned in one of the midweek steel trade reviews.

"A slight stimulating influence on the steel industry" is the prediction of the Iron Age, and it suggests that this may spread to other lines. The proposed increases are 2 cents per 100 pounds on steel, $6 a car on pig iron and scrap, $5 on iron ore, coal and coke, and $10 on machinery and other metal products.

"Whether these advances are sufficient to influence buyers generally to abandon their extreme caution and buy in some stocks before the new rates take effect," the journal says, "or whether the railroads themselves will become more liberal in their steel and equipment orders are questions that cannot be answered at this early date. But it is expected that some business stimulation will result. New tariffs must be filed by Dec. 1."

News Is Conflicting.

News of steel mill operations in the last week is conflicting. Steel ingot production is estimated around 28 per cent of capacity, compared with 29 per cent a week ago. Part of the recession is attributed to completion of pipe line orders and smaller tin plate output. On the other hand, purchases by automobile makers are expanding gradually.

"There are scattered indications of a slight broadening in demands for steel," Iron Age concludes, "coupled with reports of visible improvement in the business of some metal working manufacturers. But the aggregate of these new requirements is not sufficient to offset the small demands from lines that normally account for the heaviest consumption of steel."

Discusses Refusal of 15% Rate Boost to Railroads

BY SCRUTATOR.

In refusing to grant the fifteen per cent horizontal increase in railroad freight rates the interstate commerce commission has pointed out three dangers inherent in such a means of attempting to boost the carriers' revenues.

A general precentage rate raise, says the commission, would stimulate competitive forces already rapidly developing, impair the public's friendly feeling toward the railroads, and speed up the tendency toward localization of production.

It offers a substitute plan which it believes will accomplish the chief aim of the railroads without dragging in by the heels a lot of new difficulties to add to the carriers' dilemma.

See $100,000,000 Return.

The commission proposes flat per car or per hundred-weight increases on certain commodities selected because of their supposed ability to bear higher charges. These increases, according to estimates, will mean about a 3 to 3¼ per cent boost in the nation's railroad freight bill and will yield from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 additional annual revenue.

The extra revenue is to be segregated and earmarked for a fund to be used to bolster up the credit of the roads whose earnings have dropped to a point where they do not cover interest requirements by a satisfactory margin.

"Now you can have the increases we propose if you will consent to pool them," is the gist of the commission's message to the railroads.

The proposition is simple and straightforward, but a little study will reveal that the railroads have a Hobson's choice.

The commission packs a big stick. Under the Supreme court decision in the New England division case it has the power, in the event that the railroads refuse to consent to the proposed pooling plan, to go into the matter of rate divisions, awarding larger slices of a given rate to the weaker road participating in the haul and smaller slices to the richer road, thus equalizing revenues in another way.

Would Protect Credit.

The railroads approached the commission as a unit in asking for relief. The commission seems disposed to regard them as a unit, but goes a step further. Instead of granting higher rates to rich roads and poor roads alike it proposes to permit all of them combined to realize just about the amount estimated to be necessary to protect the credit of the weaker lines.

Granting the carriers' request for a 15 per cent increase on all shipments would have meant an estimated $502,000,000 additional annual freight bill for the nation, assuming that the higher rates would not have resulted in losses of tonnage through diversion to other carriers.

The pooling plan suggested by the commission is the scheme proposed at the recent hearings by Attorney Luther M. Walter of Chicago, counsel for the National Industrial Traffic league.

It was presented by Mr. Walter although it was never fully accepted by the league, many of whose members had other fish to fry and were quite frigid toward the plan.

Large companies, for instance, which owned railroads used to haul their own products were not particularly averse to the idea of a straight 15 per cent increase all around. Additional money to be paid for transportation would come back to them through increased revenues of their railroad subsidiaries.

Paying extra to their own railroads and then having that extra money transferred to some other line in need of revenue, however, is a horse of another color.

Only Emergency Relief.

The pooling plan affords a way out in the present emergency. Battalions not needed especially on well protected fronts would be rushed elsewhere to strengthen weak points. Railroad credit would be improved and pressure in the securities markets lightened.

But as a long term proposition such a scheme would lack attraction. Eventually, the problem of surplus transportation will have to be solved by regional consolidation and substitution of cheaper forms of transportation for nonpaying railroad lines so that the rate charged may have a more direct relation to the cost of the service rendered and the public may be spared the expense of maintaining parallel lines which offer duplicate rather than competitive service.

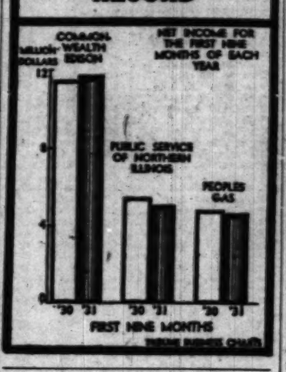
INSULL COMPANY EARNINGS FOR NINE MONTHS NEAR 1930 RECORD



WRIGLEY EARNS $1.51 PER SHARE IN 3D QUARTER

William Wrigley Jr. company yesterday reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30 consolidated net profit of $3,034,609 after all charges, including federal taxes, equal to $1.51 a share on 2,000,000 shares of no par stocks. This compares with $3,057,222, or $1.52 a share, in the preceding three months.

In the corresponding period of 1930 the company reported earnings on a nonconsolidated basis. For the quarter ended Sept. 30 the net income was $3,395,163, or $1.70 a share, while for the nine months the total was $9,053,045, or $4.52 a share. These figures include a nonrecurring income of $734,158 from the sale of real estate.

For the first nine months of 1931 consolidated net profit was $8,457,791, equal to $4.22 a share on 2,000,000 no par shares. Net profit of the parent company only in the like period a year ago, including above nonrecurring profit, was $9,053,046, or $4.52 a share.

Agree on Combination of East-West Shipping Lines

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A Gigantic merchant marine combine of Pacific and Atlantic coast shipping companies was announced tonight by R. Stanley Dollar, vice president of the Dollar Steamship lines. The announcement followed recent conferences here between the interests represented.

Dollar eliminated all speculation concerning the shipping conferences when he announced five major essentials of the program agreed upon by the eastern and western shipping magnates. The five points were:

1. Acquisition by the Dollar-Chapman-Dawson group, backed by the interests of Herbert Fleishhacker, Pacific coast financier, of half ownership in the Roosevelt Steamship company, which is interlocked with the International Merchant Marine.

2. Taking over by the United States Lines company, a Nevada Holding corporation, of the United States Lines fleet.

3. The United States Lines company to be owned jointly by the Dollar-Chapman-Dawson group of the Pacific coast and the Roosevelt Steamship company of the Atlantic coast.

4. Intercoastal service of the Dollar Steamship lines and the Panama-Pacific lines to be continued, with nonconflicting schedules to be worked out to avert overlapping.

5. The fleet of the United States lines to be kept in Atlantic waters.

Expects Board Announcement.

Ratification of the program by eastern interests has been delayed because of the absence of P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Merchant Marine, in Europe, Dollar said.

Dollar asserted he was informed by long distance telephone from New York today that the shipping board has virtually consented to further extension of the time within which signatures to the contract for taking over the United States lines may be affixed. He expected the shipping board to make an announcement tomorrow.

The conferences which brought about the combine were between Dollar, Kenneth R. Dawson, Portland, Ore., shipping magnate; Paul M. Chapman, head of the United States lines; and Herbert Fleishhacker, representing the Pacific coast group; and Kermit Roosevelt, head of the company bearing his name, and John M. Franklin, son of the president of the International Merchant Marine.

Refuses to Withdraw.

Dollar confirmed earlier reports of a general agreement reached calling for effective cooperation between Pacific and Atlantic shippers for general protection and strengthening of the American merchant marine throughout the world.

Dollar also stated the eastern group's demand for withdrawal of the Dollar intercoastal service in favor of the Panama-Pacific service more than once threatened to break up the conference. He said it would have been impossible for the Dollar company to withdraw its eastbound service, which shippers are generously supporting.

The trouble was it was only half a leak. Somebody got hold of a page of the interstate commerce commission's decision on the railway rate increase petition yesterday afternoon, it seems, and flashed the news to the one spot where it would be most appreciated. The "excerpt" made it

Utilities Lag Behind in Recovery.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The interpretations of the interstate commerce commission's rate decision caused confusion as trading opened yesterday on the Chicago exchange. Later, as some of the leading industrials on the New York market began to climb, the sentiment here changed. Early losses were recovered by the majority of active shares and many issues closed the day with net gains.

The utility stocks were generally behind the rest of the list in the recovery. Minor net losses predominated in this group of stocks despite the fact that utility issues on the New York market were in the van of the upward movement.

Proves Exception.

North American Light and Power was a conspicuous exception. This stock, which was depressed severely during the market decline in September, was bid up over four points yesterday on transactions of a few hundred shares. The sharp rise was attributed to technical market conditions rather than outside factors.

Automotive shares were buoyant. Pines Winterfront was outstanding in this group. Strength in the issue was apparently based on the anticipated seasonal increase in the concern's business.

Show Increase.

Earnings of Cities Service for September show a slight increase over the preceding month. The net to stocks and reserves before preferred dividends was $1,328,707, against $1,264,739 for August and $3,661,772 for September of last year. This is the third successive month in which the earnings have been a shade on the upgrade.

Developments of the company during the last month included the completion of the 208 mile pipe line extending from the east Texas oil fields to Port Arthur, Tex. This line furnishes an outlet for production from this area to eastern seaboard refineries.

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday approved the application of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for permission to issue an additional 79,000 shares of capital stock of a par value of $7,900,000.

Will Be Given Rights.

Shareholders of record Dec. 15 will be given rights to subscribe to 69,000 shares of the new stock at $100 a share in the ratio of one share for each ten owned. Holders are given the privilege of paying for the new stock in quarterly installments up to Jan. 15, 1932, or in ten monthly payments. The remaining 10,000 shares are reserved for sale to employés.

The estimated electrical output of the Middle West Utilities company for September is 6.3 per cent above the actual production in the comparable month of 1930. This gain is the same as shown in August over 1930. Last month was the first time this year that the rate of increase has not shown a monthly gain.

Employment 97% of 1929

THE electric utilities have been successful in maintaining wages and employment. 285,000 employees are on the payroll drawing $440,000,000 in wages—97.6% of wages paid in 1929.

Employment in the manufactured gas industry has varied little from 91,000 during the last four years according to the American Gas Association.

This employment record of the electric and gas utilities reflects the stability of the industry—a major consideration in selecting investments.

MAY WHEAT AT NEW HIGH ON BOARD OF TRADE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

May wheat sold at a new high on the current movement yesterday, touching 57¼c after selling at 56¼c early when the market eased in sympathy with stocks.

Aggressive buying by houses with eastern connections combined with an absorption of profit taking sales credited to cash interests was largely responsible for the upturn from the inside figures, with the bulge checked by renewed profit taking and by selling against offers.

Closing trades were ¼@⅝c higher, December finishing at 52⅞@53c, May 57¼@57⅝c, and July 55⅛@55¾c.

Taken as a whole the wheat market was regarded as having given an excellent account of itself, and even some operators who have been bullish for some time expressed surprise over the sharp upturn. There has been heavy profit taking for three days and yet the close yesterday was within a fraction of the highest prices on the present advance. The May, however, was the only feature to get into new ground during the day. Rains in the southwest led to some pressure on the July early.

Cash Wheat Stronger.

Strength in the cash position, both here and abroad, had a tendency to encourage operations on the bull side of wheat. A much more friendly feeling was apparent in the cables from abroad, and Liverpool closed equal to ⅛@⅜c per bu higher with the December at 57⅜c figured on sterling at $3.95. Although prices have been on the upgrade for about a month there has been comparatively little pressure from Russia during that period and the charterings for shipments from the Black sea have fallen off materially.

Owing to the big demand which has developed at the gulf to take wheat to Brazil and cotton to Europe there is a scarcity of boats, but no increase in the rates has been reported so far.

Europe reentered the market for North American wheat yesterday and took 1,000,000 bu or more, about half of which was hard winter. Winnipeg reported exporters, New York interests, and mills aggressive buyers of futures, with the May there touching 63½c, equaling the best price of the season. Final trades were ½@⅝c higher with December at 59c. Canadian funds were reported at 10½ per cent discount. Buenos Aires closed ⅜@½c lower with December at 44¾c.

Considerable reinstating of recently sold out lines of wheat was said to have been under way yesterday.

Light Trade in Corn.

Outside and local interest in corn was limited, and the market was influenced to a large extent by the action of wheat, closing ⅛@⅜c higher with December 37@37⅛, May 41¾c, and July 43⅛c. Bids on new corn to arrive were advanced 1c with 6@7¢ under December offered for No. 4 grades, shipment by Dec. 15. Country offerings remain light.

According to scattered reports received from Illinois and Iowa points husking returns on corn are disappointing with the yield running well below expectations in many sections. There were 14 cars of new corn received here yesterday, the greater part of which graded No. 4 or better.

Germany was inquiring for rye at the seaboard, according to reports to the trade yesterday, the first intimation that country would probably be required to import so far. However, spreading operations between here and Winnipeg resulted in the market showing an easier undertone and the finish was ⅛@⅜c lower, December closing at 40⅝c and May 44⅝c.

Oats held within a range of around ⅛c with commission houses and cash interests fair buyers, and the close was unchanged to ⅛c higher with December at 23⅜c and May 25⅝c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quieter today and as no sales were reported, prices were unchanged at 3.38c for spots, duty paid.

Price changes in futures were irregular, with the near months closing 1 point lower and the later deliveries from 1 to 2 points net higher. Approximate sales were 30,300 tons. Prices follow:

Refined was unchanged at 4.60c for fine granulated.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Yesterday's advance was followed by moderate reactions in coffee futures here today under realizing and a little local selling. No. 7 contracts closed 3@7 points lower. Sales, 3,000 bags. Santos contracts opened 1@5 lower and closed 3@5 points net lower. Sales, 8,000. Closing quotations: Santos contracts—October, 7.35c; December, 7.45c; March, 7.60c; May, 7.82c; July, 7.90c; September, 8.00c. No. 7 prices follow:

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed irregular today, 10 points advance to 10 points decline on sales of 32 contracts, equivalent to 4,800 brls, all in March and May, which options were 5 to 7 points higher. Crude oil was quoted at 3¾@4c in the southeast, with sales at 3¼c in the valley and 3¾c bid in Texas. Bleachable spot closed at 4.75c; Oct., 4.96c; Dec., 4.90c; January, 5.00c; March, 5.06c; May, 5.14c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract with closing prices as follows: Spot, 4.75c; Oct., 4.75c; Jan., 4.90c; May, 5.00c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued in steady demand in the gray goods division today. Some improvement was reported in the call for finished goods. Burlaps showed little change for the day. Rayon continued to sell less freely in goods and yarns, complaints being more frequent of the breakdown in finished goods values. In the wool goods division moderate calls were made for coatings and dress goods. Men's wear remained quiet. Silk production was falling off.

LUMBER BUSINESS GAIN.

The lumber business is showing improvement in British Columbia. During July and August, compared with the same months last year, British Columbia lumber exports to Australia rose from 20 per cent of the total from North America to more than 70 per cent. The trade believes this improvement will continue.

OCTOBER LARD HIGHER

Good buying of October lard yesterday by local and eastern shorts was largely satisfied by sales attributed to a large western packer. There were deliveries of 500,000 lbs of cash lard on October sales, early, but it had no effect, and the market closed 10c higher, as compared with gains of 15 @17c on more distant deliveries. Houses with foreign connections were the best sellers of deferred futures. A widening of the difference between old and new crop lard is becoming more of a feature. Liverpool lard was 6d higher. There were no export clearances of lard. Of bacon the aggregate was 646,800 lbs. Cash trade in lard and meats was good. Hog prices were lower, with receipts larger than a week ago but smaller than last year. Prices follow:

JAPAN'S RICE CROP

"Substantial reductions in the rice crops of the largest oriental countries have an important bearing on the sizeable quantities of wheat the orient has taken from time to time, and for which they continue to make inquiries," says Lamson Bros. & Co. in a review of the situation.

Production of rice in Japan this year is placed at approximately 18,000,000,000 lbs, compared with 21,000,000,000 lbs a year ago, a decrease of 12.6 per cent. "Because of serious flood damage, China's rice crop this year in important producing sections indicates a 20 to 35 per cent reduction from last year. The rice crop in British India, an important exporter of rice, is considerably less than a year ago. Several other countries, importing as much or more rice than Japan, also will be important competitors with Japan and China for the reduced crop of the orient."

WORLD'S-GRAIN MARKET-NEWS

Wheat traders say there is a natural action for a bull market and that prices are to work irregularly higher. Good setbacks on profit taking movements are to be expected after every sharp bulge, which will be met with scale buying by strong interests. Wheat at present prices is considered worth the money and many large speculators are accumulating liberal holdings on all weak spots. The market has withstood heavy profit taking in the last two days and it was said at the close that the late rally was due to reinstating of lines, while the pit element which bought on the early break, took profits. Advances of late have been helped by strength in the cash wheat market. Higher prices for cash wheat have brought out moderately increased offerings from the country and export buying has improved, which has been supplied in part by the federal farm board, which is gradually reducing its holdings.

Activity and higher prices for wheat is drawing traders from the corn pit and the latter market shows little disposition to move much in either direction. The difference between wheat and corn has widened and although corn prices are low, they fail to attract outside buying support. The crop is being husked and cribbed, particularly in the southwest and in the middle west farmers are beginning to market new corn, which is bought largely by elevator interests, the movement as yet being too small for industrial consumers and they await largely increased marketing before changing to the new crop.

The strength in December wheat in Winnipeg attracted attention, which advanced to 6⅛c over Chicago. Their October sold above 60c, the highest on the movement and a full cent premium over December, indicating an improved demand for the cash wheat.

"There is a steady demand for spring wheat at Duluth, which is expected to continue, at least until the close of navigation," says J. E. Bennett & Co.'s Minneapolis office. "After this time some easing off in these extra premiums may be expected."

"While wheat prices have advanced 5⅛@9⅛c from the lows, there has been no Russian wheat selling to Europe on the upturn," says Russel's News. "Leading exporters see in this fact an important development."

NEWS OF THE CROPS

"Wheat seeding in southwest Kansas lags, with much of the acreage still to be planted or replenished," says the Kansas weekly crop report. "Wire worm injury has caused poor stands and this with dry soil has made reseeding necessary. In the eastern two-thirds of the state moisture conditions were better, most of the crop has been planted and stands are good. In the main belt of south central Kansas the crop is fair to good.

"Corn husking proceeded uninterruptedly throughout most of the main corn belt, according to the government weekly weather crop report. Cribbing is under way in southern Kansas and will be active elsewhere in that state in ten days. Iowa's fields were died rapidly by sunshine the last of the week and husking is general and finished in drier northwestern sections. Early winter wheat is growing well in practically all of the main belt with germination of late good. Oklahoma now has ample soil moisture.

AVAILABLE WHEAT STOCKS

World's available supply of wheat, as compiled by the Daily Trade Bulletin, increased only 105,000 bu. in September, compared with 37,293,000 bu in August and with 74,818,000 bu last year. A decrease in the United States and afloat practically offset increases in Canada and in the United Kingdom. Total stocks fell below those of the corresponding period of the previous year from the first time in some years. Details follow, last three ciphers omitted:

Chicago Furniture Firm Buys Fifteen Carloads

Grand Rapids, Mich., reports that one of the most important deals involving fine furniture to be completed there in recent years took place with the sale by the Robert W. Irwin company of approximately fifteen carloads to John A. Colby & Sons company of Chicago. The sale was negotiated by Robert W. Irwin, who stated that it was made possible through the recent consolidation of the Cooper-Williams company of Boston with Irwin interests. Mr. Irwin saw in the purchase by the Chicago firm a bold action expressing confidence in the future.

Production of Soft Coal Put at 8,000,000 Tons

The National Coal association, from incomplete car loading reports of railroads, estimates bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended Oct. 17 at around 8,000,000 net tons. This compares with the bureau of mines' report showing production of 7,856,000 tons for the week ended Oct. 10, and 7,860,000 net tons for the week ended Oct. 3.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1923, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which wisely every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.
